No. 2.

Major-General Sir Hugh Rose, K.C.B., commanding Central India Field Force, to the Adjutant-General of the Army.

SIR, *Head Quarters, Bombay,
Camp Saugor, February 7, 1858.*

MY report of the 31st ultimo will have informed you, for the information of his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, that the rebels had determined to defend the Fort of Rathghur, in order to prevent my force from relieving Saugor, and putting down rebellion in the Saugor and Bundelcund districts.

As I approached Rathghur, I received information of the assemblage of rebels at Oodepore, in Scindia's country, and in my front: in order to insure the safety of the siege train, which was a day's march in the rear, and not to lose time, I brought it up by a night march to my force, and adopted precautions against surprise.

In going through a pass over a range of hills, five miles from Rathghur, the officer commanding the leading flankers, embarrassed by the thick jungle, took by mistake the right instead of the left road, as ordered, and crossing, in consequence, the river Beena by the upper, the wrong ford, got into a skirmish with the rebels posted in the suburbs of Rathghur. I had just arrived with the advance guard at the encamping ground; to extricate the flankers from a position so unfavourable to cavalry I advanced and covered, with infantry, guns, and supports, their return to their proper position. In rectifying this mistake I had gained a good deal of ground to the right front, and a company of the 24th Native Infantry had taken, with spirit, one or two houses and gardens. On reconnoitring, I found that they were the commencement of the suburbs, and that to keep all this would compromise my right, and plan of attacking the fort from the left flank; I therefore ordered the troops back to their camp.

The next day, I made with Major Boileau, commanding engineer, and a small party of the 3d Europeans and 3d Light Cavalry, under Captain Forbes, a complete reconnoissance of eighteen miles of the whole country round the rock of Rathghur.

I ascertained that the rock, one and a half miles in length, covered and surrounded with thick jungle, slopes from the west, where it is precipitous, to the east, where it is accessible. The north front of the fort was the only one which was habited; the other fronts were merely fortifications. The river Beena was under the west face.

The reconnoissance confirmed in all essentials the information on which I had formed my plan of attack; I carried it out by investing, the same evening, the rock of Rathghur, as clearly as the great extent, hills, thick jungle, and a difficult river would allow me; but it was impossible, unless with a very much larger force than my own, to invest completely such ground, because a great part of it is dense jungle, which, hiding all view of the enemy's motions, enable him by a feint to concentrate the vedettes and pickets on one point and then pass through the vacuum.

Sir Robert Hamilton had had the goodness to place at my disposal 600 or 700 troops of all arms of the Regiment of Bhopal, and I had requested their commander to invest the south-west of the fort, as being nearest to their country, and to take the village of Paltun, which they did with alacrity after firing a few shots.

The next day, as soon as the officers commanding the Artillery and Engineers had reported that they were ready for the siege, I attacked the fort from the left, at the south-west end of the rock, under cover of feint from the right, against the town, from which all possible advantage was to be derived.

Both succeeded.

Leaving a troop of the 3d Light Cavalry at the foot of the slope to cover our rear, accompanied by Captain Forbes, commanding the 3d Light Cavalry who is always as zealous as he is useful, I mounted with the troops in the margin,* under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Liddell, the slope, two companies of the 3d Europeans skirmishing and covering the breadth of the rock; two companies supporting, and the rest in reserve; we made our way through thick jungle, and reached, without being discovered, the edge of the open ground in front of the east curtain of the fort, which Major Boileau had selected for the breaching batteries.

I directed a road to be cut immediately by the Sappers and Miners from the foot of the slope to this battery; our left to open a communication down the south of the rock, with the troop of the 3d Cavalry investing the south of the rock; our right to open a communication down the north side of the rock with the camp, and rifle pits to be made at night in front of our attack, enfilading, as much as possible, the enemy's line of defences.

The enemy, having perceived our position, commenced rather a sharp fire on it from their jungals and small guns in the curtain and bastions, which I kept down with the fire of the 6-pounder of the Hyderabad Contingent and the 5½ mortars, the former firing at the loopholes and embrasures, the latter with half charges, dropping their shells on the banquette. I beg to mention for his devotion on this occasion Quartermaster Thompson, commanding a half battery of the Artillery of the Hyderabad Contingent, who has completed thirty-two years of meritorious service. Twice hit, he continued to fight his guns successfully to the close of the day. I thanked his battery on the ground.

The two 18-pounders, with elephant draught, were brought up the hill at 4 p.m., the 3d Europeans dragging them up the steep where the elephants could not go.

The feint against the town drove the enemy out of it into the fort, and enabled Brigadier Stewart, with the force in the margin,† to take possession of the "Eedgah," a Mussulman place of prayer, opposite to the north face, commanding the town and within range of the main gate of the fort, on this height, and another to the left: he skilfully placed Captain Lightfoot's 9-pounder battery, one 8-inch howitzer, and two 8-inch mortars. These batteries, forming the right or town attack, kept up night and day an effective fire on the line of defences and buildings of the fort.

On the 27th instant, I changed the 8-inch howitzer from the right to the left attack, in order to enfilade with its fire the defences and palaces of the north face.

