WHEREAS it hath been humbly represented unto the King, that, about ten o'clock on the night of Tuesday the 22d day of November last, a person called at the house of Mr. William Cox, of Dingley, in the county of Northampton, and enquired for him, and that on his making his appearance at the door, a quantity of oil of vitriol was immediately thrown in his face, by which he has been totally deprived of sight and otherwise seriously injured;

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Dock-Office, Liverpool, January 10, 1833.

THE Trustees of the Liverpool Docks and Harbour hereby give notice, that the late surveys of the different channels to the said harbour are now completed, and that the following alterations have been made, and additional land-marks and buoys have been placed in the situations described, and for the purposes hereafter mentioned:

A new beacon is erected opposite to the entrance of the Forthby Channel, in a line with the S. E. landmark, bearing from the said landmark N. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. by compass, in a line with the deep water of that channel, wherein the N. W. and Fairway Buoys are placed a little on the S. W. or inside of that line.

The old N. W. Beacon of the Forthby Channel will remain until the 1st of March next, after which it will be taken down.

The Grange Swashway, now called the South Channel, having been found a very safe one, and to have at least eight to ten feet on the bar, at the Western Entrance, at low water, spring-tides, a beacon buoy has been placed in about four fathoms water, in a line with the Upper Lighthouse, at Hoylake, and the Grange Mill, in Cheshire, bearing S. $\frac{3}{4}$ W. by compass, which beacon buoy also bears W. by N. from the S.E. Formby land-mark and a beacon which has been erected on the sand-hills, in front, with the same bearing.

The Floating Light Ship bears from this beacon buoy S. W. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. distant four miles.

The N. W. Buoy of Formby Channel bears from ditto N. N. E. distant five miles; and the W. Buoy of Jordan's Spit bears from ditto E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. distant $1\frac{1}{2}$ mile nearly.

At the western entrance of the Grange Swashway, or South Channel, a buoy, painted red, has been placed, on the Burbo side, and one painted black, on Jordan's Bank; and the like have been placed on each side of the eastern entrance of the said channel, the Fairway, or deep water, being about midway betwixt the said buoys.

A buoy, painted white, has been placed on the S. W. point, or corner, of the Four Feet Flats, in the Horse Channel; and a buoy, also painted white, has been placed on the eastern entrance of the Patch Shoal.

An additional buoy, painted black, has been placed between Spencer's Spit Buoy and the Black Buoy, on the North Bank.

At Hoylake two log buoys have been laid down, in the said channel, betwixt Hilbree and the Red Stones.

Three improved lanterns, of a circular form, will be exhibited on the Floating Light Ship in a few weeks, which will be seen with greater brilliancy and effect than those heretofore used.

The Grange, or South Channel, will, in many cases, be found of the utmost advantage to the navigation of this port.

By order of the Liverpool Dock Committee,
William Foster, Secretary.

VICE-CHANCELLOR.—Thursday the 24th day of January, in the third year of the reign of His Majesty King William the Fourth, 1833, between Edward Baker (Administrator of Eliza Peck, deceased), Plaintiff; Richard Keen, Defendant.

UPON motion this day made unto this Court by Mr. Simons, of Counsel for the plaintiff, it was alleged that it appears by the affidavit of William Shuffrey, of Witney, in the County of Oxford, Baker and Corn-Dealer, Thomas Whitlock, of the same place, Baker, and James Westell, of the same place, Gentleman, that the said deponent, William Shuffrey, knew, and was well acquainted with, the defendant, Richard Keen, late of Witney aforesaid, Cooper; and that he rented of the said deponent a house and premises in Corn-Street, in Witney aforesaid, and resided therein for eighteen months, or thereabouts, and up to the 22d day of February now last past; and that, on the said 22d day of February, the said defendant, Richard Keen, absconded and suddenly left his said residence in Witney aforesaid, and secretly and clandestinely conveyed therefrom his goods, effects, and family; that the said deponent, hearing that the said defendant, Richard Keen, intended to go out of the realm, and that he had gone to Liverpool, in the County of Lancaster, to take shipping, and he being greatly indebted to the said deponent, he, the said deponent, sued out process against the said defendant, Richard Keen, and went himself, on the 29th day of March now last past, to Liverpool, to assist in his capture; that the said deponent then and there saw one Thomas Fletcher, late of Witney aforesaid, Victualler, and other persons from Witney aforesaid, who informed the said deponent that they were all going to America, and that the said Richard Keen was in Liverpool, and had taken and paid for the passage of himself, his wife, and child from Liverpool to America, by the ship Cassandia, in which they should also sail; that the said deponent saw the said defendant, Richard Keen, afterwards in Liverpool, and was present when he was captured and arrested by an officer, and that he escaped from them, and was not afterwards (to the said deponent's knowledge) again seen in England; that the said deponent went on board the said ship Cassandia, then lying in the docks at Liverpool, and found, on enquiry of the persons on board, that the said Richard Keen had secured and paid for his own and his wife and child's passage in her to America, and then and there saw the said Thomas Fletcher and the said defendant's sister and her husband, one Charles Rawle, and others from Witney, on board the said ship; and that he hath since heard, and verily believes, that the said Richard Keen afterwards effected his passage out of the realm, beyond the seas, and hath since been,

and is now resident, in the United States of America:—And the said deponent, Thomas Whitlock, knew, and was well acquainted with, the said defendant, Richard Keen, and also with one Samuel Piesley, late of Witney aforesaid, Glazier; that the said Samuel Piesley, on the 13th day of February 1832, left his residence at Witney aforesaid, and went to reside in the City of Philadelphia, in the United States of America; that the said deponent has seen a letter from the said Samuel Piesley, and written, as he verily believes, in the proper hand writing of the said Samuel Piesley, with which he is well acquainted, dated at Philadelphia, the 20th day of July 1832, addressed to one Mr. Jackson, of Witney aforesaid, and that in the said letter the said Samuel Piesley wrote as follows, “Mr. and Mrs. Keen are residing in New York, and are very well;” and the said deponent believes that the said defendant, Richard Keen, was, on or before the 10th day of November last, out of this realm, and beyond the seas, and is now, or late was, resident at New York aforesaid:—And the said deponent, James Westell, on the 9th day of November now last past, went to the last place of abode of the defendant, Richard Keen, in Corn-Street, in Witney aforesaid, with a subpoena issuing out of, and under the seal of, this Court, by which said subpoena the said defendant was directed to appear in this Court, on the 10th day of November last past, at the suit of the plaintiff, as appeared to the said deponent by the label of the said subpoena: and that he enquired for the said defendant, and could not find or meet with him, so as to serve him with such subpoena, and that he was then informed that the said defendant, Richard Keen, was gone out of the realm, beyond the seas, and which the said deponent verily believes to be true: it was therefore prayed that the said defendant may be ordered to appear to the plaintiff’s Bill:—whereupon, and upon hearing the said affidavit read, this Court doth order that the defendant do appear to the plaintiff’s Bill, on or before the 1st day of March next.
