

numerous Orders of Knighthood conferred upon the illustrious deceased. Upon Pedestals projecting from the Rail surrounding the Bier, were arranged upon Black Velvet Cushions, the British and Foreign Field-Marschals' Batons of the late Duke, surmounted by the respective national flags; and upon others, at the head of the Coffin, were placed the Great Banner, and the Banner of Wellesley; the Guidon, the Standard, and the Bannerols of the lineage of the deceased were ranged on either side the Bier, and the Majesty Escocheon (upon a Cloth of Gold), was suspended from the Wall at the head of the Coffin. In front of the Dais was a trophy of the Surcoat, Sword and Targe, Helm and Crest, and the Spurs of the deceased. Over the Bier was a Canopy of Black Velvet (lined with Silver Tissue and enriched with Silvered Cornice and Vallance, Escocheons, Pennons, and Plumes), from which depended four Curtains, also of Black Velvet (similarly lined), edged with Silver Lace.

On the afternoon of the 11th November the following officers of the Grenadier Guards, viz.: Colonel Godfrey Thornton (commanding Grenadier Guards), Lieutenant-Colonel Hon. James Lindsay, Major Studholme Brownrigg, and Captain Cuthbert George Ellison, with 100 rank and file of the First Battalion, attended at the Hall of the Royal Hospital. The Officers of the Guard, and of the Lord Chamberlain's Department, were seated as Mourners about the Coffin, and 50 men lined either side of the Hall, resting on their Arms reversed, both Officers and men remaining till the Hall was cleared.

On Friday, November 12, were admitted to the Hall, by tickets from the Lord Chamberlain, the Foreign Ambassadors and Ministers, Peers and Peeresses, Members of Parliament, Officers of the Army and Navy, and such other persons as the Lord Chamberlain deemed entitled to the privilege.

On Saturday, November 13, and from Monday, November 15, to Wednesday, November 17, the public were admitted, without restriction from nine o'clock in the morning until four o'clock on the afternoon of each day.

On each day of the public admission a detachment from one or other of the Battalions of Foot Guards in London attended to perform a like duty to that of the Grenadier Guards on the 11th, the Officers in command of each detachment, and the Comptroller of the Lord Chamberlain's Department, being seated alternately at the head of the Coffin, whilst other Officers of the Guard, with those of the Lord Chamberlain, sat on either side, being relieved every two hours; Warders of the Tower were stationed on the Dais, during the whole time of the Lying in State.

A Captain's Guard of the 1st Regiment of Life Guards was mounted daily at the Hospital during the lying in state, and twenty troopers of the same lined the Vestibule leading to the Hall, being relieved every hour.

The following are the Names of the Officers of the Brigade of Foot Guards who sat as Mourners on the occasion.
