Whitehall, June 16, 1856.

THE following Addresses having been presented to the Queen, Her Majesty has been pleased to receive the same very graciously :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the borough of Bradford, in the West Riding of the county of York, beg most humbly to present to your Majesty our hearty congratulations on the restoration of Peace.

While deploring the loss of the many gallant men who have fallen in battle, and the sufferings endured with such exemplary patience by others who have survived, our own and the national grief is assuaged by the reflection that the horrors and sacrifices of the War have only served to exhibit more conspicuously the feeling of attachment to their Sovereign and their country which has pervaded all ranks, and to prove to the world that the indomitable spirit of the British people has neither been lost nor enervated by the long previous interval of European peace, and that, though the country was unprepared in the outset of the struggle, its immense resources have not been strained or impaired by the vast requirements of modern warfare, but have been developed in increasing and unexampled strength.

We hopefully anticipate that, as the War was commenced and has been prosecuted with no desire for conquest or aggrandisement, and Peace has been concluded, after successes disinterestedly achieved, and on terms settled in concert with Allies who have, in a destructive warfare, worthily shared the dangers and the honours of the armies and fleets of your Majesty, our beloved country and the other states of Europe may long be preserved from internal commotion or international strife.

While we would ever resist to the utmost any attack on the national honour and dignity, we observe with peculiar satisfaction, that, in the Treaty just concluded, there is contained the germ of that wise and Christian principle, by which, when differences arise among nations, they shall be submitted to the consideration of some mediating power for adjustment before plunging into a state of hostility alike disastrous to the aggressor and the aggrieved.

The return of an honourable Peace will, we hope, conduce to the diffusion of religion, the extension of commerce, and the advancement of the arts and sciences (of which your Majesty and your Royal Consort have been, and are, the munificent patrons), and in the right enjoyment of these blessings, and possessing the aspirations of a free people, we trust that this country, under the benignant rule of your Majesty, will maintain, and advance its position amongst nations, and be instrumental in spreading freedom and happiness throughout the world, and that your Majesty may be long spared to wield the Sceptre of England over a free, enlightened, and prosperous people.

Given under the Coporate Common Seal of the said borough of Bradford, at a meeting of the Council of the said borough, holden on the 13th day of May, 1856.

William Murgatroyd, Mayor.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, the Mayor, Aldermen and Burgesses of the borough of Swansea, respectively approach your Majesty with our fervent congratulations on the restoration of Peace.

Ardently desiring as we do that Wars should cease, we are nevertheless of opinion that on the late occasion your Majesty adopted the means best calculated to attain such an end, although compelled at the time to defend the sacred cause of justice and freedom, by having recourse to hostilities, and we hail with feelings of the deepest gratitude, the signal success which has attended your Majesty's efforts directed to the accomplishment of so righteous an object.

We are persuaded the time is approaching when civilized nations will abandon the employment of force, except in vindication, if it should unfortunately ever again become necessary, of the high and holy principles of right and truth, and we rejoice that it is our fortune to live under the auspicious rule of a Sovereign whose only appeal to arms has been for such a purpose, and whose reign the Almighty Disposer of all events has vouchsafed to mark with such unexampled lustre.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's faithful subjects, the inhabitants of the borough of Truro, in the county of Cornwall, in public meeting assembled, on the 19th day of May, 1856, respectfully tender to your Majesty our sincere congratulations on the restoration of Peace.

A just War has, under Divine Providence, been brought to a successful termination, by the gallantry and devotion of the Forces of your Majesty and your Majesty's Allies of France and Sardinia; and we earnestly trust that the triumph so nobly and dearly purchased has not only secured the integrity of the Turkish Empire, but permanently ensured the general Peace of Europe.

The deep interest evinced by your Majesty throughout this protracted and severe conflict, in behalf of your Majesty's brave soldiers and sailors, and your Majesty's constant endeavours to mitigate their sufferings, as well as to alleviate the affliction of their widows and orphans, will be recorded among the brightest incidents of English history.

That the concord now re-established among the nations may be perpetuated, and that your Majesty may long continue to reign over a loyal, prosperous, and contented people, and that every social and domestic blessing may attend your Majesty and your Royal Consort and Children, is our most earnest prayer.

Signed on behalf of the inhabitants,

Henry Sewell Stokes, Mayor of Truro.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

THE Court of Directors of the East India Company have lately received from the Government of Bengal the following Notification, which is published for general information.

SAILING INSTRUCTIONS FOR ENTERING THE RIVER MUTLAH FROM SEA.

The channels leading from sea into the River Mutlah having been buoyed off, the following notice is published for general information:—

The Western (or Ward's) Channel is bounded on the west by the Balchery Reef, or Sand, extending southwardly from the island of that name, and on the east by the Roymutlah Sand, part of which dries at low water. This channel is from 2 to 5 miles wide, and is marked off by six buoys, four red, or western, and two black, or eastern.