I was constantly between the two attacks, which were 2½ miles apart.

From the town attack I directed a detachment of the 3d Europeans, supported by another of the 24th Native Infantry, with two companies of the 24th Native Infantry in reserve, and under cover of houses and trees, and of a heavy fire from the Eedgah Battery, to take a low massive tower, close to the main gate, Captain Lightfoot being of opinion that a howitzer might be placed in it, which would batter the gate and strengthen and

* Lieutenant-Colonel Liddell commanding 3d Bombay European Regiment; detachment of siege train, under Lieutenant Mallock; two 18-pounders, 16 men Bombay Artillery; two 5½-inch mortars, ten men Bombay Artillery; 90 Madras Sappers and Miners, two 6-pounder guns, Artillery Hyderabad Contingent, one troop 3d Light Cavalry, under Captain Forbes.

† Four 6-pounder guns Bombay Horse Artillery, six 9-pounder guns Bombay Light Field Battery, under Captain Lightfoot; 50 Bombay Sappers and Miners, detachment of siege train; two 8-inch mortars, one 8-inch howitzer, 26 men Bombay Artillery, all the artillery under Lieutenant-Colonel Twinball; two troops of Her Majesty's 14th Dragoons, under Major Lendamore; 24th Regiment Native Infantry.

shorten the cordon of investment. I had a couple of 8-inch shells thrown into the tower to drive out the enemy, should they be there, when the storming party, gallantly led by Captain Lightfoot, who volunteered to accompany it, for which I beg to recommend him to his Excellency, entered the tower under a heavy fire from the walls, by the postern opposite the walls from which it was only fifty yards distant. Captain Lightfoot recommends Private Davies, of the 3d Europeans, for his gallantry and intelligence on this occasion.

Captain Lightfoot and Lieutenant Bonnas, of the Engineers, having, after a thorough examination of the tower, reported that the massive construction and nature of its defences prevented their being used for the offensive, I withdrew the troops from it before daylight.

On the 28th instant, at eight, the sand-bag batteries of the left attack having been completed, the two 18-pounders and the 8-inch howitzer having been brought up to them, commenced their fire against the outer wall of the east curtain of the fort with such good effect that it was evident that a practicable breach would be soon made.

I had just returned to the camp from the battery, when the rebels, coming in force out of the thick jungle, crossed the river Beena, and attacked the videttes of the right rear of the camp. Another large body of them appeared at the same time on the opposite bank, the two bodies amounting to 1500 or 2000 men, many of them sepoy and valaites.

I moved rapidly with the outlying picket of Her Majesty's 14th Light Dragoons, who in less than a minute were in their saddles against the rebels, ordering two guns and the rest of the pickets to follow in support. The enemy, who were skirmishing with a picket of the 3d Light Cavalry, on seeing our approach, fired a discharge of muskets and rockets at us, and ran into a gorge of the Beena, and up its rocky banks; I directed Captain Hare, following in my rear, to move by a short line and cut off their retreat.

Brigadier Stuart, whom I had called up, advancing from the Eedgah, with a few rounds of artillery, sent the rebels on the other side of the river into the jungle, and the whole retreated rapidly to a precipitous ridge above the village of Chunderapore, four miles to the north-west of Rathghur, from whence they had started in the morning.

Captain Hare came up with the rear of the rebels before they reached the ridge, and cut up several of them.

Captain Hare and Lieutenant Westmacott, attached to the Hyderabad Cavalry, did good service on this occasion; and Lieutenant Moore, of the 3d Bombay Light Cavalry, who, on account of the few artillery, has served again with effect, deserves also to be mentioned.

After nightfall, the rebels made a feeble and unsuccessful attack on the left of the camp from the Saugor road. The rebels who had come from their fortified camp Noreonlee, and from the fort of Kooreye, failed completely in their attempt to surprise the camp and relieve Rathghur. During the whole time of their attack, the breaching batteries continued their fire. Colonel Turnbull reported that the breach would be practicable for an assault the next day at sunset.

Accounts now came in to me that the rebels from the Chunderapoor ridge had, early in the morning, attacked in the difficult pass mentioned in the first part of this report, a convoy of supplies coming for my force from the west, and had killed Scindia's Vakeel who was in charge of it.

The safety of my supplies rendered it necessary that the enemy should be driven from Chunderapoor. During the night, I was employed in making arrangements for attacking them, which was not easy, as my force was already engaged in an operation, for which, in former times, a force of four times their strength was considered necessary. However I was on the point of marching against Chunderapoor, when two spies I had sent out during the night, came in and reported that the enemy had left that place for Barodia.

