DESPATCHES, of which the following are copies or extracts, have been received by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty from Rear-Admiral Sir Michael Seymour :

CAPTURE OF PIRATE VESSELS BY STAUNCH GUNBOAT.

*Calcutta, at Hong Kong,
August 24, 1858.*

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to transmit, to be laid before the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, a copy of a letter dated the 4th August, with its inclosures, from Lieutenant L. Wildman, commanding Her Majesty's steam gun-boat Staunch, reporting an attack on three pirate vessels, on his passage from Shanghai to Hong Kong, and the destruction of two of them with most of their crews.

2. Taking into consideration the great disparity of force opposed to the Staunch, and that the latter had only her two 24-pounder howitzers on board, I consider this gallant action reflects great credit on Lieutenant Wildman, his officers, and limited complement.

I have, &c.,

M. SEYMOUR,

Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

The Secretary of the Admiralty.

REPORTING THE CAPTURE OF TWO PIRATICAL JUNKS.

*Her Majesty's gun-boat Staunch off Te-plain Island,
August 4, 1858.*

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to report for your Excellency's information the particulars of an engagement which took place this morning off the island Taon Pung, about fifty miles to the north of the port of Wauchon, between Her Majesty's gun-boat under my command and three piratical junks.

At 8 A.M., whilst at anchor off that island, two Sanpans came alongside with information that some piratical junks had attacked and plundered a village, &c., and were then rounding a neighbouring point.

I immediately weighed, cleared for action, and stood (under steam) towards four junks which had just then cleared the point, one flying an English ensign, a second a Portuguese, the other two Chinese flags. When we had closed within 200 yards the three largest junks opened a smart and effective fire on us, doing much damage aloft ; and to prevent injuring my boats, as I determined to take them by boarding, I deemed it prudent to lower and tow them astern. I then returned their fire with the Staunch's two howitzers, still closing with them ; but as our long gun had been sent on board Her Majesty's ship Fury by your Excellency's orders, to ease the gun-boat coming down the China Sea, during the typhoon season, our fire was comparatively feeble.

I went ahead at full speed on to the largest junk, giving orders to lash her alongside us ; but the instant we touched, such a shower of stink-pots and other combustible matter was thrown on board us, it was impossible for any person to remain forward, or to see through the dense smoke they occasioned.

It was at this moment, I deeply regret to state, that Edward George, A.B., who was actually engaged in lashing the junk alongside, having gallantly jumped on board her for that purpose, was cut to pieces, and his remains thrown overboard. The strong breeze favouring the junk, and a heavy swell making it difficult to lash her, she sheered off ; and the Chinese in the meantime, having cut our boats adrift, and being close to the rocks, I backed astern, and having picked them up, I remounted the howitzers, which had been dismounted from the rapidity of my fire, and renewed the engagement, running alongside one and boarding, killing a great number of her crew, many of whom endeavoured to escape by jumping overboard, but only a small number reached the shore.

Leaving this vessel in charge of Mr. Morice, the Second Master, and a party of men, I gave chase to a second in my gig, and having come up with her, I boarded and took possession, making prisoners of the only two living men on board, many having been killed, and a few escaping by jumping overboard. The third junk, in the meanwhile, having got some distance away, and not having more than five effective men left after the engagement, I deemed it prudent not to follow her among the numerous rocks and intricate passage she had taken, and being unable to spare any officers and men for the captured junks, I gave directions for them to be burnt, which was done.

I should observe that, during the time Mr. Morice and the men whom I had left with him to burn the first junk, were performing this duty, a number of Sanpans pulled alongside, and endeavoured to recapture her, firing her long gun below where our people were lighting a fire.

Fortunately it did no harm to them, but caused an explosion, which killed from 20 to 30 Chinese.

The fourth vessel having been a capture made by the pirates, I released, having previously obtained a written statement to that effect.

I have great pleasure in bringing to your Excellency's notice the admirable and gallant conduct of Mr. Morice, Second Master, the other officers and ship's company of the Staunch in this action, under the double disadvantage of a very reduced complement and armament, with these three junks, carrying a long 24-pounder gun amidships, and six broadside guns of smaller calibre, besides several mounted gingalls.

Charles Ansell, Quartermaster, I also wish particularly to bring to your notice, for his assistance in pointing the howitzers, and his gallant conduct throughout the engagement.

I enclose my list of casualties and defects.

I have, &c.,

LEVESON WILDMAN,

Lieutenant and Commander.

