Earl Marshal's-Office, June 21, 1837.

THIS day Her Majesty Queen Victoria was, in pursuance of an Order in Council of the 20th instant, proclaimed with the usual ceremonies:

At ten o'clock in the forenoon, Her Majesty having arrived from Kensington-palace, the Officers of Arms habited in their tabards; the Serjeants at Arms with their maces and collars; and Deputy Serjeant Trumpeter in his collar; the Trumpeters; Drum Major; and Knight Marshalmen; being assembled at St. James's-palace, the Proclamation was read in the Grand Court by Sir William Woods, Clarenceux King of Arms, Deputy to Sir Ralph Bigland, Garter Principal King of Arms, in the presence of Her Most Excellent Majesty the Queen, His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex, the Lord Chancellor, the Lord President of the Council, the Lord Privy Seal, the Earl Marshal of England, Her Majesty's Ministers, with Lords and others of the Privy Council, and several personages of distinction. Deputy Garter having read the Proclamation, the guns in St. James's-park and Tower of London were fired, and Her Majesty, attended by the Great Officers of State, retired.

Then the Officers of Arms having mounted on horses of the Life Guards, a procession was formed in the following order:—

The High Constable of Westminster, on horseback, carrying his staff.

A detachment of the Life Guards.

Constables of Westminster, with their staves.

The High Bailiff of Westminster.

Horse Guards.

Trumpets.

Knight Marshalmen, two and two.

Household Drums.

Kettle Drums.

Trumpets.

The Deputy Serjeant Trumpeter, in his collar, on foot.

Serjeants at Arms,
bearing their maces.

Serjeants at Arms,
bearing their maces:

Pursuivants.

Rouge Dragon,
Thos. Wm. King.

Rouge Croix,
Robert Laurie.

Bluemantle,
Geo. H. Rogers-Harrison:

Heralds.

Chester,

Walter Aston Blount, Esq.

York,

Somerset,

Chas. Geo. Young, Esq. Jas. Cathrow-Disney, Esq.

A detachment of Life Guards.

The procession, flanked by the Life Guards, moved from St. James's-palace to Charing-cross, where Somerset-Herald read the Proclamation.

From thence it moved to Temple-bar (the gates of which were closed), and Rouge Dragon Pursuivant of Arms advanced between two trumpeters, preceded by two of the Life Guards, to the gates; and after the trumpets had sounded thrice, demanded, in the usual form, admission into the City to proclaim Her
