Wm. L. Bathurst.

Whitehall, February 13, 1838.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to the Right Honourable Lord John Russell, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, were by him presented to Her Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously :

To the QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's loyal subjects, the Magistrates, Clergy, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants of the county of Pembroke, beg leave to approach your Throne, with sentiments of the deepest attachment to your Person and Government, and to offer you our sincere congratulations on your Accession to the dominions of this mighty empire.

Your wise and gracious demeanor on assuming the reigns of Government, has already secured for you the love and admiration of all your dutiful subjects, and has given them the liveliest expectation that the future splendour of your reign may more than rival the peaceful glories of your late Illustrious Predecessor.

And we earnestly pray to Almighty God, that He will be pleased to prolong, to a far distant period, your Majesty's reign over a free, a prosperous, and an united people.

Signed, for the Meeting,

John Adams, High Sheriff.

[Transmitted by the High Sheriff.]

To the QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's subjects, of all classes, residents of the capital of British India, beg leave to tender to your Majesty our heartfelt congratulations on the occasion of your Accession to the Throne of your Illustrious Ancestors.

In the records of their private worth and public bearing, in times of warfare and in times of peace, and in the living example of the parent, who has been mercifully spared to guide your youthful footsteps with safety and honour to the exalted station which you occupy and adorn, we discern our guarantee that what we hail, with all our best affections awakened, will prove to us, to our children, and to our country, a blessing and a pride.

Distant, as we are, from the object of our homage, that homage will necessarily follow at a long interval the welcomes of our more fortunate fellow-subjects assembled round you; but we doubt not your Majesty will graciously accept our tribute in the spirit in which it is proffered; and, at the moment of such gracious acceptance, we would humbly invite a benignant sympathy towards the land whence we address you. The vast extent of its varied population (comprehending eighty millions of your subjects, and forty millions of your allies and tributaries), with the many and magnificent plans and projects, in operation or in prospect, towards their improvement, its indigenous treasures and its commercial wealth, its infinite capabilities, and the increasing frequency of their beneficial development, and, finally, its intrinsic value and acknowledged importance to the British Crown, are no unworthy subjects of your regard. It is the land which has enriched, by turns, the most civilized nations of the earth; and, though not cherished hitherto with the warm sympathy which it merits, has maintained its vigour and its resources, and shines, as it has long shone, the brightest jewel of your diadem.

The dominion established in British India by the arms and wisdom of your Ancestors, although it may not claim to be the most perfect of human institutions, has, nevertheless, brought prosperity and security where anarchy and violence had reigned without controul; and, when we turn from the history of the past to look upon the present, we cannot but be deeply impressed with a grateful consciousness of the vast benefits which have accrued from the union through which we enjoy the blessings we acknowledge.

No season can be more appropriate to the expression of such sentiments, and the assertion of our attachment to the Crown and Constitution, than that of the Accession of your Majesty to the seat of empire; and we nothing doubt, Heaven seconding our prayers, that the name of Victoria shall become associated, in our hearts and in our annals, with all that is noble, great, and dignified.

May the Almighty Disposer of all events grant that your Majesty may long remain the chosen instrument of maintaining the honour and interests of the great empire which it has pleased Him to commit to your sovereignty, and of preserving to the nations which He has entrusted to your rule their safety, their freedom, their civil rights, and their religious liberties.

Signed by me, on behalf and by authority of a General Meeting of Inhabitants of the city of Calcutta, in Town-hall assembled, on Friday the 29th of September 1837, pursuant to requisition addressed to me on the 5th of the same month,
Thomas Holroyd, Sheriff.

Calcutta, September 29, 1837.

[Transmitted by Sir J. Hobhouse.]

To the QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the European and Native Inhabitants of the Presidency of Bombay, humbly desire to present our heartfelt congratulations to your Majesty, on the occasion of your Accession to the Throne of the British Empire.

Enjoying, as your Majesty's subjects in this country have ever done since it came under the dominion of British rule, the greatest security and protection in their rights and liberties, they gladly avail themselves of this happy occasion, to testify to your Majesty the grateful sense they entertain of the many blessings they enjoy, and the vast benefits they have received, from the wisdom and justice so conspicuously manifested in the government of India by your Illustrious Ancestors.

Some of the proudest periods in the history of our country are those in which the sceptre has been swayed by female Sovereigns; and educated as your Majesty has been, under the immediate and affectionate care of an Illustrious Parent, and in a warm attachment for the British Constitution, we may confidently expect that your Majesty's reign will be equally distinguished.

As regards your Majesty's eastern dominions, we have abundant reason to hope that it will ever be your Majesty's gracious desire to pursue the same wise policy, and, to the utmost of your power, to promote the welfare and happiness of all classes of your Majesty's subjects in these distant but vast and important possessions of the British Throne.

We, therefore, humbly entreat that your Majesty will be graciously pleased to accept these expressions of our fidelity and allegiance, and to permit us to assure you of our steady and loyal attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person; with our earnest prayers that the Almighty Disposer of all events may bless you with health and strength, may support you under your arduous duties, and of His goodness grant to your Majesty a long, a happy, and a prosperous reign.