P.S.—I should have mentioned that from the quantity of European knives, revolver cartridges and rifles, and the desperate resistance they made in keeping up a heavy fire, that Europeans must have been on board; the engagement having lasted five hours.

Commander-in-Chief.

OPERATIONS AGAINST PIRATES.

*Calcutta, at Hong-Kong,
September 10, 1858.*

SIR,

INFORMATION having reached me, on the evening of the 22nd ultimo, that a fleet of 20 pirate vessels had captured a junk bound to Hong-Kong, in the neighbourhood of this island, I despatched Her Majesty's steam-gun-vessel, Surprise, on the following morning, in search of them. She returned the same evening, having succeeded in destroying or capturing 26 heavily-armed junks at the island of Singting, mounting over 300 guns. I enclose Commander Cresswell's report of his proceedings, dated the 24th August, and beg to draw their Lordships' favourable notice to the gallant manner in which the commander, officers, and crew of the Surprise engaged and overcame so superior a force.

2. It being reported that the pirates destroyed by the Surprise formed a division of a large fleet to the southward, which has harassed the coasting trade for some time, I ordered the Magicienne, Inflexible, Plover, and Algerine, under the orders of Captain Nicholas Vansittart, C.B., to scour the coast in that direction. By that officer's report, herewith enclosed, dated the 4th instant, their Lordships will perceive that the expedition was attended with the most complete success, no less than 100 piratical vessels having been destroyed, and 236 guns sunk in deep water, with heavy loss to those desperate miscreants. The town of Coolan, the head-quarters of the pirates, was also destroyed, as well as a stockaded fort of fourteen guns. The conduct of the officers and men of the squadron is deserving of the highest praise.

3. On Captain Vansittart's return, I ordered him to cruise to the northward of Hong Kong; but though he visited all the usual haunts of the pirates, the people stated that they had not been troubled for some time past.

4. These important successes have afforded much satisfaction to the Chinese traders. Captain Vansittart justly gives great credit to Mr. Caldwell, Registrar-General, who accompanied the expedition, for obtaining information. This gentleman's name must be familiar to their Lordships, from his numerous services against pirates.

I have, &c.

M. SEYMOUR,

Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.
The Secretary of the Admiralty, London.

REPORTING CAPTURE AND DESTRUCTION OF PIRATICAL VESSELS.

Her Majesty's ship Surprise, at Hong Kong,

August 24, 1858.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to inform you that, in compliance with instructions received from you, on the night of the 22nd inst., directing me to proceed in search of piratical junks, near the Leman Islands, and effect their capture or destruction, I proceeded to sea at daylight the following morning, having with me the launch and barge of Her Majesty's ship Cambrian.

Shortly after opening out from Hong Kong Bay the pilot pointed out three boats working to windward, and informed me that they were part of the piratical fleet. I fortunately, at this time, observed many masts in a small bay, in N.W. part of the island of Ling-Sing, and being informed it was the main body of the piratical force, I proceeded toward them.

When within about 1700 yards they opened fire on me, which I did not return, until within about 1000, when we engaged them with one port broadside, firing shot and shell.

I then directed the Cambrian's boom boats to take up a position in shore of us, so as to be able to advance, taking them in the flank, as their guns came within range: the enemy directed much of their fire to the boats, which was admirably replied to by Lieutenant J. W. Webb, as he steadily advanced with his boats.

The enemy opened on us at 8 A.M., keeping up a smart and well-directed fire with round shot, and spear headed rockets, and, as we closed, with grape and canister, hulling the ship on several occasions, and had we not kept on a continual move would doubtless have caused us material damage.

After about 35 minutes their fire considerably slackened, and at about 9 o'clock two of their largest lorches blew up with a tremendous explosion, caused apparently by the bursting of one of our shells; they appeared immediately paralyzed, and their firing ceased. Taking advantage of this, I pushed on with my own boats, and joining with the Cambrian's boats, effected a landing within a very short distance of the junks, having observed the crews desert their vessels and take to the hills.

On advancing to the top of a neighbouring ridge, some more piratical vessels were discovered in a snug creek in the opposite side, crowded with men, and evidently prepared for an attack from seaward; our position completed commanded them, and by opening fire on them with our rifles, killing a great number, caused the others to run away, after a vain attempt to reach us with their gingalls, our height being too great for any effective fire from the large guns.

