THE Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations have received, through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Bilbao, forwarding the enclosed Notification, issued by the Spanish Board of Health, affecting masters of British vessels which arrive in Port Santander.

(Copy.)

(Translation.)

It is enacted by the Sanitary Law that every vessel which arrives at a port of the Peninsula from a foreign port, not having a Bill of Health, incurs a fine of 1100 reals of Vellon, and a fine of 200 Reals when the Bill of Health is not countersigned by the Spanish Consul resident at the port of departure of the vessel.

And as it has been observed at this port that in many recent instances British vessels have contravened these regulations, and as I am desirous to guard against further abuses, and that in the strict fulfilment of the law, the observance of which is confided to me, no further questions may arise on the plea of ignorance—which in sound principles would not exempt the infractor from responsibility,—I have deemed it expedient to address you, in order that you may take such steps as you may consider proper to make the above known to the British mercantile community; and further, that it is to be borne in mind, that in such cases where there may be no Spanish Consul or Agent residing at the port of the vessel's departure, the magistrate of the place by whom the Bill of Health is granted must certify that fact.

I request you will acknowledge the receipt of this communication.

May God preserve, &c.

Santander, June 21st, 1855.

(Signed) FELIZ DE AGUIRE.
