

order and direct that the said four hackney carriages, or any less number than four that shall at any time happen to be upon the said standing, shall stand in a direct line following each other, in the middle of the said street; and that every of the said four hackney carriages, or any less number than four which shall at any time be upon the said last mentioned standing, next to each other, shall stand at the distance of two feet from the horse or horses attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said last mentioned standing; and that the said four hackney carriages allowed to stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing, may stand and ply for hire upon the said standing during the whole of every day and night.

And this Court doth hereby further appoint that part of the street, called the Minories, in the said city, extending from opposite George-street to the boundary of the city liberty, next Little Tower-hill, in the middle of the said street only, to be a proper place for twenty-four hackney carriages to stand and ply for hire there, in a direct line following each other; and doth hereby order and direct that the said twenty-four hackney carriages, or any less number than twenty-four that shall at any time happen to be upon the said last mentioned standing, shall stand in a direct line following each other, in the middle of the said street; and that every of four of the said twenty-four hackney carriages, or any less number than four which shall at any time be upon the said last mentioned standing next to each other, shall stand at the distance of two feet from the horse or horses attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said standing; and that after every four of such carriages which shall be upon the said last mentioned standing, there shall be left a clear space of ten feet from the horse or horses attached to every fifth, ninth, thirteenth, seventeenth, and twenty-first of such hackney carriages being upon the said standing; and that the whole of such twenty-four hackney carriages allowed to stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing, may stand and ply for hire upon the said standing during the whole of every day and night.

And this Court doth hereby further appoint that part of the street or place called Great Tower-hill, in the said city, extending from opposite the north-east end of Lower Thames-street to the south-east end of Great Tower-street, in the middle of the said street only, to be a proper place for eight hackney carriages to stand and ply for hire there, in a direct line following each other; and doth hereby order and direct that the said eight hackney carriages, or any less number than eight that shall at any time happen to be upon the said last mentioned standing, shall stand in a direct line following each other, in the middle of the said street; and that each of four of the said eight hackney carriages, or any less number than four, which shall at any time be upon the said last mentioned standing, next to each other, shall stand at the distance of two feet from the horse or horses attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said standing; and that after the first four of such carriages which shall be upon the said last mentioned standing, there shall be left a clear space of ten feet from the horse or horses attached to the fifth of such hackney carriages being upon the said standing; and that the whole of such eight hackney carriages allowed to stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing may stand and ply for hire upon the said standing during the whole of every day and night.

And this Court doth hereby further appoint that part of the streets, called the Crutched-friars, and John-street, in the Minories, in the said city, extending from opposite Savage-gardens, in Crutched-friars aforesaid, to that part of John-street aforesaid, opposite to America-square, in the middle of the said streets only, to be a proper place for four hackney carriages to stand and ply for hire there, in a direct line following each other; and doth hereby order and direct that the said four hackney carriages, or any less number than four that shall at any time happen to be upon the said standing, shall stand in a direct line following each other, in the middle of the said streets; and that every of the said four hackney carriages, or any less number than four which shall at any time be upon the said last mentioned standing, next to each other, shall stand at the distance of two feet from the horse or horses attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said last mentioned standing; and that the said four hackney carriages allowed to stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing, may stand and ply for hire upon the said standing during the whole of every day and night.

And this Court doth hereby further appoint that part of the street called Redcross-street, Cripplegate without, in the liberties of the said city, which extends from opposite to Jewin-street to within fifty yards of Barbican, in the middle of the said street only, to be a proper place for eight hackney carriages to stand and ply for hire there, in a direct line following each other; and doth hereby order and direct that the said eight hackney carriages, or any less number than eight that shall at any time happen to be upon the said last mentioned standing, shall stand in a direct line following each other, in the middle of the said street; and that each of four of the said eight hackney carriages, or any less number than four which shall at any time be upon the said last mentioned standing, next to each other, shall stand at the distance of two feet from the horse or horses attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said standing; and that after the first four of such carriages which shall be upon the said last mentioned standing, there shall be left a clear space of ten feet from the horse or horses attached to the fifth of such hackney carriages being upon the said standing; and that the whole of such eight hackney carriages allowed to stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing, may stand and ply for hire upon the said standing during the whole of every day and night.

And this Court doth hereby further appoint that part of the street called Aldersgate-street without, in the liberties of the said city, extending from opposite to Edmund-place, in Aldersgate street aforesaid, to within thirty feet of that part of the same street opposite to Long-lane, in the middle of Aldersgate-street aforesaid only, to be a proper place for eight hackney carriages to stand and ply for hire there, in a direct line following each other; and doth hereby