The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the sixth year of the reign of His present Majesty, intituled "An Act to provide for the regulation of municipal corporations in England and Wales," which received the Royal assent on the ninth of September last, after reciting that it was expedient that certain boroughs of large population should be divided into wards before any election of councillors for such boroughs should take place, it was, among other things, enacted, that every borough in the schedule (A.) to the said Act annexed, should be divided into the number of wards mentioned in such schedule, in conjunction with the name of such borough; and that it should be lawful for the barrister or barristers appointed, in pursuance of the provisions therein-before contained, to revise the burgess and councillors' lists of any borough in the present year, and he and they was and were thereby required, within the space of six weeks next after the passing of the said Act, to determine and set out the extent, limits, and boundary lines of such wards, and what portions of such borough should be included therein respectively, and the copy of the particulars of such division should be forthwith transmitted to one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and (if His Majesty, by the advice of His Privy Council, should approve such determination) should be published in the London Gazette, and every such borough should, after such publication as aforesaid, be deemed to be divided into such wards as should be so determined and set out as aforesaid, and such division should continue and be in force until the same should be altered by authority of Parliament: and it is thereby further enacted, that the said barrister or barristers should, after the division of the borough into such number of wards as is directed by the said Act, apportion among the several wards of such borough the number of councillors mentioned, in conjunction with the name of such borough, in the said schedule: provided always, that the number of councillors assigned to each ward should be a number divisible by three, and a copy of the particulars of the number of councillors so assigned to the several wards of the borough should be forthwith transmitted to one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and (subject as aforesaid to the approval of His Majesty, by the advice of His Privy Council) should be published in the London Gazette, and the number of councillors so assigned to each ward of such borough should, after such publication as aforesaid, be the number to be elected in such ward, and should so continue until the same should be altered by authority of Parliament: and it was thereby further enacted, that it should be lawful for His Majesty (if he should think fit, by the advice of His Privy Council) to order any days and times, before the first of February next, for doing the several matters required and authorised by the said Act to be done, in lieu of the several days and times for the present year therein-before specified, or any of them: and, in such case, all matters mentioned in such order should be done on and within such days and times as should be mentioned respectively in that behalf in such order, as if the days and times mentioned in such order had in every instance been mentioned in the said Act, instead of the days and times therein-before respectively mentioned in that behalf: and whereas, by an Order in Council, dated the thirtieth day of September last, His Majesty (by advice of His Privy Council) did order, that it should be lawful for the barrister or barristers appointed, in pursuance of the provisions in the said Act contained, to determine and set out the extent, limits, and boundary lines of the wards into which it is provided, by the said Act, that certain boroughs of large population should be divided, and what portions of such boroughs should be included therein respectively, within the space of sixty days next after the passing of the said Act, instead of the space of six weeks next after the passing of the said Act: and whereas John Samuel Graves, Esq. and A. Hayward, Esq. the barristers appointed, in pursuance of the provisions of the said Act, to revise the burgess and councillors' lists of the borough of Poole, in the present year (the said borough of Poole being one of the boroughs included in the said schedule), did, within sixty days next after the passing of the said Act, in due manner determine and set out the extent, limits, and boundary lines of the wards of the said borough, according to the provisions of the said Act, and what portions of the said borough shall be included therein respectively: and the said barristers, after the division of such borough into such number of wards as is directed by the said Act, and within the said period of sixty days, did, in due manner, apportion among the several wards of such borough the number of councillors mentioned, in conjunction with the name of such borough, in the said schedule: and the said barristers have duly transmitted a copy of the particulars of such division, and of the particulars of the number of councillors so assigned to the several wards of the said borough, to one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, in the words following, that is to say:

"Whereas, under and by virtue of a certain Act, of the fifth and sixth years of the reign of His present Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled "An Act to provide for the regulation of municipal corporations in England and Wales," it is provided and declared, that the borough of Poole shall be divided into two wards, being the number of wards mentioned in the first schedule of the said Act, in conjunction with the name of such borough, and that the councillors of the said borough to be elected under and by virtue of the said Act shall be eighteen, being the number in that behalf mentioned, in conjunction with the name of the said borough, in the same schedule: and whereas, in and by a certain Act, of the second and third years of His said Majesty, intituled "An Act to settle and describe the divisions of counties, and the limits of cities and boroughs in England and Wales, in so far as respects the election of Members to serve in Parliament," it was provided and declared, that the said borough should include and consist of the county of the town of Poole, the parish of Hamworthy, and the respective tythings of Parkstone and Longfleet. Now we, being the barristers appointed, in pursuance of the provisions of the first-mentioned Act, to revise the burgess and councillors' lists for the said borough for this present year, and also to divide the said borough into the number of wards in that behalf aforesaid, and to apportion the said number of councillors to and amongst the said wards, do hereby declare, determine, and award that the said borough shall be divided, and the same is hereby divided into two wards, in manner following (that is to say) one ward to consist of and include the tything of Parkstone, together with all and every parts and part of the said county of the town of Poole, lying or situate on the north or north-west of the centre of the street called the High-street, of and in the said borough: and the other ward, to consist of and include the whole of the remaining part or parts of the county of the said town (that is to say) all and every part and parts thereof lying or situate on the south or south-east of the centre of the said street, together with the parish of Hamworthy, and the tything of Longfleet, and every other part (if any) of the said borough not included in the first-mentioned ward: and it is hereby understood and declared, that for the purposes of such division, the separation line or boundary between the parts of the county of the said town so divided and apportioned as aforesaid, shall be the centre of the said street from the point, or place where the said street touches upon and adjoins the said parish of Longfleet, to the place or point where the said street touches upon and adjoins the quay, channel, or harbour of the said town; and that the boundaries of the county parish and tythings aforesaid, shall respectively be taken and understood to be the usual and recognized boundaries thereof: and we do hereby apportion and assign the said number of councillors equally between the said wards, that is to say, nine councillors to each of the wards aforesaid.—In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals this 16th day of October, in the year of our Lord 1835.

John Samuel Graves.
A. Hayward.

Now, therefore, His Majesty, by advice of His Privy Council, doth hereby approve of such determination of the said barristers, and of the number of councillors so assigned to each ward of the said borough, and doth order the same to be published, in the London Gazette accordingly.

And we do hereby further certify and declare, that having had due regard, as well to the number of persons rated to the relief of the poor, in each of the said wards, as to the aggregate amount of the sums, at which all the said persons are rated, we have assigned and apportioned the number of six councillors to each and every one of the said several wards. In witness whereof we have subscribed our names to this and the four preceding sheets, this twenty-fourth day of October, in the year of our Lord, 1835.

(Signed) E. E. Deacon,
F. Bailey."

Now, therefore, His Majesty (by advice of his Privy Council) doth hereby approve of such determination of the said barristers, and of the number of councillors so assigned to each ward of the said borough: and doth order the same to be published in the London Gazette, accordingly.
