

from the salient angle of the fort, extending to 549 acres, or thereby; of which 146 acres are arable, and 383 acres pasture, gravel, and sand; with the salmon fishing along the coast of said lands.

The greater part of the arable land consists of a soil of fine vegetable mould of considerable depth, and is capable of growing grain crops of the finest quality, besides being well adapted for the turnip husbandry.

The situation of this property is equally convenient and desirable. It possesses about one mile and three quarters of a mile of sea coast, with the right of erecting salmon stake nets thereon, the shipping beach of Campbellton being a part of the same, and its western boundary (separating it from the garrison ground) is within a very short distance of the fort, where a ready market can always be had for every kind of farm produce.

The land and salmon fishing are at present out of lease.

Part of the land adjoining the village of Campbellton is well adapted for feuing, and may be disposed of to great advantage.

There are no public or parochial burdens affecting the lands.

Sealed tenders will be received till the 15th day of September next, by the Secretary to the Board of Ordnance, Pall-mall, London; by Lieutenant-Colonel Blanchard, Commanding Royal Engineer, North Britain; or by William Waddell, W. S. Edinburgh, Solicitor to the Board of Ordnance, who is in possession of the title deeds and conditions of sale upon which tenders require to be made. The conditions of sale may also be seen on application as above.

By order of the Board of Ordnance,
R. Byham, Secretary.
