He War begun some years agone between Sultan Aureng Zeb, Emperor of the Mogols, and the Prince his Eldelf Son, Itill continues, but with jut any great Success on either fide The Raja Sevagi, Son ot a Prince of the lame Name, having taken the part of the young Prince, endeavored to make a powerful di-vertion to oblige the Emperor to divide his Troops, and thereby hinder the design he had to draw his Son to a general Battle.

Aureng Zeb sent part of his Forces against sewagi, who thereupon retired into the Mountains to avoid # Fight, and to weary the Mogols with a tedfous march, which fucceeded acweary the Mogois with a tedrous march, which indeceded ac-cordingly, the Troops of Aureng Zeb being forced to retire, after having for some Months in vain befieged Sevagi in places inaccessible. The Portuguele had given passage through their Territories to the totes of Aureng Zeb, at which Se-vagi was so incensed that he marched to Chaul, one of the chief places of the Portuguele, and besieged it; The siege had continued several months, and he had made three Assaults upon the place, but was as often repulfed with great lofs. In the Month of November last he left 12000 men before Chaul, and advanced with a like number towards Goa to surprize that City. He presently made himself Matter of the life of St. Islevam, which is near the Town, before any assistance could be sent thinter, and then advanced with a reannitance could be fent miner, and men advanced win a refolution to attack Goa; upon which Dop Francisco de Ta

400 men, and fell upon Sevagi with 60 much advantage, that he forced him to draw his Troops farther off, after having cut off about 900 of his belt men. The Viceroy was in this action wounded with a Musquet-fhor in the Arm, anth 28 Solaction wounded wind a mulquer-inion in me Arm, and 20 Soldiers and feveral Officers were killed. The next day $\text{S.vagi}$, fearing another Sally, retired in great diforder, after having burnt forme Villages about Goa, leaving feveral Pièces of Cannon and part of his Baggage behind him. The Viceroy fome days after went and befieged Ponda, but was obliged to quit that Enterprise upon the advice he received that Sevagi was marching with 80000 men to relieve the place; but 3000 men which Sevagi had detached to make a ravage in the Territories of the Portuguese, were cut in pieces by the Troops of the Viceroy. Sevagi to, repair his loss by some signal Enterprise, sent four days afterwards a great many men in light Vessels to make a descent near Goa, and to endeavour to surprize the City in the absence of the Viceroy and greated part of the Garison; The night was very dark, and the rose is ogreat a storm that most of the Vessels were cast away upon the siles of Moranugam, which lie in the encast and the sent and the sent as the sent as the sent and the sent as the vessels and the vessels are cast away upon the siles of Moranugam, which lie in the encast as the sent as the sent as the vessels are sent as the vessels and the vessels are cast away upon the siles of Moranugam, which lie in the encast as the sent as the vessels are sent as the vessels and the vessels are sent as the vessels are sent as the diers and several Officers were killed. The next day Savagi, and the role to great a florm that mott of the Vessels were cast away upon the sites of Muranugam, which lie in the entrance of the Ear of Goa; and many of the Earmy were made Prisoners by the Portuguese. These ill Successes made Sevagi send Propositions of Peace to the Vicerny, but he rejected them with Contempt, and fint back his Deputy: Since that time Sevagi is returned with all his Forces to continue the Siege of Chaul; and Aureng Zeb has sent to the assistance of the Portuguese fix high bullt Ships, 12 Frigars, 45 Parangos or Galiots, with Several other light Vessels with Oars, with Ammunition and Provisions, and a considerable Body of Horse and Foot, and the Vicerty is preparing to Chaul.
