Admiralty, August 13, 1855.

DESPATCHES, of which the following are copies, have been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

No. 613. Royal Albert, off Sevastopol, July 30, 1855.

IN continuation of the proceedings of the steam squadron in the Sea of Azof, under the orders of Commander Sherard Osborn, of the Vesuvius, I beg leave to enclose, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, copies of two letters from that officer, together with the several enclosures reporting the steps taken to deprive the enemy of the new harvest, and to cripple his resources of all kinds, since the proceedings which were communicated in my letter of the 7th instant (No. 538).

During the time the squadron was detained from stress of weather, under Berutch Spit, near Ghenitch, the vessels were, at every break of the weather, employed in destroying extensive fishing establishments which supplied the army in the Crimea with fish, as well as guard-houses, barracks, stores of forage, and provisions on the Isthmus of Arabat, and the pontoon or only means of communication between Arabat Spit and the Crimea, at the entrance of the Kara-su River was burnt by Commander Rowley Lambert of the Curlew. The attack and destruction of Fort Petrovskoi, on the 16th instant, by the combined English and French squadrons named in Commander Osborn's letter, appears to have been accomplished with the usual skill and success which has attended the operations in the sea of Azof; and their Lordships will observe that particular mention is made of Lieutenant Hubert Campion, Senior Lieutenant of the Vesuvius, who commanded the landing party, and rendered great service. I would particularly beg leave to call their Lordships' attention to the high-minded conduct of Captain De Cintré, of His Imperial Majesty's steamer Milan, who, on seeing that the bulk of the squadron was under the orders of Commander Osborn, to whom he was senior, waived his right to plan the attack, and placed his ship, as well as the Mouette, in the positions pointed out by Commander Osborn.

In the meantime Lieutenant Hewett, in the Beagle, destroyed an extensive collection of fish stores and two large granaries full of corn in the neighbourhood of Berdiansk.

After destroying Fort Petrovskoi, the squadron proceeded to Glofira, where some extensive corn and fish stores were destroyed by vessels under the orders of Commander Rowley Lambert, of the Curlew, and a similar service was performed at the Crooked Spit, in the Gulf of Azof, by vessels under the orders of Commander F. A. B. Craufurd, of the Swallow. In the meantime Commander Osborn, reconnoitered various parts of the coast as far as Taganrog.

The reports of Commander Osborn are so comprehensive that I will only remark that the admirable manner in which he has carried out my instructions "to clear the sea board of all fish stores, all fisheries and mills on a scale beyond the wants of the neighbouring population, and, indeed of all things destined to contribute to the maintenance of the enemy's army in the Crimea," fully corroborates the opinion I have before expressed, that he is an officer possessing a rare combination of high qualities, and I beg to recommend him to their Lordships' most favourable consideration.

I am, &c.

Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

Her Majesty's ship Vesuvius,

Gulf of Azof, July 17, 1855.

SIR,
HEAVY gales and much sea obliged the squadron in this sea to take shelter under Berutch Spit for several days. Coaling, provisioning, and completing stores was, however, proceeded with, and at every break in the weather the vessels were actively employed destroying some extensive fisheries upon Berutch Spit, as well as guard-houses, barracks, and stores of forage and provisions, to within an easy gun shot of Arabat Fort. The only pontoon or means of communication between Arabat Spit and the Crimea, at the entrance of the Kara-su River, has been burnt by Commander Rowley Lambert, H.M.S. Curlew, and we have now entire possession of the spit. A lull in the weather enabled me to put to sea upon the 13th July, for a sweep round the Sea of Azof; the Ardent, Weser, and Clinker being left under the orders of Lieutenant Horton to harass Genitch and Arabat, as well to cut off all communication along the spit.

Delayed by the weather, we did not reach Berdiansk until the 15th July; a heavy sea was running, but anxious to lose no time, the senior officer of the French Squadron (Captain De Cintré, of the Milan) and myself determined to go at once and endeavour to burn the forage and corn stacks upon the landward side of the hills overlooking the town.

No inhabitants were to be seen, but the occasional glimpse of soldiers showed that a landing was expected and that they were prepared for a street fight. I hoisted a flag of truce in order, if possible, to get the women and children removed from the town, but as that met with no reply and the surf rendered landing extremely hazardous, I hauled it down, and the squadron commenced to fire over the town at the forage and corn stacked behind it, and I soon had the satisfaction of seeing a fire break out exactly where it was wanted. The town was not touched except by an occasional shell. The wheat and forage being fired it became necessary to move into deeper water for the night, and from our distant anchorage the fires were seen burning throughout the night.

