NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Dock-Office, Liverpool, January 10, 1833.

THE Trustees of the Liverpool Docks and Harbour hereby give notice, that the late surveys of the different channels to the said harbour are now completed, and that the following alterations have been made, and additional land-marks and buoys have been placed in the situations described, and for the purposes hereafter mentioned, viz.

A new beacon is erected opposite to the entrance of the Formby Channel, in a line with the S. E. landmark, bearing from the said landmark N. W.  $\frac{1}{2}$  N. by compass, in a line with the deep water of that channel, wherein the N. W. and Fairway Buoys are placed a little on the S. W. or inside of that line.

The old N. W. Beacon of the Formby Channel will remain until the 1st of March next, after which it will be taken down.

The Grange Swashway, now called the South Channel, having been found a very safe one, and to have at least eight to ten feet on the bar, at the Western Entrance, at low water, spring-tides, a beacon buoy has been placed in about four fathoms water, in a line with the Upper Lighthouse, at Hoylake, and the Grange Mill, in Cheshire, bearing S.  $\frac{3}{4}$  W. by compass, which beacon buoy also bears W. by N. from the S. E. Formby land-mark and a beacon which has been erected on the sand-hills, in front, with the same bearing.

The Floating Light Ship bears from this beacon buoy S. W. by W.  $\frac{1}{4}$  W. distant four miles.

The N. W. Buoy of Formby Channel bears from ditto N. N. E. distant five miles; and the W. Buoy of Jordan's Spit bears from ditto E.  $\frac{1}{2}$  N. distant  $1\frac{1}{2}$  mile nearly.

At the western entrance of the Grange Swashway, or South Channel, a buoy, painted red, has been placed, on the Burbo side, and one painted black, on Jordan's Bank; and the like have been placed on each side of the eastern entrance of the said channel, the Fairway, or deep water, being about midway betwixt the said buoys.

A buoy, painted white, has been placed on the S. W. point, or corner, of the Four Feet Flats, in the Horse Channel; and a buoy, also painted white, has been placed on the eastern entrance of the Patch Shoal.

An additional buoy, painted black, has been placed between Spencer's Spit Buoy and the Black Buoy, on the North Bank.

At Hoylake two log buoys have been laid down, in the said channel, betwixt Helbre and the Red Stones.

Three improved lanterns, of a circular form, will be exhibited on the Floating Light Ship in a few weeks, which will be seen with greater brilliancy and effect than those heretofore used.

The Grange, or South Channel, will, in many cases, be found of the utmost advantage to the navigation of this port.

By order of the Liverpool Dock Committee,
William Foster, Secretary.