On visiting the Eedgah, Brigadier Stuart reported to me that about 4 o'clock A.M., the enemy had attempted to make a sortie from the main gate, which he had driven back with Captain Lightfoot's 9-pounders. A Bhopal officer came up, and reported that he had cut up twenty-five out of fifty of the garrison, who had attempted to force their way by his patrol. Colonel Liddell reported also at the same time, that judging from the stillness in the fort that its garrison were escaping, he had entered it by the uncompleted breach with part of the 3rd Europeans, who after receiving some shots from the few rebels still there, had killed them and taken possession of the fort. The main body fled by an ancient sally-port and a hole dug under the parapet to the south west, from which, when I entered the fort, the ropes were hanging by which they had let themselves down. The reports of all the officers on duty state that these rebels, crossing a ford over the Beena, to the south-west, under the Bhopal camp, passed through the Bhopal lines into the jungle. The Bhopal troops fired a few shots at the fugitives; two or three of their dead baggage-animals in this ford showed the track they had taken. The Bhopal troops have been, and are still so useful to me, that I merely mention this circumstance, which is nothing out of the way, amongst oriental troops, out of justice to my own force.

The garrison, stated to be 400 or 500 in number, had, although many of them were warlike valaites and pattians, despite of their determination that they would hold Rathghur or die, not been able to stand the shelling, or meet the approaching assault. I am glad to say that the investment of the rock prevented the escape, and caused the capture of most of the chief rebels, and of many of the rest. Mahomed Fazil Khan, a relation of the Regent of Bhopal, and the Military Chief of the rebels in these districts, and all his staff, such as they were, attempted to cross the Beena, but seeing the vedettes of Her Majesty's 14th Light Dragoons on the other bank, turned back, and hid themselves in a cave under the rock where they were captured. The vedettes and pickets round the rock, those of Bhopal included, cut down, and took many of the fugitive garrison during the day. I made over eighty prisoners to Sir Robert Hamilton, of whom twenty-four were executed, and forty-eight more to the civil authorities.

Of the cavalry sent in pursuit of the fugitives, the Hyderabad Irregulars came up with, and killed forty of them, this being exclusive of the twenty-five killed by the Bhopal troops. Lieutenant Westmacott, on this occasion, again distinguished himself.

At sunset, Mahomed Fazil Khan, and the Nawab Kamdar Khan, a pensioner of the British Government, and a son of the Great Pindaree Chief, taken by Sir John Malcolm, were hung over the gate of the fort, in presence of detachments of my force. The next day seventeen more, most of them rebels of note, and all part of the garrison of Rathghur, were executed. Two of them, brothers of the Pindaree Chief, had taken part in the murder of the British Assistant at Bereiseeah. Kishen Ram, a secretary of Mohamed Fazil Khan, is stated to have been instrumental in atrocities committed on forty Christians; Wallidad Khan, who admitted on his trial "that he had done all he could, and three times urged Fazil Mahomed to go down, sword in hand, and attack the camp;" a Talaitre leader, &c.

The Shahzadah of Mundisore was not in the fort, as was proved by an unopened letter from the Rajah of Bampore to his address, found in the fort by an Officer of the 3rd Europeans; he had left it the day of our arrival. In this letter, which is curious, the Rajah gives him the title of King, and deplures that many native Chiefs do not venerate his kingly authority as they ought to do, but have the bad taste to prefer the rule of the Kafir and infidels.

The fort was provided with a fine tank, cut out of the rock, fifty feet deep; and in it were found great stores of salt and grain, sufficient for a year's consumption, a few camels, cattle, and several horses, two of them belonging to Mahomed Fazil Khan, one with a silver bridle, and another to the Shahzadah of Mundisore; a mould for casting cannon and shot, and an immense mass of native correspondence, and English accounts, which I made over to Sir Robert Hamilton. One object was also found which excited indignation, the effigy of the head of a decapitated European female, which it appears these supporters of a change of rule in India, carried before their troops, as fitting emblems of their deeds. Notwithstanding this, and all that has passed, far worse than this, the 3rd Europeans, when they entered the fort, treated the women and numerous children of the rebels, who were left there, with the humanity which was to be expected from their discipline and their faith. I had enjoined the troops, for the honour of their country and the army, not to harm a woman or child.

I beg to bring to his Excellency's favourable consideration the zealous and able support which I have received before Rathghur from Brigadier Stuart, Lieutenant-Colonel Turnbull, commanding the Artillery, and Major Boileau, commanding the Engineers, and which contributed so materially to the success of the operations against it, as well as the discipline, courage, and thorough good will of the troops engaged in them.

Anxious not to lose a day in relieving Saugor, I made continued marches without a halt. The troops, on account of the difficulties of supply, were at times twenty-four hours without rations, and four days on duty before Rathghur without a relief, defending their camp against a numerous enemy, in a dangerous country on their flanks and rear, attacking with all their energy, and taking, in three days, a fort, strong by nature and art, in their front, which Scindia, with a force of at least four times their strength, besieged for five months.

I shall have the honour to make favourable mention of the services of my staff in a future report.

I beg leave to enclose a return of the Oude Artillery found in the fort, and of the casualties in my force before Rathghur.

The troops took three large standards, two of which bore the red extended hand, the device of Mahomedan rebellion.

I beg to offer my excuses for the length of this report, which is caused by the varied nature of the operations. I cannot conclude it without returning my sincere thanks to his Excellency and to Lord Elphinstone for having made my force as complete as circumstances would possibly allow, and for the very great kindness with which you have attended to all my requests on this subject.

Enclosed is the extract of a memorandum from Sir Robert Hamilton to me,

I have, &c.,
