

attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said standing; and that after every four of such carriages which shall be upon the said last mentioned standing, there shall be left a clear space of ten feet from the horse or horses attached to every fifth, ninth, and thirteenth of such hackney carriages being upon the said standing; and that the whole of such sixteen hackney carriages allowed to stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing, may stand and ply for hire upon the said standing during the whole of every day and night.

And this Court doth hereby further appoint that part of Blackman-street, in the borough of Southwark aforesaid, extending from opposite Saint George's Church to the end of Blackman-street aforesaid, in the middle of the said street only, to be a proper place for twenty-four hackney carriages to stand and ply for hire there, in a direct line following each other; and doth hereby order and direct that the said twenty-four hackney carriages, or any less number than twenty-four that shall at any time happen to be upon the said last mentioned standing, shall stand in a direct line following each other, in the middle of the said street; and that every of four of the said twenty-four hackney carriages, or any less number than four which shall at any time be upon the said last mentioned standing, next to each other, shall stand at the distance of two feet from the horse or horses attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said standing; and that after every four of such carriages which shall be upon the said last mentioned standing, there shall be left a clear space of ten feet from the horse or horses attached to the fifth, ninth, thirteenth, seventeenth, and twenty-first of such hackney carriages being upon the said standing; and that the whole of such twenty-four hackney carriages allowed to stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing, may stand and ply for hire upon the said standing during the whole of every day and night.

And this Court doth hereby further appoint that part of the street or road, at the stones' end, in the Borough of Southwark, opposite the King's-Bench Prison, extending from the stones' end, next Blackman-street aforesaid, for the space of one hundred and ninety feet along the said street or road opposite the said prison, in the middle of the said street or road only, to be a proper place for four hackney carriages to stand and ply for hire there, in a direct line following each other; and doth hereby order and direct that the said four hackney carriages, or any less number than four that shall at any time happen to be upon the said last mentioned standing, shall stand in a direct line following each other, in the middle of the said street; and that every of the said four hackney carriages, or any less number than four which shall at any time be upon the said last mentioned standing, next to each other, shall stand at the distance of two feet from the horse or horses attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said last mentioned standing; and that the said four hackney carriages allowed to stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing, may stand and ply for hire upon the said standing during the whole of every day and night.

And this Court doth hereby further appoint that part of the street, called Bridge-street, in the borough of Southwark, leading southward from Southwark bridge, hereinbefore mentioned, towards Union-street, and extending from opposite the Vinegar-yard to the lamp-pillar, in Bridge-street aforesaid, in the middle of the said street only, to be a proper place for four hackney carriages to stand and ply for hire there, in a direct line following each other; and doth hereby order and direct that the said four hackney carriages, or any less number than four that shall at any time happen to be upon the said last mentioned standing, shall stand in a direct line following each other, in the middle of the said street; and that every of the said four hackney carriages, or any less number than four which shall at any time be upon the said last mentioned standing, next to each other, shall stand at the distance of two feet from the horse or horses attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said last mentioned standing; and that the said four hackney carriages allowed to stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing, may stand and ply for hire upon the said standing during the whole of every day and night.

And this Court doth hereby further appoint that part of the street, called Free School-street, in the borough of Southwark aforesaid, extending from the east end of the said street to the west end of Thornton-street, in the said borough, in the middle of the said street only, to be a proper place for four hackney carriages to stand and ply for hire there, in a direct line following each other; and doth hereby order and direct that the said four hackney carriages, or any less number than four that shall at any time happen to be upon the said standing, shall stand in a direct line following each other, in the middle of the said street; and that every of the said four hackney carriages, or any less number than four which shall at any time be upon the said last mentioned standing, next to each other, shall stand at the distance of two feet from the horse or horses attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said last mentioned standing, and that the said four hackney carriages allowed to stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing, may stand and ply for hire upon the said last mentioned standing during the whole of every day and night.

And this Court doth hereby further appoint that part of the street or place, called Prospect-place, in St. George's-fields, near the Elephant and Castle Inn, extending along Prospect-place aforesaid, for the space of two hundred and ninety-eight feet, in the middle of the said street only, to be a proper place for eight hackney carriages to stand and ply for hire there in a direct line following each other; and doth hereby order and direct that the said eight hackney carriages, or any less number than eight that shall at any time happen to be upon the said last mentioned standing, shall stand in a direct line following each other, in the middle of the said street, and that each of four of the said eight hackney carriages or any less number than four which shall at any time be upon the said last mentioned standing, next to each other, shall stand at the distance of two feet from the horse or horses attached to the next succeeding hackney carriage upon the said standing, and that