Not deeming it prudent to expose the men unnecessarily to the scorching heat of the sun, I ordered their return to the boats in preference to advancing by land, and returning myself to the Surprise, closed and, taking the boats in tow, steamed round abreast the creek, and fired a few shells. I then despatched the Cambrian's and our own boats, under cover of our fire, to effect the capture of the junks. No resistance was offered, beyond the occasional fire of gingalls, from the neighbouring hills, the junks being deserted.

Several of them being aground and many others much shattered, from our fire, we only succeeded in bringing out seven, so I ordered the remainder to be destroyed by fire.

On boarding and landing, to effect this, we found a number of dead Chinamen, and observed, for the first time, several guns mounted on shore, commanding the creek, which were destroyed.

The capture of the piratical fleet being completed, 19 having been set fire to, and 7 taken possession of, and observing the total destruction of the ones fired by the explosion of their several magazines, I proceeded on my return to Hong Kong, taking 4 of the junks in tow, the 3 others being in charge of officers with orders to follow, and arrived at this port at 9.30 P.M., with the 4 junks, the others arriving during the night.

Of the seven vessels we have in our possession, two are lorcha built, one mounting 28 guns, the other 24—from 6 to 24-pounders; the remaining ones being junks of from 7 to 16 guns.

Of those destroyed five were heavily armed lorchas, the remainder averaging the same armament as above. In all mounting on board and on shore 327 guns, 103 of which are on board the vessels brought in.

I have great pleasure in bringing to your notice the conduct of Lieut. J. W. Webb of H.M.S. Cambrian, for the very gallant and judicious manner in which he fought the boats of that vessel; and of the assistance rendered me both on board and on shore by Lieut. Charles Parry, Senior Lieutenant of the Surprise, as also of the steadiness and zeal displayed by the other officers and men under my command.

The only casualty was Mr. Mallet, mate of the Cambrian, who, I regret to say, was severely burnt from an explosion whilst firing one of the junks.

I have, &c.,
S. GURNEY CRESSWELL,
Commander.

His Excellency
Rear-Admiral Sir M. Seymour,
K.C.B.

LETTER OF PROCEEDINGS.

Her Majesty's ship Magicienne, off Linting Island, 4th September, 1858.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to inform you, that in obedience to your orders for me to take under my directions Her Majesty's ships Inflexible, Plover, Algerine, and proceed with them to destroy and capture the many pirates represented as being in this neighbourhood, that I left the anchorage of Hong Kong with the said vessels and Her Majesty's ship under my command on the morning of the 26th ultimo, as soon as Mr. Caldwell, the Registrar General, and three Chinese informers had come on board.

From Hong Kong we proceeded and examined carefully the whole coast as far westward as Mamee, having up to the present date taken and destroyed—1 fortified stockade mounting 14 guns, 26 piratical fighting junks, 74 fast row-boats, 236 guns, about 372 pirates killed, 36 pirates taken alive, 6 cargo vessels recaptured from pirates, 54 men and 6 women retaken from pirates; with only a few wounded on our side.

I enclose herewith a detailed account of each day's proceedings, with list of captures, people rescued, casualties, officers employed in boats, &c. I cannot say too much for the valuable assistance I have received from Mr. Caldwell, the Registrar General, who was most indefatigable in his exertions, gaining much valuable information from the prisoners rescued, and by other means, thereby being in a great measure the cause of our success, and he showed much judgment in discriminating the innocent from the guilty of those captured on board the junks, besides being a valuable acquisition from his intimate knowledge of the Chinese language.

In conclusion, I beg to draw to your favourable notice more particularly the following officers:—Commander Brooker, of the Inflexible; J. C. Soady, Senior Lieutenant of this ship; Lieutenant Wynniatt, commanding Plover; Lieutenant Arthur, commanding Algerine; Lieutenant Bevan, of the Inflexible; and Mr. Brabazon, Acting Mate of this ship, as being in command of parties. The work undergone by all the officers and men employed, the precision of the fire of the vessels and boats, the order and discipline sustained, reflect the highest credit to both officers and men, as also to the masters of the two ships and second masters of the gunboat, for their conducting their respective vessels through so many intricate channels.

To Commander Brooker I gave the command of the left division of boats, with the gunboat Algerine; besides his co-operating with me on all occasions, he was most energetic in endeavouring to carry out all my wishes, and I found his services most valuable, he having been employed against the Chinese pirates on former occasions.

To First Lieutenant J. C. Soady of this ship, I gave command of the right division of boats on every occasion; besides the entire management of getting guns out of vessels into deep water, landing parties on shore and setting vessels on fire, he is an invaluable officer; amongst many other claims on the service, he was First Lieutenant of the Arrogant at the bombardment of Sweaborg in 1855.

