TUESDAY, JULY 9, 1844.

AT the Court at Buckingham-Palace, the 19th day of June 1844,

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by a certain Act of Parliament, made and passed in the session of Parliament holden in the sixth and seventh years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to remove doubts as to the exercise of power and jurisdiction by Her Majesty within divers countries and places out of Her Majesty's dominions, and to render the same more effectual," it is, amongst other things, enacted, that it is and shall be lawful for Her Majesty to hold, exercise, and enjoy any power or jurisdiction which Her Majesty now hath, or may at any time hereafter have, within any country or place out of Her Majesty's dominions, in the same and as ample a manner as if Her Majesty had acquired such power or jurisdiction by the cession or conquest of territory; and whereas Her Majesty hath power and jurisdiction in the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, and the same or certain parts thereof have heretofore been customarily exercised on behalf of Her Majesty by Her Majesty's Ambassadors and other Officers resident within the said dominions; and whereas Her Majesty was pleased, on the second day of October one thousand eight hundred and forty-three, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order that Her Majesty's Ambassadors, Ministers, Chargés d'Affaires, Consuls-General, Consuls, and Vice-Consuls, resident within the said dominions, and being subjects of Her Majesty, should, until further order, continue to exercise all such power and jurisdiction within the said dominions as have heretofore been customarily exercised by them, or any of them, or by the predecessors of them, or any of them, in the said offices; and that the said Ambassadors and other Officers should likewise, in the exercise of such power and jurisdiction as aforesaid, continue to observe, until further order, all such laws, usages, forms of procedure, and methods of enforcing obedience as have heretofore been customarily observed by them:

And whereas it is expedient at the present time, to make further provision for the due exercise of the jurisdiction possessed by Her Majesty as aforesaid, in the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte:

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the above-recited Act of Parliament, Her Majesty is pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the above-recited Order of the second day of October one thousand eight hundred and forty-three, in so far as it provided for the exercise of jurisdiction over British subjects charged with the commission of crimes and offences, shall be, and it is hereby, revoked and cancelled, save and except as to all acts, matters, and things heretofore done under the said Order, or which may hereafter be done under the same, previously to the receipt of this Order by Her Majesty's Ambassador, Consuls, or other Officers respectively :

And, for the due exercise of the jurisdiction possessed by Her Majesty as aforesaid in the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, Her Majesty is pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that any act coming under Her Majesty's jurisdiction as aforesaid, and which being done in any part of Her Majesty's dominions would render the agent or his abettors amenable to punishment, shall, when done by British subjects within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, be considered as criminal to the same extent, and shall be liable to be enquired of, tried, determined, and punished in the manner hereinafter prescribed: and it is further ordered, that Her Majesty's Consuls-General, Consuls, and Vice-Consuls resident within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, and being subjects of Her Majesty, shall severally, in the districts within which they may respectively be appointed to reside, have and hold all necessary power and authority to enquire of all and all manner of crimes and offences by British subjects committed within the said dominions, and over which Her Majesty hath jurisdiction; and that the said Consuls-General, Consuls, and Vice-Consuls shall moreover have power and jurisdiction in the manner and within the limits hereinafter prescribed, to hold Consular Courts, and therein to try, determine, and punish all such crimes and offences as aforesaid; and, for the purposes aforesaid, it is ordered, that any of the Consuls-General, Consuls, and Vice-Consuls, resident within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, shall have power and authority to cause to be apprehended and brought before him any British subject who may be charged with having committed any crime or offence as aforesaid within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, and any such Consul-General, Consul, or Vice-Consul as aforesaid shall thereupon proceed with all convenient speed to enquire of the same; and to that effect shall have power to examine, on oath, all witnesses who may appear before him to substantiate the charge, or, if such witnesses shall not be Christians, to examine them in the form most binding on their consciences; and shall have power to summon any persons, being British subjects, who may be competent to give evidence, and to enforce the attendance of such persons by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars; and shall examine all witnesses whatsoever in the presence and hearing of the person accused, and afford the accused person all reasonable facility for cross-examining all such witnesses; and, having reduced to writing the depositions of the witnesses, shall cause the same to be read over, and, if necessary, explained to the person accused, together with any other evidence that may have been urged against him during the course of the trial; and shall require such accused person to defend himself against the charge brought against him, and shall take the evidence of any witnesses whom the accused person may tender to be examined in his exculpation; and when the case has been fully enquired of, and the innocence or guilt of the person accused established, the Consul-General, Consul, or Vice-Consul, as the case may be, shall either discharge the person accused from custody, if satisfied of his innocence, or proceed to pass sentence on him if convinced of his guilt: and it is hereby ordered, that it shall be lawful for any one of Her Majesty's Consuls-General, Consuls, and Vice-Consuls as aforesaid, having enquired of, tried, and determined, in the manner aforesaid, any charge which may be brought before him, to award any degree of punishment not exceeding imprisonment for three months, or a fine of one hundred dollars.

