Severn Navigation.

WHEREAS at the close of the last session of the last Parliament a Bill was pending in the Honourable the House of Commons, intituled "A Bill for improving the navigation of the river Severn from the Lower Parting, in the county of Gloucester, to Gladder or Whitehouse Brook, in the county of Worcester." And whereas on the fourteenth of February instant it was resolved by that House, "That the committee upon any private Bill do examine in the first place, whether the said Bill be for the same purpose as any Bill which was presented in the last session of the last Parliament, and contain the same clauses and provisions as were contained in such former Bill in the last stage of its proceeding, and whereupon any proceedings were pending on the dissolution of the last Parliament; and, in such case, that all minutes of evidence, together with any documents therein referred to, which were taken before the former committee on such Bill, be received in evidence of the allegations therein contained." And it was also resolved, "That to enable the parties promoting any such Bill to avail themselves of the last-mentioned resolution, they shall, after the introduction of such Bill, and previously to the second reading thereof, give notice once in the London, Edinburgh, or Dublin Gazette, as the case may be, and once in some newspaper usually circulated in the district or districts to which the Bill specially relates, that it is their intention to proceed with the Bill, and to avail themselves of the above resolution; and that the committee on the Bill do examine how far such resolution has been complied with, and do report the same to the House on the report of the Bill."

Now notice is hereby given, that a Bill for the same purpose as the Bill so pending as aforesaid, and containing the same clauses and provisions as were contained in such former Bill in the last stage of its proceeding, was introduced into the House of Commons, and read there a first time on the eighteenth day of February instant; and that it is the intention of the parties promoting the said Bill to proceed with the same, and to avail themselves of the first-mentioned resolution.—Dated this nineteenth day of February 1842.

Nottingham Gas Bill (No. 2).

WHEREAS a Bill is now depending in the Honourable the House of Commons, intituled "A Bill for better Lighting with Gas, the town and county of the town of Nottingham, and the liberties and precincts thereof, and places adjacent thereto, in the county of Nottingham;" and which Bill is for the same purpose as the Bill which was presented in the last session of the last Parliament, and contains the same clauses and provisions as were contained in such former Bill in the last stage of its proceeding, and whereupon proceedings were pending on the dissolution of the last Parliament; and whereas on the fourteenth day of February instant, it was resolved by the said House of Commons (amongst other things), "that the Committee upon any Private Bill do examine, in the first place, whether the said Bill be for the same purpose as any Bill which was presented in the last session of the last Parliament, and contain the same clauses and provisions as were contained in such former Bill, in the last stage of its proceeding; and whereupon any proceedings were pending on the dissolution of that Parliament, and in such case that all minutes of evidence, together with any documents therein referred to, which were taken before the former Committee on such Bill, be received in evidence of the allegations therein contained;" and it was also resolved, "that to enable the parties promoting any such Bill, to avail themselves of the last-mentioned resolution, they shall, after the introduction of such Bill, and previously to the second reading thereof, give notice, once in the London, Edinburgh, or Dublin Gazette (as the case may be), and once in some newspaper usually circulated in the district or districts to which the Bill specially relates, that it is their intention to proceed with the Bill, and to avail themselves of the above resolution; and that the Committee on the Bill do examine how far such resolution has been complied with, and do report the same to the House on the report of the Bill."

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that it is the intention of the parties promoting the aforesaid Nottingham Gas Bill, No. 2, to proceed with the same, and to avail themselves of the resolution firstly hereinbefore mentioned.—Dated this nineteenth day of February 1842.
