St. James's-Palace, May 23, 1838.

This day the following Address was presented to Her Majesty, at the Levee, by the Marquess of Westmeath, which Her Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously:

To the QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders, and Inhabitants of the county of Westmeath, beg leave humbly to approach your Majesty with the expression of our sincere condolence on the death of our late revered Sovereign, whose honest wishes for the improvements of the institutions of the country have endeared his memory to all classes of your Majesty's subjects.

We crave permission to assure your Majesty of our sincere fidelity to the Succession to the Throne in your Majesty's sacred Person, and our unalterable attachment to those principles of civil and religious liberty which have called the illustrious House of Brunswick to the Sovereignty of these United Realms; and we pray the protection of the Almighty upon your Majesty's right intentions to govern us according to the same, and that He may be mercifully pleased to bless your Majesty with a prosperous reign, and length of days to rule over a free and grateful people.

Foreign-Office, May 28, 1838.

The following Address, having been transmitted by the Chief Superintendent of British trade in China, to the Right Honourable Viscount Palmerston, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, was by him presented to Her Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To the QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, now resident at Canton, in the empire of China, beg most respectfully to tender at your Majesty's feet, the expression of our condolence upon the loss which your Majesty and the nation have sustained, by the demise of our late gracious Sovereign.

Impressed with the deep earnestness of far distant men, we humbly and fervently pray to Almighty God, that your Majesty's reign, so auspiciously commenced, may be long and glorious; and that the name of your Majesty may be associated to the end of all time with things religious, enlightened, and humane.

Whitehall, May 29, 1838.

The following Addresses of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, having been transmitted by Robert Montgomery Lord Belhaven, Her Majesty's Commissioner, to the Right Honourable Lord John Russell, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, have been by him presented to the Queen; which Addresses Her Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously:

May it please your Majesty,

YOUR Majesty's most gracious Letter has been received by us with sentiments of lively satisfaction and gratitude. Firmly attached to the Protestant faith, we have ever adhered to the Family of your Royal House, and we rejoice to know that your Majesty recognises the attachment which your loyal subjects feel towards your Royal House, as intimately connected with their attachment to the Protestant faith; and that your Majesty has willingly renewed the solemn obligation to maintain the Church of Scotland in all its rights and privileges, as by law established.

The questions which will engage our attention in this Assembly are of deep importance to the people of Scotland; and, we trust, that in our decisions, our calmness and moderation shall be known and manifest to all men, and that our decisions may thereby promote the peace of society, and secure the respect of the people committed to our charge.

Having been entrusted with the spiritual interests of the people of Scotland, we receive with heartfelt joy the expression of your Majesty's anxiety to promote their moral and religious instruction, and of your confidence, from past experience, in the manner in which we shall acquit ourselves of that sacred trust which we are bound by our ordination vows to fulfil; and it is our earnest prayer, that we may never, either in our public deliberations, or in the discharge of our duties in our separate localities, lose sight of that great object, in the attainment of which every inhabitant in this part of your Majesty's dominions may know and believe, the truth as it is in Jesus.

Your Majesty may rest assured, that no pains will be spared by us to inculcate on our respective flocks, submission to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake, and to recommend to them, under the happy form of Government with which they have been blessed, to lead quiet and peaceable lives, in all godliness and honesty.

The appointment of Lord Belhaven to represent your Royal Person in this Assembly is most acceptable to us; our knowledge of the purity of his character, and our past experience of the ability, and of the kindness and urbanity, with which he has discharged the duties of his high office, have gained for him the respect and the attachment of the Members of our Church.

We have received with sincere gratitude your Majesty's donation of two thousand pounds, in aid of the education of the inhabitants of the Highlands and Islands of Scotland, and it shall be our anxious desire to apply this sum in such a manner as may best promote the religious and moral ends for which it has been bestowed.

In all our deliberations it is our fervent prayer that Almighty God may guide us, and that He may give us that wisdom which cometh from above; so that brotherly love may continue among us.

