St. James's-Palace, July 18, 1838.

This day the following Address was presented to Her Majesty, at the Levee, by the Mayor of Norwich; which Her Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously:

To Her Most Excellent Majesty QUEEN
VICTORIA.

The humble Address of the Body Corporate of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Borough and City of Norwich, in Council assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the city of Norwich, humbly offer our most hearty congratulations on your Majesty's Accession to the Crown of these realms.

It is not, Gracious Madam, in the common sentiment of a devoted loyalty alone, that we find our motives for this Address.

We are not without a clear perception of the benefits the empire derives from the sound principles of your Majesty's education, no less than from your kindly disposition towards all your subjects. These principles and this disposition are comprehensively shewn in your choice and steadfast support of Ministers, who, if there were ever an administration entitled to be esteemed the Government of the people, have the most undoubted claim to that constitutional character. We appeal to their acts. They have done more for the social, moral, and commercial improvement of the empire, than had been previously effected by all the Governments of the past century. We feel that it is by your Majesty's firm support of the people's representatives in the House, that the Commons of England have been enabled, not indeed, to carry out their entire course of intended and necessary reforms; but to maintain the advances the country has made, and is most desirous to continue, by the settlement of the Irish questions, by a system of national instruction, establishing the highest practical degree of national civilization, and by the extinction of all grounds of dispute concerning ecclesiastical taxation. It is owing, we emphatically repeat, to your Majesty's sense and firmness that the Government of the people has maintained itself against the corruptions of party, the obstinacy of aristocratic power, and the encroachments of democratic innovation.

In conclusion we most heartily pray, that your Majesty may preserve through the long duration of time, your youth gives every hope you may enjoy them, the blessings of health, happiness, sovereignty, and peace, and, above all, the love of your people.

Given under our common seal, at the Guildhall of the said borough and city, the 29th day of June, in the second year of your Majesty's reign, and in the year of our Lord 1838.