On the 16th July the Allied squadron proceeded to Fort Petrovski, between Berdiansk and Marianopol. As I approached the place there were evident symptoms of an increase to the fortifications since the Vesuvius silenced its fire three weeks ago. A redan, covering the curtain which faces the sea, shewed seven new embrasures, and much new earth led me to expect some masked works.

Captain De Cintré, commanding the French steamer Milan, although my senior, in the most handsome manner surrendered the right of planning the attack, and keeping alone in view the good of the allied cause, gallantly took up the position I wished him to do, followed by Captain De L'Allemand, in the Mouette.

At 9.30 A.M., all arrangements being made, the squadron, named in the margin*, took up their positions. The light draught gun-boats taking up stations east and west of the fort, and enfilading the works in front and rear; whilst the heavier vessels formed a semicircle round the front. The heavy nature of our ordnance crushed all attempts at resistance, and soon forced not only the garrison to retire from the trenches, but also kept at a respectable distance the reserve force, consisting of three strong battalions of infantry, and two squadrons of cavalry.

We then commenced to fire with carcasses, and although partially successful, I was obliged to send the light boats of the squadron to complete the destruction of the fort and batteries; a duty I entrusted to Lieutenant Hubert Campion, of the Vesuvius, assisted by the officers in the annexed list.

In a short time I had the satisfaction of seeing all the cantonment, gun platforms, public buildings, corn and forage stores on fire, and the embrasures of the earthworks seriously injured; and although the enemy from an earthwork to the rear opened a sharp fire upon our men, Lieutenant Campion completed this service in the most able and perfect manner, without the loss of one man.

Lieutenant Campion reports that the fort was fully as formidable a one as it appeared from the ships; the platforms were laid ready, but the guns either had not yet arrived or had been withdrawn by the enemy. Leaving the Swallow, Commander Craufurd, to check any attempt of enemy to re-occupy the fort and extinguish the fire until the destruction was complete, the rest of the squadron proceeded to destroy great quantities of forage and some most extensive fisheries, situated upon the White House Spit, and about the mouth of the River Berda. By dark the work was done, and thirty fisheries, numbers of heavy launches, and great store of salted fish, nets, and gear, as well as much forage, had fallen into our hands in spite of considerable numbers of Cossack horse.

Nothing could exceed the zeal and energy displayed by every officer and man throughout the day; and the skilful manner in which the various officers in command of Her Majesty's vessels took up their positions in the morning, the beautiful accuracy of the fire, and the care with which the squadron was handled in shallow water, deserve to be called to your favourable notice. The able and cheerful co-operation of the French throughout the day was beyond all praise.

I have, &c.,

Her Majesty's ship Vesuvius,

Gulf of Azof, July 21, 1855.

SIR,

THE day I closed my last report to you, the Beagle, Lieutenant Hewett, was detached to Berdiansk.

Lieutenant Hewett rejoined me yesterday, and reports that one of the Russian sunken vessels was blown up. Lieutenant Hewett, the same evening, landed under cover of his vessel's guns, and destroyed an extensive collection of fish stores, and two large granaries full of corn.

On the 17th July, in consequence of information received of extensive depôts of corn and forage existing at a town called Glofira, upon the Asiatic coast, near Gheisk, I proceeded there with the squadron, accompanied by the French steamers Milan and Mouette. The Vesuvius and Swallow were obliged to anchor some distance off shore, I therefore sent Commander Rowley Lambert (Her Majesty's ship Curlew), with the gun-boats named in the margin* to reconnoitre in force, and if an opportunity occurred, to destroy any stores of provisions or of forage, he was to do so. Commander Lambert found Glofira and its neighbourhood swarming with cavalry; the town an open straggling agricultural village, and no appearance of corn or forage in it; he therefore very properly confined his operations to destroying, upon Glofira Spit, some very extensive corn and fish stores, but spared the town. The skill with which this service was executed in the face of large bodies of cavalry, reflects no small credit upon Commander Lambert; and he speaks most highly of the able assistance rendered him by the French officers and men under Captains De Cintré and L'Allemand.

From Glofira I next proceeded to the Crooked Spit, in the Gulf of Azof, the French squadron parting company to harass the enemy in the neighbourhood of Kamisheva and Obitotchna.

