VICE-CHANCELLOR.—Thursday the 23d day of February, in the second year of the reign of His Majesty King William the Fourth, 1832, between Benjamin Hopkinson and others, Plaintiffs; Thomas Hopkinson and others, Defendants.

FORASMUCH as this Court was this present day informed by Mr. Heathfield, of Counsel for the plaintiff, that it appears by the affidavit of Samuel Amory, Solicitor for the plaintiffs in this cause, David Hopkinson, one of the plaintiffs, William Willis and Samuel Farrell, Clerk to the said Samuel Amory, now produced and read, first, that the said deponent Samuel Farrell, for himself saith, that the Bill in this cause was filed as of Trinity Term last; and that he, the said deponent, went many times to the chambers of the defendant, Thomas Hopkinson, in Church-Yard-Court, in the Inner Temple, for the purpose of serving him with process of subpoena, but could not meet with the said defendant; and the said deponent saith, that, after much trouble, he effected service thereof on the defendant's servant, at the said chambers; and that the said deponent Samuel Amory, for himself, saith, that on process of subpoena being served on the said defendant, he, the said deponent, wrote several letters to a Mr. Beavan, of Sackville-Street, Piccadilly, the Solicitor for the said defendant, on the subject of an appearance, and which the said Mr. Beavan refused to enter for the said defendant; and the said deponent saith, that no appearance having been entered for the said defendant, he, the said deponent, caused attachments to be issued into the County Palatine of Lancaster, into the City of London, and also into the County of Middlesex; and the said deponent hath no doubt, but verily believes the fact to be, that the said defendant absconds to avoid being served with the process of this Court; and, in justification of such opinion, he, the said deponent, says he has been informed and believes, that it is the determination of the said defendant, Thomas Hopkinson, to keep himself out of the way, in order to impede the due prosecution of this suit until the last child (meaning the youngest of the plaintiffs in this cause) should come of age; and that the said deponent; David Hopkinson, for himself, saith, that the said defendant, Thomas Hopkinson, was, at the time of the issuing of the process of subpoena against him, living and residing at his Chambers, in Church-Yard-Court, in the Inner Temple, London, and that he is now living and residing at Montreuil, in the Kingdom of France; and that the said deponent, William Willis, for himself, saith, that the three attachments issued against the said defendant, Thomas Hopkinson, into the County of Middlesex, having been put into the hands of the said deponent by the other deponent, Samuel Amory, for execution, he, the said deponent, used and exercised due diligence to execute the same against the said defendant, but without effect.—It is thereupon ordered, that the said defendant, Thomas Hopkinson, do appear to the plaintiff's bill on or before the 15th day of March next.