That He, by whom Kings reign, and who in His mercy has raised your Majesty to rule over this great people; may long preserve you to be a blessing to this great nation; that He may give you to enjoy all comfort in the duties of your exalted station, and that He may endue you with grace to be found faithful in the high trust which He has committed to you; and that, being found faithful, you may be blessed with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ Jesus, and may finally receive a crown of life in the kingdom of our Lord and Saviour, is the earnest and devout prayer of, may it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most dutiful and most loyal subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland.

Signed, in our name, in our presence, and by our appointment, by William Muir, Moderator.

Edinburgh, May 19, 1838.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland, representing the several Presbyteries, Universities, and Royal Burghs, in this first General Assembly since your Majesty's Accession, eagerly seize the occasion now presented to us, of expressing our condolence with your Majesty and the Royal Family on the death of our late beloved Sovereign, and offering our cordial congratulations on your Majesty's Elevation to the Throne of your Ancestors.

Approving of the promptitude with which the Commission of the last General Assembly instructed a deputation of their number to convey to your Majesty their assurances of devoted attachment, and, concurring entirely in the sentiments expressed by them, we have felt highly gratified by their report of your Majesty's favourable reception of that act of homage performed by the representatives of this National Church.

In looking back to the peaceful reign which was closed last year, we feel ourselves bound to express our thankfulness to the Supreme Ruler, in whose hands are hearts of kings, and by whose favour our late gracious Monarch was enabled to fulfil the duties of his lofty station, with such fidelity and mildness as to secure the affections of all classes of his subjects, whose unfeigned grief at his departure was a strong testimony of the respectful feelings with which they had contemplated his amiable character and tranquil administration.

It has afforded us most sincere gratification to perceive how cordially the inhabitants of the United Kingdom have hailed your Majesty's assumption of the regal power, and how universal has been the admiration of the mature dignity and gracefulness with which, in early youth, the functions of Government have been sustained by a Sovereign Princess, who possesses so many hereditary, as well as personal, claims on their fealty.

It is our earnest hope that, through the Divine Grace, your Majesty will be so guided and strengthened under the solicitudes of greatness, that the fulfilment of the most arduous duties may prove a source of unfailling satisfaction to your own heart, and of the most substantial benefits to your subjects.

It has been most pleasing to us to learn how cheerfully the constitutional pledge, required by the Act of Union, was proffered by your Majesty, to maintain and preserve inviolably the settlement of the true Protestant Religion, with the government, worship, discipline, rights, and privileges of the Church of Scotland as established by the laws of the land, laws which were framed for the purpose of securing to this National Establishment the same privileges which are enjoyed by any other branch of the Protestant Church in the British dominions. The attachment of the people of Scotland to the Family from which your Majesty is descended, was founded originally on their known zeal for the cause of the Reformation, and they have ever regarded the stability of that august House as, under Providence, one of the bulwarks of the Protestant faith, and of the inestimable benefits of civil and religious freedom.

Actuated by these views and principles, we account it a sacred duty to encourage and exhort the people under our charge to maintain their loyalty to your Majesty unshaken, and to render that willing obedience to the laws which the precepts of the Gospel require, not only for wrath but for conscience sake.

That the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ may multiply to your Majesty all temporal blessings, and enrich you with the treasures of grace, that He may establish your Throne in righteousness and teach your senators wisdom; that there may be peace and truth in your days, and that when our posterity shall walk about Zion, numbering her towers and considering her palaces, they may have cause to speak of the wisdom and knowledge which were the stability of the times when a Protestant Queen, who had been taught to fear the Lord from her youth, was a nursing mother to the churches; which, keeping the unity of the spirit, and putting on charity, the bond of perfectness, had rest and were multiplied; and that, when the lustre of temporal power shall have faded away, you may receive an inheritance with them that are sanctified, in that kingdom which shall not be moved, is the heart's desire and prayer of, may it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most faithful, most loyal, and most obedient subjects, the Ministers and Elders of this General Assembly of the Church of Scotland.