The squadron reached Crooked Spit the same day (July 18); and I immediately ordered Commander Frederick Craufurd, in the Swallow, supported by the gun-boats Grinder, Boxer, and Cracker, and the boats of Her Majesty's ships Vesuvius, Curlew, and Fancy, under Lieutenants Grylls, Rowley, and Sullivan, to proceed and clear the spit of the cavalry and Cossacks of the enemy, and then land and destroy the great fishing establishments situated upon it. Commander Craufurd executed this service with great vigour, and his report I have the honour to enclose. The extraordinary quantity of nets and stores of fish, and the scale of the works destroyed fully confirm the statements made by the work people that their occupation consisted in supplying food to the army in the Crimea, everything going to Simpheropol by the great northern road along the steppe. Whilst this service was being executed I reconnoitred the mouth of the river Mious, fifteen miles west of Taganrog, in Her Majesty's ship Jasper, Lieutenant J. S. Hudson. The shallow nature of the coast would not allow us to approach within a mile and three quarters of what in the chart is marked as Fort Temenos. The fortification was an earthwork of some extent and ditched but not pierced for guns. It was evidently of an old date, and as I could see no one within it, I again returned to the same place, accompanied by the boats of Her Majesty's ships Vesuvius and Curlew, and Her Majesty's gun-vessels, Cracker, Boxer, and Jasper.

Cavalry in large bodies, armed for the most part with carbines or rifles, were evidently much harassed by riding upon supposed points of attack; and when we got to Fort Temenos, and the usual Cossack picquet had been driven off, I and Commander Lambert, proceeded at once with the light boats into the river. When there, and immediately under Fort Temenos, which stands upon a steep escarpé of eighty feet, we found ourselves looked down upon by a large body of both horse and foot, lining the ditch and parapet of the work. Landing on the opposite bank, at good rifle-shot distance, one boat's crew, under Lieutenant Rowley, was sent to destroy a collection of launches and a fishery, whilst a careful and steady fire of Minie rifles, kept the Russians from advancing upon us. Assuring ourselves of the non-existence of any object worth hazarding so small a force any farther, we returned to the vessels, passing within pistol shot of the Russian ambuscade. The cool steadiness of the officers and men in the gigs, together with the wonderful precision of the fire from the covering vessels, distant as they were, doubtless kept the enemy in check, and prevented serious consequences. To Commander Lambert, Lieutenants Grylls and Rowley, and Mr. Tabuteau (Mate), who were in the gigs, as well as to Lieutenants Marryatt, Townshend, and Hudson, who commanded the gun-vessels, my best thanks are due.

The gig of the Grinder, under Lieutenant Hamilton, had a narrow escape upon the same day from a similar ambuscade, at a place called Kirpe, 10 miles east of Marianpol, the very proper humanity of Lieutenant Hamilton in not firing into an open defenceless town as it appeared to him, having nigh entailed the loss of a boat's crew when he attempted to land and destroy a corn store. A heavy fire of musketry at half pistol shot providentially injured no one, and Lieutenant Hamilton appears to have most skilfully escaped.

The 19th July, I reconnoitred Taganrog in the Jasper gun-boat. A new battery was being constructed upon the heights near the hospital, but although two shots were thrown into it, it did not reply.

Every part the town showed signs of the injuries it had received when we visited it under the late Captain Edmund Lyons, of the Miranda. The long series of Government stores burnt by the Allied Flotilla had not been repaired, and the only sign of any communication being now held, by water, with the Don, was one large barge upon the beach.

To put a stop, however, to all traffic of this nature, and to harass the enemy in this neighbourhood, I have ordered Commander Craufurd to remain in the Gulf of Azof, with two gun-vessels under his orders.

That the squadron has not been idle, I trust this report will show; and without entering more into details than I have done, I can assure you, Sir, that from Ghenitch to Taganrog, and thence round to Kamiskeva, we have kept the coast in a state of constant alarm, and their troops incessantly moving. The good service done by the gun-boats in this way has been very great.

The total amount of provisions, corn, fisheries, forage, and boats, destroyed, has been something enormous.

Nothing can exceed the zeal and activity of the officers, or good conduct of the men, constituting this squadron; and constant work, does not, I am happy to say, appear as yet to impair their health.

Commander and Senior Officer.

*Her Majesty's ship Swallow, off Crooked Spit, Sea of Azof,
July 15, 1855.*

SIR,
IN compliance with your orders, I proceeded in Her Majesty's steam gun-boat Grinder, with Cracker and Boxer, and boats of the squadron to reconnoitre the Crooked Spit.

Having cleared the spit of some mounted troops who occupied it, I ordered a detachment of boats, with their respective officers, to land and destroy the immense fishing establishments and nets found upon the point of it. The country seemed swarming with cavalry, but, by the able management of the officers in command of the gun-boats, and by their good fire, they were effectually driven off the spit some distance inland.