Lieutenants Wynniatt and Arthur are most highly deserving officers. Lieutenant Wynniatt's despatch concerning his gallant attack upon the pirate squadron on the 29th August, I enclose herewith. Lieutenant Arthur, although much hurt, on the 28th August, in both legs, by the carrying away of a hawser, refused to have assistance lent to him, but was always at work when anything was to be done.

First Lieutenant Bevan, of the Inflexible, acted with Commander Brooker, who speaks most highly of him and the assistance he received.

Mr. Brabazon, Acting Mate of this ship, besides being on board the Plover, with ten of the Magicienne's Royal Marine Artillery to assist in working her guns, was always away in the boats upon their shoving off from the gun-boat, and was with me on the 30th August, in the first gig, when, from being a light boat, we got within a few yards of the pirate junk, before the other boats could come up, the pirates making a good defence, so much so as to wound 8 of 9 men whom I took in the boat. I found his services as a good rifle shot, with the assistance of the two marines of great service.

Mr. G. Anstruther, midshipman of this ship, gallantly saved from drowning one of the gig's crew, of which I have spoken in the detailed account.

Commander Brooker, Lieutenants Soady and Wynniatt, were with me on the 27th August, when, with ten men, we made the night attack on the fortified stockade of 14 guns.

I have despatched the Algerine into Hong Kong with Mr. Caldwell, the three Chinese informers, and the remainder of the persons rescued from the pirates not yet disposed of. Upon the Algerine's return with Mr. Caldwell, I propose searching well the bays in the vicinity of Hong Kong to the eastward, as we have every reason to believe that there is still one fleet of junks undiscovered.

The energy of Mr. Caldwell in finding out and gaining information as to where the pirates are, does him the very greatest credit.

Trusting you will approve of my proceedings since leaving Hong Kong on the 26th ultimo,

I have, &c.,

NICHOLAS VANSITTART,

Captain.

Rear-Admiral Sir M. Seymour, K.C.B.,

Commander-in-Chief, &c.

Detailed Account of the Proceedings of H. M. Ships Magicienne, Inflexible, Plover, and Algerine, when upon a Cruise for the Suppression of Piracy.

1858, 26th August.—Leaving the anchorage at Hong Kong at 6.30 A.M., we proceeded and carefully examined Pootoy, the Lema Islands, Sammoon, Lingting and Chungchow; sending the Inflexible and Algerine to the westward of Lingting, the Magicienne with the Plover going to the eastward, we came upon two piratical fighting junks and one fast-boat. One of the junks having her anchor up made for the shore, the crew taking to their boats. I immediately despatched the Plover, directing Lieutenant Wynniatt to bring her out, which he did, and was fortunate in recapturing Chas. Deacon, an Englishman (belonging to the American ship Antelope) who had been taken by the pirates three weeks before, in company with the mate and eight Chinese; the former and four of the latter he saw cut down and thrown overboard at the time of being captured. The second junk was at anchor, which the pirates had abandoned and laid a train to, but she fortunately blew up before the Plover's boat reached her. Being informed that there were about 120 pirates on the island who had taken to the hills and rocks, I despatched Lieutenant Soady, 1st Lieutenant of this ship, and Lieutenant Tuson, R.M.A., with a strong party ashore to cut off any pirates, but found here, as elsewhere, that it was useless following them, so shot at the different parties as they showed themselves. The junk blown up being nearly awash, I directed Lieutenant Soady to recover as many of the guns on board her as he possibly could, and to bring them out into deep water, which by nine the next morning he completed, bringing out with those on board the first captured junk, 50 guns of from 6, 9, 12, and 18-pounders, all of which were taken into deep water and junks destroyed. Ashore, much shot and ammunition was found, all of which was destroyed.

