Whitehall, July 19, 1842.

THE following Addresses were presented to the Queen by the Right Honourable Sir James Graham, Bart. Secretary of State for the Home Department, and were very graciously received by Her Majesty:

To the QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply for the county of Edinburgh, beg leave most humbly to express our sincere and heartfelt congratulations on your Majesty's preservation from the danger to which your Majesty has recently been exposed by a treasonable attempt against your Majesty's sacred Person.

We acknowledge, with gratitude, the merciful interposition of Divine Providence in protecting a life so justly dear to this nation and people; and we pray, that the same Almighty Power may long continue to your Majesty's subjects the blessings they enjoy under the mild and beneficent government of your Majesty.

Signed in name and by appointment of the Meeting. Melville, P.

Edinburgh, 10th June 1842.
