WE your Majesties most Loyal and Dutiful Subjects and Servants, out of a due sense of our Happiness under the Gracious Reign and Merciful Government of our late Sovereign the High and Mighty King CHARLES the Second of most Blessed Memory whose Piety, Mercy and Justice early removed him from the Cares of an Earthly Monarch to be Crowned with the Immortal Joys of Heaven; And as we cannot fully express our Sorrows for the Death of so good, so gracious, and so merciful a King, so neither can we sufficiently Magnifie the Goodness of Almighty God for His infinite Mercy, to His People in your Majesties most Miraculous Preservation, by which Heavens writ your Majesty His truly Anointed to Rule and Reign over us: And as we humbly beg leave to offer unto your Majesty our Congratulation for your Majesties peaceable and safe Inthronement in your Rightful and Lawful Imperial seat, so we heartily pray that Gods Providence may always watch over and secure your Majesty from all Plots, Conspiracies and Heinous Machinations: And as nothing in this World can be so valuable unto us as your Majesties Peace and Safety, so we humbly beseech your Majesty as a Testimony of our Loyal and humble Duty, to accept the Tender of our Lives and Fortunes, which we shall at all times with great Alacrity lay down in defence of your Majesties most Sacred Person, your Heirs and Successors; And in the mean time we beseech God so to preserve your Royal Person, that your Majesties Reign over us may be long, happy and lasting.

Thirty Pieces of Cannon and eight Mortars have been already sent to the Imperial Camp; And six larger Pieces with a great quantity of all sorts of Ammunition are preparing to follow. The Spanish Ingenier is not gone to the Army, he being thought more useful here to provide the Bombs and Carcasses of his Invention, and to see them sent from time to time to the Camp. The Imperial Army we are told, is at present composed of 40000 men, and will in a short time be reinforced with the Troops of Cologne,