27th August.—In the morning before leaving Lingting, a Chinese who had been taken by the pirates some days before, came on board in one of our boats;—his description of the atrocities committed by the pirates was dreadful to hear. Mr. Caldwell, the Registrar-General, on board of us, having gained information at Lingting that two pirate junks, with a cargo junk of cocoa-nuts, had only left on the 25th for Coulan Bay, a stronghold and favourite resort of the pirates, we proceeded by the Ladrone Islands to Tylon, and anchored the Magicienne and Inflexible at 5 P.M. on the south side in 4 fathoms water. I immediately proceeded in the Plover with all the boats of the Magicienne armed, under Lieutenant Soady, and the boats of the Inflexible in tow of the Algerine, under Commander Brooker; landing the marines under Lieutenant Tuson, R.M.A., with pinnace in charge of Lieutenant Hill, on the south side. Upon our opening Coulan Bay, we discovered a squadron of five piratical fighting junks, with two captured cargo vessels. Upon our nearing them, they fired one gun, and ran their vessels aground, the crews jumping overboard and swimming ashore. The fire of the Plover, Algerine, and rocket-boats was admirable. Anchoring the gun-boats in position at sunset, we took possession of the pirate junks mounting in all 62 guns, the two cargo junks being one laden with cocoa-nuts and the other with rice. We had to destroy the cocoa-nut vessel (being on the rocks), but liberated the rice junk, putting on board of her the people found in the former, the united crews amounting to 24 men. At 10 P.M. I started with Magicienne's and Inflexible's first gigs, accompanied by Commander Brooker, Lieutenants Soady and Wynniatt, on a reconnoitring expedition. Up the creek, we discovered and set fire to four piratical fighting junks, one of 12 guns, the others having had their guns removed; whilst destroying the junks and some smaller vessels, occasional musket-shots were fired at us, which we returned. As we were burning the third junk, great guns opened on us, at about 1,700 yards from inland, many of the shot reaching alongside the gigs at that distance. Favoured by the moon (occasionally obscured), I determined to land; so with Commander Brooker, Lieutenants Soady and Wynniatt, and ten men, we pushed on as well as we could find our way guided by the spirited fire of the guns at the stockade, which continued until we got within pistol-shot, up to which time we had reserved our fire. Giving a volley, we pushed on; the enemy ran, ourselves being brought up for a minute or so by the entrance of the stockade being staked; clambering through mud, water, and over embankment; we got possession of the 14-gun stockade, spiked the guns, destroyed the ammunition, fired volleys where at times we heard the enemy, and returned on board by 2 A.M. with no loss on our side. Although the shot came over our heads, the pirates appeared to be firing at where the vessels were burning in the creek, and not to be aware of our movements ashore, nor the smallness of our force, until we were close upon them. For, having to advance in single file, in a narrow pathway, several of the guns being placed so as to completely sweep away every thing approaching, we would have required a considerable force to have attacked it in the day time, and I have little doubt that we should have sustained some loss. The guns were similar to those in the piratical fighting junks.

28th August.—Lieutenants Sharpe and Bevan were employed getting the guns out of the junks captured in Coulan Bay into deep water, and then setting the vessel on fire. Landing a large party under Commander Brooker, Lieutenant Soady, and Acting Mate Brabazon, I had 30 piratical fast-boats destroyed, and marched up to the stockade to destroy the guns more effectually and burn the houses in the vicinity; the same having been effected, all hands re-embarked and proceeded down to the ships, weighed and steamed down on the south side, to Sandy Bay, St. John's Island, Mr. Caldwell going down on the north side, with Plover and Algerine, where all re-anchored by dark.

29th August.—At daylight having despatched the Plover and Algerine to search Samtong Bay, I proceeded with Mr. Caldwell and Commander Brooker, in Magicienne's and Inflexible's 1st gigs, to search the small nooks and coves in Sandy Bay, St. John's Island. At the extreme end of one of the bays we came suddenly upon a piratical junk of 10 guns, all on one broadside, and 38 men all at their guns, pointed for the entrance between the rocks. As he evidently intended disputing our entrance, and it would be impossible to board him on account of his being high and dry on the mud, I had the gig's crews landed on the rocks with their rifles. Upon our opening fire the pirates immediately fled, many being killed;—on board we found two women, who had been prisoners for upwards of two months, whom we liberated. In the forenoon, seeing some junks to the westward, I despatched Commander Brooker in the Inflexible with the boats of the Magicienne under Lieutenant Soady to examine them, remaining at anchor in Magicienne to superintend getting the pirate junk out to where we were at anchor. Off Hawchum Bluff, the Plover and Algerine came upon six piratical junks, upon which they made a spirited attack, doing much credit to Lieutenants Wynniatt and Arthur; after an exchange of shot for several minutes, the pirates jumped overboard, upwards of 190 being killed or drowned, 36 taken alive, 22 people rescued, and 80 guns destroyed; the Inflexible with Magicienne's boats coming in very opportunely to prevent any escape, and to give a finishing stroke to an affair so ably executed by Lieutenant Wynniatt. For the particulars I must refer you to the letter written by Lieutenant Wynniatt, enclosed herewith.