The outermost, or Reef Buoy, is a first class spire buoy, with two baskets on it; it is painted red, and marked with the letter M; it lies in $4\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms low water, spring tides; latitude $21^{\circ} 11'$ N., longitude $88^{\circ} 42' 45''$ E., and bears from the Eastern Channel Floating Light Buoy E. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., distant 32 miles.

The centre Balchery Buoy is a second class spire buoy, with one basket on it; it is painted red, and marked MUTLAH in full; it lies in 4 fathoms low water, about 7 miles N.N.W. from the outer or Reef Buoy.

The Balchery Spit Buoy is also a spire buoy, painted red; it lies in 4 fathoms low water, on a spit of the sand, about 9 miles N. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. of the centre buoy.

The upper Balchery Buoy is also a spire buoy, painted red, it lies in $\frac{1}{2}$ less 4 fathoms, about 6 miles N. by W. from the Spit Buoy, and W. by S. $\frac{3}{4}$ S. of the Flagstaff on Dalhousie Point.

The outer easternmost buoy of this channel is a second class spire buoy, painted black, with one basket on it; it lies $4\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms low water, on the S.W. verge of the Roymutlah Sand, N.E. by N. of the Reef Buoy, distant about $5\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

The Roymutlah Western Spit Buoy is a second class spire buoy, painted black; it lies in 4 fathoms low water, N.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. from the outer black buoy, distant about 10 miles, and north about 6 miles from the centre Balchery Buoy.

The mid-channel course from sea to abreast of the above Spit Buoy is N.N.W. $\frac{1}{3}$ W. 15 miles. From that point North 15 miles will carry a vessel up to Halliday's Island.

The Eastern, or Roymutlah Channel, is bounded by the Roymutlah Sand to the westward, and the Bangadoonee Sand, or Reef, to the eastward, and is marked off with four buoys, three red, or western, one black, or eastern.

The outermost buoy is a second class spire buoy, with one basket upon it; it is painted red, marked ^RMUTLAH; it lies in 5 fathoms low water, on the S.E. verge of the Roymutlah Sand, N.E. by E., about 10 miles from the Balchery Reef Buoy.

The Roymutlah Eastern Spit Buoy is painted red; it lies in 5 fathoms low water, N.N.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W., about 6 miles from the outer buoy.

The upper Roymutlah Buoy is painted red; it lies in $4\frac{3}{4}$ fathoms low water, N.W. of the Spit Buoy, distant about $5\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

The innermost buoy of this channel is painted black; it lies in 5 fathoms low water, on the south verge of a flat extending from Dalhousie Point to the S.S.E.; it bears from the upper Roymutlah Buoy N. by W., distant about 4 miles.

The mid-channel course in the Roymutlah Channel is N.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. to the black buoy, and from that point N.N.W. to N. by W. to Halliday's Island.

Vessels resorting to the River Mutlah during the S.W. Monsoon should adopt a similar route, and conform to the directions for making the pilot station at the entrance to the River Hooghly, taking their departure from the Eastern Channel Floating Light, steering E. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. to cross the tail of the eastern prong of Saugor Sand in 5 fathoms, off which they would deepen into 7 fathoms, shoaling again on the Lighthouse Sand to $5\frac{1}{2}$ or 6 fathoms, deepening off into $6\frac{1}{2}$ or 7, and crossing the Balchery Reef in $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 fathoms a little south of the Reef Buoy.

Commanders of vessels doubtful about crossing the tails of sands in a heavy swell could steer more to the southward, and keep in 8 or 9 fathoms soft ground; but great care would be requisite not to overrun the distance.

During the N.E. Monsoon, Commanders of vessels confident of the correctness of their reckoning should work up direct for the Balchery Reef Buoy; but during cloudy or thick weather, crossing the Swatch of No Ground in about the latitude of the buoy, and running down upon it, would be advisable.

It is high water, full and change, about 9 hours 15 minutes; at the Balchery Reef Buoy, the tides set round, as in the channels to the Hooghly; the floods making to the west, the ebbs to the eastward, having a velocity during the springs from $2\frac{1}{2}$ to 3 miles per hour, and a rise of 9 feet.

The bottom throughout the channels is mud, the sands exceedingly hard, and the lead an excellent and safe guide towards them. The least water in the Western or Ward's Channel is 4 fathoms; in the Roymutlah 5 fathoms, low water springs.

From Halliday's Island the course continues north up to the "Cattalee," where the river takes a sharp turn to the westward and the channel contracts. Up to this point a stranger, with Ward's chart, and ordinary care, could, without a pilot, conduct his ship with safety, attending to the set of the tides, leaving the red buoys to the westward, and black buoys east of his course.
