Whitehall, July 8.

Yesterday Morning His Majesty received the News of the late Defeat of the Rebels, of which we have the following Account.

ON Sunday morning the Earl of Feversham marched from Somerton to Wotton within three miles of Bridgewater; He quartered his Horse and Dragoons in the said Village and Encamped his Foot in an advantageous Post near it, fronting towards a Moore being a spacious plain, and having a Ditch before them. In the Evening he had notice that the Rebels were drawing out of the Town, which made him keep his Troops in a readiness, and send out frequent Parties to observe them. The Rebels so ordered their March and with so great silence that they found a quiet passage into the said Moor, and there towards Morning formed their Foot in Battle to the number of between 5 and 6000, the late Duke of Monmouth being at the Head of them, and marched near to our Camp. My Lord Feversham having notice of it: immediately put his Majesties Forces, being about 2000 Foot and 700 Horse Grenadiers and Dragoons into a posture to receive them. The Rebels began with a great Volley of shot and shouts, which was returned by ours in the same manner. In the mean time the Rebels were bringing their Horse to second their Foot, but were hindered by a Party of Horse Commanded by Colonel Oglethorpe who engaged them till my Lord of Oxfords Regiment and the Detachment of the Guards came in to form the Line: The resistance of the Rebels Horse which were between 1000 and 1200 Commanded by the late Lord Gray, was very inconsiderable, being never drawn up in a Body but giving way before all that charged them, and soon after quitting the Field. All this while the Foot stood very firm on both sides, and exchanged great Volleys, the Ditch beforementioned hindring them from closing, but our Cannon coming up, and our Horse breaking in upon them they were at last entirely Routed, and three pieces of Cannon, all they had there, taken. About 2000 of them were killed; And many taken Prisoners; The most remarkable among these are Colonel Holms, and Perros his Major, the Constable of Crookeborne, and Williams Servant to the late Duke of Monmouth, who had about him 200 Guineas, all the Monies he says the said Duke had left; The Coat which he usually wore was likewise taken.

The Earl of Feversham his Majesties Lieutenant General was during the Action every where present giving the necessary Orders with great readiness and Conduct: My Lord Churchil, who Commanded next under him, likewise performed his part with all the Courage and Gallantry imaginable. The Duke of Grafton, and all the Commanders of Battalions and other Officers, behaved themselves with great Resolution and Bravery.

Of His Majesties Forces there were about 300 killed, and divers wounded, of whom a farther account will be given in a more particular Relation that will be published of this Action.

After the Field was cleared of the Rebels, the Earl of Feversham Marched with 500 Foot, and some Horse and Dragoons to Bridgewater, the Rebels that were left there having Fled and dispersed themselves in several places. His Lordship left these Men in the Town under the Command of Colonel Kirke; And hearing that the late Duke of Monmouth was fled with about 50 Horse, the greatest number of the Rebels that were left together, he sent out several Parties in pursuit of them.

My Lord Feversham intended to March yesterday with His Majesties forces to Wells, and this day to Bath.

Whitehall, July 8. This Morning the King received an account that the late Lord Gray was taken yesterday in a disguise at Ringwood on the Borders of Dorsetshire, and secured by my Lord Lumley: And his Majesty has been pleased to give order that the 500 l. promised in his late Majesties Proclamation of the 28th of June 1683. shall be paid to the Persons that took him.

The Assizes for the Home Circuit.

Lord J. Fryers,
Mr. Justice Street.

Chelmsford, Monday August 31. at Chelmsford.
Hartford, Thursday September 3. at Hartford Town.
Horsham, Monday September 7. at Horsham.
Kingston upon Thames, Thursday September 10. at Kingston upon Thames.
Maidstone, Tuesday September 15. at Maidstone.

Venice, June 25. We have advice that the Turkish Fleet Commanded by the Captain Bassa hath appeared off of Scio with several Men of War of Barbary; That they have but 45 Gallies, and that these are so ill provided, that the Captain Bassa hath sent 12 of them back to the Dardenelles; The Men of War are likewise very ill Manned, the largest not having above 200 Men on Board. The last Letters from Constantinople informed us that the Grand Signior will remain at Adrianople during the Campaign; But that to encourage the Troops it was given out that the Grand Visier will go into the Field with them. And that a great Convoy was arrived at Constantinople with Provisions and Ammunition from Alexandria. We are informed by the way of Otranto that Captain General Morofini is Sailed from Prevesa to go and meet the Turkish Fleet.

Vienna, June 24. The Letters from the Army give an account that the Duke of Lorraine expected the coming up of the Artillery and a great Convoy of Provisions, after which he would attack Newbeusel or Novigrad. Count Leslie will part from hence in fews days for Croatia, where he is to Command the Emperors Forces; The National Troops of that Country are in the mean time drawing together, and will be in a Body by that time General Leslie arrives there. They write from Cracow of the 18th Instant that the differences between that Crown and the Moscovites are in a fair way to be accommodated. And that the King of Poland is expected at Leopold about the middle of the next month, having appointed the General Rendezvous of his Army to be near that Place.