Having reconnoitred as far into the land as we could see from the mast head of the Grinder, all the boats were ordered to land and set fire to very large and extensive government stores upon the upper part of the spit, including large fishing establishments, an enormous quantity of nets, haystacks, and several large houses used as government stores. I learnt from a Russian fisherman, that the fish caught on this spit and cured here was immediately forwarded to Simpheropol, for the use of the Crimean army; and I conclude that a very severe blow has been inflicted upon the enemy by the amount of property which was destroyed, including spars, timber, fish, nets, and boats; apparently the most extensive fishing establishment in the Sea of Azof; and I am happy to say without a casualty. My thanks are due to Lieutenants Hamilton, of Grinder, and Townsend, of Boxer, as also to Lieutenants Rowley, of Curlew; Grylls, of Fancy; Sullivan, of Vesuvius; Mr. Aldrich, Master of Swallow; Mr. Deare, Gunner of Curlew; and Mr. Windsor, Gunner of Swallow; who all and each by their zeal and activity rendered great service in destroying so large an accumulation of stores and houses in so short a space of time.

I have, &c.,

Commander.

AT the Court at Osborne House, Isle of Wight,
the 21st day of July, 1855,

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS Her Majesty's Commissioners for building new churches have, in pursuance of the sixteenth section of an Act, passed in the fifty-ninth year of the reign of His Majesty King George the Third, intituled "An Act to amend and render more effectual an Act passed in the last session of Parliament for building and promoting the building of additional churches in populous parishes," and also of the third section of an Act, passed in the session of Parliament, held in the second and third years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to make better provision for the assignment of ecclesiastical districts to churches or chapels augmented by the Governors of the bounty of Queen Anne, and for other purposes," duly prepared and laid before Her Majesty in Council a representation, bearing date the eighteenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, in the words following; viz.:

"Your Majesty's Commissioners for building new churches beg leave humbly to represent that, having taken into consideration all the circumstances of the parish of Saint Martin-in-the-Fields, in the city of Westminster, in the county of Middlesex, and in the diocese of London, it appears to them to be expedient that a particular district should be assigned to the consecrated church of Saint John the Evangelist, in Broad-court, Drury-lane, in the said parish of Saint Martin-in-the-Fields, under the power for that purpose contained in the sixteenth section of an Act of Parliament, passed in the fifty-ninth year of the reign of His Majesty King George the Third, intituled 'An Act to amend and render more effectual an Act passed in the last session of Parliament for building and promoting the building of additional churches in populous parishes,' and also in the third section of an Act of Parliament, passed in the second and third years of your Majesty's reign, intituled 'An Act to make better provision for the assignment of ecclesiastical districts to churches or chapels, augmented by the Governors of the bounty of Queen Anne, and for other purposes,' and that such proposed district should be named 'The District Chapelry of Saint John the Evangelist, Drury-lane,' and that the boundaries thereof should be those hereinafter mentioned; that is to say:

"The district chapelry of Saint John the Evangelist, Drury-lane, is bounded on or towards the south by the parish of Saint Paul, Covent-garden; on or towards the south-east by a line drawn from the boundary line of the said parish of Saint Paul, Covent-garden, in a north-easterly direction along the middle of Little Russell-street, as far as the boundary line of the parish of Saint Giles-in-the-Fields; on or towards the north-east and north-west by the said parish of Saint Giles-in-the-Fields; and on or towards the south-west by the remaining part of the parish of Saint Martin-in-the-Fields, from which it is separated by a line drawn from the said parish of Saint Giles-in-the-Fields, in a south-easterly direction, along the middle of Langley-street, across Long-acre, and along the middle of Langley-court as far as the boundary line of the said parish of Saint Paul, Covent-garden, as the same is more particularly delineated on the map hereto annexed, and is thereon coloured pink.

"Your Majesty's said Commissioners beg leave further to represent that it also appears to them to be expedient that banns of marriage should be published, and that marriages, baptisms, and churchings should be solemnized or performed in the said Church of Saint John the Evangelist, Drury-lane, and that all legal fees to arise therefrom should be received for, on account of, and be paid over to, the Reverend Henry Mackenzie, Master of Arts, Vicar of the said parish of Saint Martin-in-the-Fields, during his incumbency; and that all complimentary fees and perquisites arising therefrom should be received by, and belong to, the minister or incumbent for the time being of the said church of Saint John the Evangelist, Drury-lane, and that from and after the next avoidance of the said parish church of Saint Martin-in-the-Fields, all the fees for the before-mentioned offices should belong to and be received by the minister or incumbent for the time being of the said church of Saint John the Evangelist, Drury-lane.