And it is further ordered, that if the crime whereof any person, being a British subject, may be accused before any of Her Majesty's Consuls-General, Consuls, or Vice-Consuls as aforesaid, shall appear to such Consul-General, Consul, or Vice-Consul, to be of such a nature as, if proved, would not be adequately punished by the infliction of such punishment as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for such Consul-General, Consul, or Vice-Consul, to summon two, or not more than four, British subjects of good repute, residing within his district, to sit with him as Assessors for enquiring of, trying, and determining the case or cases before the Court; and the Consul-General, Consul, or Vice-Consul, who shall hold a Court of Criminal Justice with the assistance of Assessors as aforesaid, shall, if he is himself convinced of the guilt of the party accused, have power to award any degree of punishment not exceeding imprisonment for twelve months, or a fine of two hundred dollars; and the Assessors aforesaid shall have no authority to decide on the innocence or the guilt of the party accused, or on the amount of punishment to be awarded on conviction; but in the event of the said Assessors, or any of them, dissenting from the conviction of, or from the amount of punishment awarded to, the accused, the said Assessors, or any of them, shall be authorized to record on the minutes of the proceedings the grounds on which the said Assessors, or any of them, may so dissent; and in any such case the Officer holding the Court shall forthwith report to Her Majesty's Ambassador, Minister, or Chargé d'Affaires at the Sublime Ottoman Porte the fact that such dissent has been so recorded on the minutes of the proceedings, and as soon as possible lay before such Ambassador, Minister, or Chargé d'Affaires copies of the whole of the depositions and proceedings, with the dissent of the Assessors recorded thereon; and it shall then be lawful for Her Majesty's Ambassador, Minister, or Chargé d'Affaires, by warrant under his hand and seal, addressed to the Consul-General, Consul, or Vice-Consul, by whom the case was tried, to mitigate or remit altogether the punishment awarded to the party accused; and such Consul-General, Consul, or Vice-Consul shall give immediate effect to the injunction of any such warrant: and it is further ordered, that all fines prescribed as aforesaid, as well as all fines levied on witnesses being British subjects and refusing to attend and give evidence in a Consular Court, may be levied by distress, in pursuance of a warrant issued to that effect by the Officer holding such Court, and appropriated in the manner directed by Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs; and that the place of imprisonment shall be such as has heretofore been customarily used as such, or as may be appointed by Her Majesty's Ambassador, Minister, or Chargé d'Affaires at the Sublime Ottoman Porte, and approved by Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

And it is further ordered, that all proceedings in the Consular Courts, held in virtue of this present Order, shall be had as far as possible in conformity and correspondence with the proceedings which in like cases would be had according to the law and practice of England, regard being had to the difference of local circumstances and to the provisions of this Order.

And it is further ordered, that the Consular Courts held in pursuance of this Order shall be Courts of Record; and that minutes of proceedings taken therein shall in all cases be drawn up and preserved with the depositions of the witnesses, and such minutes shall be signed by the Officer holding the Court, and shall, in cases where Assessors are present, be open for the inspection of such Assessors, and for their signature, if concurred in by them.

And it is further ordered, that in any case of assault it shall be lawful for the Consular Officer, before whom complaint is made, to promote reconciliation between the parties, and to suffer composition and amends to be made, and the proceedings thereby to be stopped.

And it is further ordered, that no Vice-Consul shall have power to award punishment unless holding a commission from Her Majesty, and any Vice-Consul not so commissioned after having enquired of, tried, and determined any case of which he shall have had cognizance, in pursuance of this Order, shall report his proceedings, and transmit the depositions to the Superior Consular Officer of his district, and such Superior Consular Officer shall have power to award punishment in the same manner as if the case had been enquired of, tried, and determined by himself.

And it is further ordered, that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs to limit the extent to which any Consul-General, Consul, or Vice-Consul shall exercise jurisdiction over British subjects in criminal matters within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, any thing in the present Order contained notwithstanding.

