The Earl Marshal's Order for a General Mourning for His late Royal Highness Adolphus Frederick Duke of Cambridge.

IN pursuance of Her Majesty's commands, these are to give public notice, that upon the melancholy occasion of the death of His late Royal Highness The Duke of Cambridge, Her Majesty's Uncle, it is expected that all persons do put themselves into Mourning for ten days, to commence from Sunday next, the 14th instant.

NORFOLK, Earl Marshal.

GENERAL ORDER.

Horse Guards, July 12, 1850.

HER Majesty does not require that the Officers of the Army should wear any other Mourning, on the present melancholy occasion of the death of Field Marshal His late Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, than a black crape round the left arm, with their uniforms.

By command of Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington, Commander in Chief,

G. BROWN, Adjutant-General.

Admiralty, July 12, 1850.

HER Majesty does not require that the Officers of the Fleet or Marines should wear any other Mourning, on the present melancholy occasion of the death of His late Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, than a black crape round the left arm, with their uniforms.

JOHN PARKER.

Whitehall, July 12, 1850.

The following Address of congratulation to the Queen, on the occasion of the Birth of another Prince, having been transmitted to the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Home Department, for presentation, was presented accordingly to Her Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors of the Borough of Gateshead, in the County of Durham,
