

port or ports for shipping the produce of any State, to be also named in such Order, shall, although not situated within the dominions of such State, be port or ports for the use of the ships of such State in the trade of such ships with all ports of the British dominions, or with any port or ports of the same named and limited in such Order, in as full and ample manner as if such port or ports were within the dominions of such State; and, thereupon, and for so long a time as such Order shall be declared to be in force, or shall remain unrevoked, it shall be lawful to import into the British dominions, or into such ports of the same as shall be named and limited in such Order, from such port or ports in the ships of such State, any goods which, by the laws in force at the time of such importation, might then be imported in such ships from a port of the country to which they belonged, and so to import such goods upon the like terms as the same could there be imported from the national ports of such ships."

And whereas the ports at the mouth of the river Vistula, although not within the dominions of Austria, are, nevertheless, the most convenient ports for shipping the produce of part of the Austrian dominions;

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased, in pursuance of the power and authority in Her vested by the hereinbefore recited Act, and of every other power or authority in anywise enabling Her in that behalf, to order and declare, and it is hereby ordered and declared, that Austrian vessels and their cargoes, consisting of such goods as by the laws in force at the time of such importation may be legally imported into the United Kingdom, and the British possessions abroad, from the ports of Austria, by the said vessels, shall, when coming from any of the ports at the mouth of the Vistula, be admitted into the ports of the United Kingdom, and of the British possessions abroad, in as full and ample a manner as if the ports at the mouth of the Vistula were within the dominions of Austria; and such vessels shall be permitted to import the goods above mentioned, upon the same terms on which the said goods might be imported if coming from Austrian ports:

Provided, nevertheless, that these privileges are to extend to the vessels of Austria and their cargoes, only so long as British vessels and their cargoes shall, upon their arrival at, or departure from, any of the ports at the mouth of the Vistula, continue to be placed on the same footing as the vessels of Austria and their cargoes, and so long as the cargoes which may be legally imported into the Austrian dominions through any of the ports at the mouth of the Vistula, in British vessels, shall continue to be placed in the Austrian dominions upon the same footing as the like cargoes so imported in Austrian vessels:

And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury are to give the necessary directions accordingly.
