Whitehall, September 4, 1849.

THE Queen has been pleased to grant unto Sir Albert-Denison Conyngham, commonly called Lord Albert-Denison Conyngham, of Denbies, in the county of Surrey, Knight Commander of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order, and one of the Representatives in Parliament for the city of Canterbury, third, but second surviving, son of Henry Marquess Conyngham, Knight of the most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick, deceased, by Elizabeth his wife, eldest daughter of Joseph Denison, of Denbies aforesaid, Esquire, and sister and coheir of William-Joseph Denison, late of Seamer, in the East Riding of the county of York, of Denbies aforesaid, and of Pall Mall, in the county of Middlesex, Esquire, one of the Knights of the Shire for the western division of the county of Surrey, both deceased, Her royal licence and authority that he and his issue may, in compliance with a proviso contained in the last will and testament of his maternal uncle, the said William-Joseph Denison, take and use the surname of Denison only, in lieu of his present surname of Conyngham, and that he and they may bear the arms of Denison quarterly with his and their own family arms; such arms being first duly exemplified according to the laws of arms, and recorded in the Herald's office, otherwise the said licence and permission to be void and of none effect:

And also to command that the said royal concession and declaration be registered in Her Majesty's College of Arms.

To the Churchwardens of the Parish of St. Saviour's, Southwark, and to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by the Act twelfth and thirteenth Victoria, cap. 3, intituled "An Act to amend the Nuisances' Removal and Diseases' Prevention Act, 1848," it is provided, "That it shall be lawful in England or Wales for the General Board of Health to cause inquiry to be made by a superintending inspector, or by such other ways and means as the General Board of Health may deem fit to direct, into the state of the burial grounds in any part of England or Wales excepted from the powers of the Public Health Act, 1848, or in any populous city, town, or place in England or Wales, to which for the time being the said Act has not been applied, and if it appear to the General Board of Health that any such burial ground is in such a state as to be dangerous to the health of the persons living in the neighbourhood thereof, it shall be lawful for the said General Board of Health in England and Wales, under the seal of the said Board, and under the hands of two or more members thereof, to issue such orders as the said Board may think fit, for the application of such 'disinfecting' substances, and for the adoption of such other measures of precaution in relation to the premises as may, in the opinion of the said Board tend to lessen or remove the danger to health;"

And whereas Richard Dugard Grainger, Superintending Inspector to the said Board, has inquired into the state of the burial ground known as the Cross Bones Burial Ground, in Red Cross-street, Southwark, and has reported the said burial ground to be in a condition dangerous to the health of the persons living in the neighbourhood thereof:

We, the General Board of Health, being of opinion that in order to lessen or remove the danger to health at present arising from the said burial ground, it is expedient that interments should be discontinued therein for the present, do hereby order and require the churchwardens of St. Saviour's, Southwark, and other persons having the care and control of the same to cause the discontinuance of interments in the said burial ground until further order, and to make such provision for interment elsewhere as to them may appear necessary, under the tenth section of the Nuisances' Amendment Act aforesaid or otherwise.

Given under our hands, and under the seal of the General Board of Health, this 6th day of September 1849.

(Signed)