"That the consent of the Right Reverend Charles James, Lord Bishop of the said diocese of London, has been obtained thereto, as required by the Acts and sections hereinbefore mentioned, in testimony whereof he has signed and sealed this representation.

"Your Majesty's said Commissioners therefore humbly pray that your Majesty will be graciously pleased to take the premises into your royal consideration, and to make such order in respect thereto as to your Majesty in your royal wisdom shall seem meet."

Her Majesty having taken the said representation, together with the map thereunto annexed, into consideration, was pleased, by and with the advice of her Privy Council, to approve thereof, and to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the proposed assignment of a district chapelry to the consecrated church of Saint John the Evangelist, in Broad-court, Drury-lane, in the parish of Saint Martin-in-the-Fields, be accordingly made, and that the recommendations of the said Commissioners, in respect of the publication of banns, and the solemnization of marriages, baptisms, and churchings, in the said church, and the fees to arise therefrom, be carried into effect, agreeably to the provisions of the said Acts; and Her Majesty is further pleased to direct that this Order be forthwith registered by the Registrar of the diocese of London.

The Master of the Rolls.—Wednesday, the 1st day of August, in the 19th year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, 1855, between John Robert Hargrave, an Infant, under the age of 21 years, by Mary Hargrave, Widow, his Mother, his next Friend, Plaintiff; William Josceline Hargrave, Jane Symonds, John Silverthorne, William Baker, Robert Boak Baker, and William Duke, Defendants.

By original and amended Bill.

FORASMUCH as his Honour the Master of the Rolls was this present day informed by Mr. Karslake, of Counsel for the plaintiff, that the plaintiff having exhibited his Bill in this Court against the defendants, it appears, by the affidavit of James Henry Clayton, that the defendant, William Josceline Hargrave, has been within the jurisdiction of this Court within two years before the said Bill was filed, and that upon enquiries at all those places where, at the time when such Bill was filed, the said defendant was most likely to have been met with, the said defendant could not be found so as to be served with process, and that there is just ground for believing that such defendant is gone out of this realm to avoid being served with the same; it is thereupon ordered that the defendant the said William Josceline Hargrave, do appear to the plaintiff's Bill on or before the 29th day of October, 1855; and it is ordered that the plaintiff do, by his next friend, cause a copy of this order, together with a notice thereof to the effect set forth at the foot of the General Order of this Court in that behalf, to be inserted in the London Gazette within fourteen days from the date hereof, and in one or more of the public journals of the United States of America, circulated in Buffalo, in such United States, on or before the 15th day of September, 1855.

Notice.—William Josceline Hargrave, take notice, that if you do not appear, pursuant to the above order, the plaintiff may enter an appearance for you, and the Court may afterwards grant to the plaintiff such relief as he may appear to be entitled to, on his own showing.

JAMES HENRY CLAYTON, 12, Serle-street, Lincoln's-inn, London, Solicitor for the Plaintiff.

Vice-Chancellor Wood.—Wednesday, the 1st day of August, in the 19th year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, 1855, between Hannah Biggin, Plaintiff; John Mentrup and John Duncan Binning, Defendants.

FORASMUCH as this Court was this present day informed by Mr. Faber, of Counsel for the plaintiff, that the plaintiff having exhibited her Bill in this Court against the defendants, on the 5th day of June, 1855, it appears by the affidavit of Timothy Crosby, filed on the 27th day of July, 1855, that on enquiry at the last known place of abode of the defendant, John Duncan Binning, he could not be found, so as to be served with a copy of such Bill, and that there is just ground to believe that such defendant is gone out of this realm, or keeping out of the way, to avoid being served therewith; it is thereupon ordered that the defendant, John Duncan Binning, do appear to the plaintiff's Bill on or before the 1st day of October next; and it is ordered that the plaintiff do cause a copy of this order, together with a notice thereof to the effect set forth at the foot of the General Order of this Court in that behalf, to be inserted in the London Gazette within fourteen days from the date hereof, and in two newspapers published in the county of Durham, on or before the 1st day of September next.

Notice.—John Duncan Binning, take notice, that if you do not appear, pursuant to the above order, the plaintiff may enter an appearance for you, and the Court may afterwards grant to the plaintiff such relief as she may appear to be entitled to, on her own showing.
