NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Dock-Office, Liverpool, January 10, 1833.

THE Trustees of the Liverpool Docks and Harbour hereby give notice, that the late surveys of the different channels to the said harbour are now completed, and that the following alterations have been made, and additional land-marks and buoys have been placed in the situations described, and for the purposes hereafter mentioned, viz.

A new beacon is erected opposite to the entrance of the Formby Channel, in a line with the S. E. landmark, bearing from the said landmark N. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. by compass, in a line with the deep water of that channel, wherein the N. W. and Fairway Buoys are placed a little on the S. W. or inside of that line.

The old N. W. Beacon of the Formby Channel will remain until the 1st of March next, after which it will be taken down.

The Grange Swashway, now called the South Channel, having been found a very safe one, and to have at least eight to ten feet on the bar, at the Western Entrance, at low water, spring-tides, a beacon buoy has been placed in about four fathoms water, in a line with the Upper Lighthouse, at Hoylake, and the Grange Mill, in Cheshire, bearing S. $\frac{3}{4}$ W. by compass, which beacon buoy also bears W. by N. from the S. E. Formby land-mark and a beacon which has been erected on the sand-hills, in front, with the same bearing.

The Floating Light Ship bears from this beacon buoy S. W. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. distant four miles.

The N. W. Buoy of Formby Channel bears from ditto N. N. E. distant five miles; and the W. Buoy of Jordan's Spit bears from ditto E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. distant $1\frac{1}{2}$ mile nearly.

At the western entrance of the Grange Swashway, or South Channel, a buoy, painted red, has been placed, on the Burbo side, and one painted black, on Jordan's Bank; and the like have been placed on each side of the eastern entrance of the said channel, the Fairway, or deep water, being about midway betwixt the said buoys.

A buoy, painted white, has been placed on the S. W. point, or corner, of the Four Feet Flats, in the Horse Channel; and a buoy, also painted white, has been placed on the eastern entrance of the Patch Shoal.

An additional buoy, painted black, has been placed between Spencer's Spit Buoy and the Black Buoy, on the North Bank.

At Hoylake two log buoys have been laid down, in the said channel, betwixt Helbre and the Red Stones.

Three improved lanterns, of a circular form, will be exhibited on the Floating Light Ship in a few weeks, which will be seen with greater brilliancy and effect than those heretofore used.

The Grange, or South Channel, will, in many cases, be found of the utmost advantage to the navigation of this port.

By order of the Liverpool Dock Committee,
William Foster, Secretary.

GOSPORT.

Seven Freehold Dwelling-Houses and Tenements, Valuable Water-side Premises, and a Capital Floating-Dock, cost some few years since £3000, competent to dock a ship of 500 tons burthen.

TO be sold by auction, by Mr. Crook, at the India Arms Inn, Gosport, on Wednesday the 20th of February next, at One o'Clock precisely (by order of the Commissioners under a Fiat in Bankruptcy against William Parmeter, of Gosport, Ship-Builder, Dealer and Chapman, a Bankrupt);

Two compact freehold family residences, with stuccoed fronts, airy court-yards, detached offices, and spacious store-houses, and stable in the rear, with the convenience of a cart-way at the side, situate and being Nos. 12 and 13, on the Green, in the occupation of Messrs. Parmeter and Mansbridge.

Five newly erected brick-built messuages or tenements, each containing three rooms, situate on the Green, and at the entrance of Hobb's-Yard, leading to the High-Street, in the several occupations of Messrs. Woodridge, Young, King, and Langridge.

All those valuable and desirable freehold premises (with instant possession), called Fox's-Quay, measuring 61 feet by 40 feet, or thereabouts, situate on the Beach, in Gosport, and immediately abutting to Portsmouth-Harbour, with recently erected store-houses, mould-loft, office, blacksmiths'-shop, nail-room, and saw-shed.

These premises are particularly worthy the attention of timber-merchants, ship-builders (which business has been carried on on the above premises for many years, and stands unrivalled), coal-merchants, or general-dealers, being the most commanding in the Port.

All the Bankrupt's right and interest of and in all that inestimable concern, the Portsmouth and Gosport Floating-Dock, measuring 120 feet long and 45 feet broad, drawing 3 feet of water only, with all her appropriate blocks, pumps, chain, moorings, &c. &c.; which dock was built some few years since, under the immediate inspection of the late proprietor, regardless of expence, and upon the best construction, so as to render her perfect, if not superior to floating-docks generally, more particularly for the harbour in which she is fortunately placed.

The situation where she now lies is most desirable, being westward of the North Wharf, on the Gosport shore, where ships of 500 tons burthen can be docked with the greatest facility.

This valuable property presents to the speculator an advantage which cannot be adequately appreciated or described, especially as regards the dock, being the only floating one in the first maritime port in the kingdom.
