Venice, December 4.

His State having resolt already told you, to have a very considerable Fléet of Men of War and Gallies at Sea in the Spring, the preparations in order thereunto are made with all possible diligence. It is said with much confidence that a League is treating between the Pope, the Emperor, and this Republick, and that Cardinal Ottobon has a great share in this important Négotiation. From Dalmatia we have an account that the Morlaques have not lately made any Incurssions into the Turkish Territories, but that they are only hindred from continuing their Hostilities by the illness of the weacher.

Genova, December 15. The Edward and John is arrived here with Oyles from Candia; The Isabella with Corn from Cape Negro; The Goodwill from the Coast of Spain bound to Venice; And the Genova Merchant and the Benjamin with Sugars from Lisbon. The Bretton is on departure for Cadix; and five Sail are now coming in, believed to be Dutch and Genoueses.

Crasow, Nov. 26. On Friday last we received Letters written the 17. Instant at Kimsombat 3 miles from Fillecke in Hungary, which inform us, that the King of Poland the day after the taking of Zitchin, which was on the 11. had sent to summon two Castles called Brißh and Holock, and that the Turks which were in Garrison there, not daring to expect a Siege, immediately yielded themselves to the King's mercy, who suffered them to retire to Buda, appointing some Troops to conduct them part of their way. That his Majesty had put Zitchin and the said Castles into the hands of the Imperialists for that Newbesel would thereby be the more streitned, and the communication between the Turks of that place and Buda and Pest, entirely cut off. That on the 13th. his Majesty marched to Kimsombat, the weather being very bad, and the ways very troublesome to pass. That on the 16th the General of Lithuania, met his Majesty there; but his Troops were behind, which the King resolved to expect, being desirous to see them before they went into their Winter-quarters. The Sieur Crocowski continues before Stawwick; but it is thought he will be forced to quit that Enterprize, his Troops not being able to subsist any longer in the Field, and the Turks making a very resolute defence. We are making great preparations here for a magnificent reception of his Majesty, tho' we do not yet certainly know when to expect him.

Dantzicke, December 4. Our Letters from Crasow give us an account that the Magistrates of that City had resolved to build several Triumphal Arches, and to make other preparations for the reception of their King in his return from Hungary.

But from Warsaw they write, that it was very confidently reported that his Majesty hath resolved to pass the Winter at Esperies, that he may be near his Troops, and have a quicker eye upon affairs on that side, and the rather for that there is a discourse that some Overtures have been made for a Peace. The Letters from Warsaw farther tell us, that they had advice from Hungary that Count Teckeley constituted him to his Engagements with the Turks. That several Expresses had passed between him and the Grand Visier; and that he had received from him assurances of a powerful assistance in the Spring. That Count Teckeley had been several days at Kimasoboth and Poracke, but that not thinking himself secure there, he was retired among the Turks.

Copenhagen, December 7. It is said, the King of Denmark hath resolved to raise four new Regiments of Foot and two of Horse, and that the Officers appointed for that service having received their Commissions and Moneys, will now begin their Levies. Here is arrived an Envoy from the Princes of Lunenburg, he has had his Audience of the King, and we are told that from hence he is to go to the Court of Sweden. The Sieur Cojet, Envoy Extraordinary from the King of Sweden, continues still here.

Ratisbonne, Decemb. 13. The Letters from Linze of the 7th Instant tell us, that the Emperor has made the Prince of Pietrichstein Chk. Steward of his Household; The Count Wolf von Ottingen, President of the Council of the Court; and that it was believed the Bishop of Vienna, would be declared the Emperor's first Minister. That Count Berka had begun his Journey for Denmark, from whence he is to go to the Court of Sweden; and that the Baron Freytag, whom his Imperial Majesty is sending to Poland to assist at the Conference appointed to be held between the Poles and the Moscovites at Smolensko, for the composing the differences about their Limits, would be dispatched in few days. That the Chief quarter of the Imperial Troops in Hungary, which was appointed to be at Newsal, would be removed to Presburg. By reason of the scarcity of Provisions in those parts. That General Kavata had regulated matters with relation to the Mine Towns, and had displaced several of the Magistrates and Officers of the Mines that were put in by Count Teckeley, has confirmed others, and restored some Churches to the Roman Catholics. That Teckeley, being refused a retreat into Montatz by the Prince Racozek was upon the approach of the Poles, retired among the Turks; several of his friends having before deserted him, and particularly Gabor, who commanded in the last Campaign the Hungarian Nobility under him, and hath obtained the Emperor's pardon.