And, in order more effectually to repress crimes and offences on the part of British subjects in the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, it is hereby further ordered, that it shall and may be lawful for any of Her Majesty's Consuls-General, Consuls, or Vice-Consuls to cause any British subject who shall have been twice convicted of any crime and offence in the Consular Court, and who shall not be able to find good and sufficient surety to the satisfaction of Her Majesty's Consular Officer for his future good behaviour, to be sent out of the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, and to this end any such Consular Officer as aforesaid shall have power and authority, as soon as may be practicable after execution of the sentence on any second conviction, or at any time while such sentence is in execution, to send to the island of Malta any native of that island, or of its dependencies, who may be so convicted as aforesaid and be unable to find surety as aforesaid, and to send to Gibraltar any native of that place, and to send to England any other British subject; and to detain in custody any such person until a suitable opportunity for sending him out of the said dominions shall present itself; and any person to be sent out of the said dominions as aforesaid may be embarked on board one of Her Majesty's vessels of war, or if there should be no such vessel of war which can be employed for such purpose, then on board any Maltese or British vessel bound for Malta, Gibraltar, or England, as the case may be, in the same manner as if such person were a distressed British subject; and such person shall be disposed of on his arrival in Malta, Gibraltar, or England, as a distressed British subject would be disposed of. But in all cases in which a British subject shall have been sent out of the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte as aforesaid, the Officer sending him out shall forthwith report his having so done to Her Majesty's Ambassador, Minister, or Chargé d'Affaires at the Sublime Ottoman Porte, and to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs: and should any person so sent out of the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte return to the said dominions without the sanction of Her Majesty's Ambassador, Minister, or Chargé d'Affaires, or of Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, which sanction Her Majesty's Ambassador, Minister, or Chargé d'Affaires, or Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, shall severally have power to grant, he shall no longer be entitled to be protected as a British subject in the said dominions.

And whereas it is provided by the 42d Article of the Capitulations between Great Britain and Turkey, "that in case any English-man or other person navigating under their flag should happen to commit manslaughter, or any other crime, or be thereby involved in a law suit, the Governors in our sacred dominions shall not proceed to the cause until the Ambassador or Consul shall be present, but they shall hear and decide it together, without their presuming to give them any the least molestation by hearing it alone, contrary to the holy law and these Capitulations;" Her Majesty is pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that Her Majesty's Consuls-General, Consuls, or Vice-Consuls as aforesaid, shall in any such case of joint jurisdiction as aforesaid be competent to act, and shall act in the same on the part of Her Majesty: and it is hereby further ordered, that it shall be lawful for them, or any of them, to deal with any British subject who may have been twice convicted in any such Court of joint jurisdiction, or who may have been once convicted in a Consular Court, and once in a Court of joint jurisdiction as aforesaid, in the same manner as if such British subject had been twice convicted in a Consular Court.

And it is further ordered, that any person acting temporarily and with the approval of Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, as Her Majesty's Consul-General, Consul, or Vice-Consul, shall be competent to do all things which, by the present Order, Her Majesty's Consuls-General, Consuls, or Vice-Consuls are empowered to do, notwithstanding that such person so acting as aforesaid shall not hold a commission from Her Majesty.

And it is further ordered, that all British subjects now residing within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte shall, after reasonable public notice to that effect has been given by the British Consular Officer within whose district they may be residing, enrol themselves in a register to be kept by such Consular Officer; and that every British subject hereafter arriving at any place within the said dominions wherein a British Consular Office is maintained, saving and except any British subject borne on the muster-roll of any British ship arriving in the ports of Turkey, shall, within a reasonable period after his arrival, enrol himself in such register to be kept as aforesaid; and any British subject who shall refuse or neglect so to enrol himself, and shall not be able to excuse to the satisfaction of the Consular Officer his refusal or neglect, shall not be entitled to require to be recognized or protected as a British subject in any difficulties whatsoever in which he may be involved within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte.

And it is further ordered, that no fee or remuneration whatsoever shall be demanded or received by any British Consular Officer for or on account of the enrolment of any British subject in the register aforesaid, and that a notification of the period within which such enrolment must be effected shall be exhibited in some conspicuous place in the Consular Office.

And, in further exercise of the powers in Her Majesty vested by the Act of Parliament above recited, Her Majesty is pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to appoint the island of Malta as the British colony wherein crimes and offences committed by British subjects within the dominions of the Sublime Ottoman Porte, which it may be expedient shall be enquired of, tried, determined, and punished, within Her Majesty's dominions, shall be so enquired of, tried, determined, and punished, and that Her Majesty's Consuls-General, Consuls, and Vice-Consuls, resident within the said dominions, and being subjects of Her Majesty, shall have authority to cause any British subject charged with the commission of any crime or offence, the cognizance whereof may at any time appertain to them, or any of them, to be sent for trial to the said island of Malta.

And the Right Honourable the Earl of Aberdeen, and the Right Honourable Lord Stanley, two of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

Wm. L. Bathurst.
