The Mountain Club was organized in 1887 for the purpose of promoting the study of the mountains of the United States. The club has since that time been engaged in a variety of scientific and literary work, and has published a number of valuable papers and books. The present volume is the tenth number of the club's magazine, and contains a number of interesting articles on the mountains of the United States. The articles are written by some of the most prominent mountaineers and geographers of the country, and are of a high order of scientific and literary merit. The magazine is published quarterly, and is one of the most valuable sources of information on the mountains of the United States.