Francfort, December 15. It hath been reported that the Imperial Court would remove from Linze to Prague to pass the Winter there; but the

the last Letters from Linz told us, that his Imperial Majesty seems rather inclin'd to return to Vienna. The same Letters added, that the Pope had writt to the Emperor to exhort him rigorously to pursue the War against the Turks, and to assure him of all the Assistances which he can possibly give or procure for him. And that they had Advice from Rome that the Pope intended to make a general promotion of the Officers of the Chamber, who usually give great sums of money upon the entring into their Employments, which they say will raise a Million of money.

Cologne, December 17. The 15th Instant the Elector of Cologne went hence for Bonn; It is said he is gone out to Hunt near that place, and that he will very suddenly return hither, but many seem to be of a contrary opinion, believing his Electoral Highness is much dissatisfied with the carriage of these people, and that he will again fix his residence at Bonn, and are much troubled at it, being perswaded that his presence would very much contribute to the preventing the disorders that is feared will break out here on the occasion of choosing new Magistrates, which is now at hand. They write from Ruisborne that the Cavalry of Suabia and Franconia were pass'd by that place in their return from Hungary.

Hamburg, December 16. Great quantities of Corn are bought up by the Danish Commissaries, which it's said will be laid up here against Spring. We are told that the King of Denmark hath given out Commissions for the raising several new Regiments. The Duke of Zell is Hunting in the neighbourhood of Wintzen, but is expected the next week at Hanoer, where it's said a great Conference will be held between the Princes of Lunenburgh. They tell us from Berlin that the Elector of Brandenburg hath been very ill of the Gout, but that he begun to be much eased. There are Letters from Warsaw, which tell us, they had an account from Hungary that Count Teckeley was very sick, but they do not say where he was.

Liege, December 17. The French pretending to put a Garrison into Suy, the Magistrates of that place have had recourse to the Elector of Cologne, to know how they must in that case behave themselves. We are told that his Electoral Highness intends to come hither presently after Christmas, and to assemble the States of this Country.

Paris, December 29. On Sunday last Monsieur de Marets, Inendant of the Finances, parted from hence in pursuance of an Order he had received from the King to retire to his Estate at Musibais in Perche. And the Sieur de Perthant, who was about 10 days agoe committed to the Bastille, has been since removed to Phoeet, and it's said his Process is forming. They write from Flanders that the Marschal a Flanders was enter'd with 20000 men into the Country of Wes. And that the Kings Troops on the side of Luxemburg had appeared before that place, and shot some Bombs into the Town; and that the Spaniards had made a sally, of which our next Letters will more particularly inform us. We have Advice that a French and Spanish Man of War meeting in the Bay of Allicant, and a dispute arising concerning the salute, they fought, and that the Spanish ship at last blew up, few of none of the men escaping. Our Letters from Linz give an account that the King of Poland, according to their last Advices was still in Hungary, and that Prince Alexander his Son had since the taking of Zitichin attacked and made himself Master of a very strong Castle, in which were 600 Janisaries. That Count Teckeley was retired to Waradin having sufficiently discovered the little inclination he has to submit himself to the Emperor. And that they had Advice from several hands that the Grand Signior had caus'd the Grand Visier to be strangled, and had rais'd Cupertog, a man of a very good reputation, and who was with his Brother the then Grand Visier, in the War of Candia, but that they did not give an entire credit to it.