30th August.—At 4 p.m. hearing a gun fired from the northward, I had the Plover ready with the Magicienne's cutter under Lieutenant Soady, and Inflexible's cutter under Lieutenant Bevan, and started at daybreak, with Mr. Caldwell and Commander Brooker after four vessels for the land.

Upon our getting within gunshot, the crews of the two larger junks took to their boats and made for the shore, ourselves opening fire with musketry and great guns, destroying the greater part of them.

The vessels turned out to be one pirate junk mounting 5 guns, on board of which we found a Chinese woman, who had been made a prisoner with 7 men, some days before, near Macao; her vessel, the second large one, having been kept by the pirates to form one of their squadron. The remaining two were fishing vessels, one with five men, the other with four on board, whom we liberated. The other two vessels I had taken into deep water, set fire to, and guns thrown overboard. The woman I had sent to the Magicienne.

Weighing with the ships at 8 p.m., we proceeded to Mong Chow, where leaving the Magicienne and Inflexible at anchor, I proceeded at 1 p.m., with Mr. Caldwell in the Plover, taking in tow all the Magicienne's boats under Lieutenant Soady, Commander Brooker going in Algerine with Inflexible's boats. Proceeding up for Tywooshan, at 3 p.m., we discovered two junks; and on giving chase, one lowered her sails and anchored, turning out to be our old friend the rice junk, who had been again captured by another pirate (the vessel ahead), who was sailing away with a good breeze, and pulling with all her oars to escape up to the fort of Tywoo-shan. As soon as we came up within range, we opened fire, the Chinese villagers on shore following her up, so as to slaughter any one attempting to escape by swimming from her. At 4.10 p.m., the pirate opened fire upon us, and continued so doing until she was taken. The Plover having got within canister distance, did great execution, as did the Algerine and all the boats. Pushing off in the boats at 4.40, the pirate still sailing and pulling, gave us a hard chase; my gig being light, consequently got within pistol-shot distance before the other boats could come up. I cannot speak too highly of Mr. Brabazon, Acting Mate, and Mr. S. G. Anstruther, Midshipman, who came with me, or of the whole boat's crew, as, out of nine men, eight were wounded by the pirates; Mr. Brabazon with the two marines keeping up a most effective fire with their rifles; Mr. Anstruther most gallantly jumped overboard after T. Mills, Ordinary, one of the gig's crew, who in consequence of a stinkpot having exploded upon him, had to jump overboard to save himself, but being unable to swim, was fast sinking; when Mr. Anstruther rescued him; Mr. Anstruther's strength was also exhausted when assistance came to him. At 5.30 p.m., the boats having come within canister distance, as well as the Plover and Algerine, the pirate grounded in a sinking state; those on board of her not killed, jumped overboard, the few escaping us being immediately slaughtered by the villagers ashore.

One Chinese, who had been taken prisoner by the pirates and rescued by us, informed us that this junk was commanded by the pirate chief Cheppoo, who was killed shortly before the vessel grounded; also that she mounted 9 guns, having a crew of upwards of 65 men, not one of whom escaped. The coolness displayed throughout the expedition since leaving Hongkong by all on board, the accuracy of the fire from the Plover and Algerine, also from the boats of Magicienne and Inflexible, do great credit to all on board; and I take this opportunity of recommending to your favourable notice, as I have done in my covering letter, particularly Commander Brooker, Lieutenant J. C. Soady, Lieutenant Wynniatt, Lieutenant Arthur, Lieutenant Bevan, Acting Mate Brabazon, Midshipman Anstruther. The conducting of the Plover and Algerine through such intricate channels reflects the greatest credit on Mr. J. Harvey, and Mr. Clements, Masters; Mr. Jno. Phillips, Acting Second Master, and Mr. H. Swainson, Second Master.

I enclose herewith a list of casualties, in which I am happy to say are none killed.

31st August.—Searching the various creeks, we found two junks with no guns on board, but as they answered the description given to Mr. Caldwell, I had them destroyed, meeting with no resistance, with the exception of one gingall shot. Before high water, I had the Plover and Algerine placed in position before the battery of Tywooshan, in which were two heavy long guns, besides smaller ones: sending a boat in under Lieutenant Soady, to set fire to a large junk, which had been used as a pirate, but whose guns had been removed, our firing of the previous day giving them timely warning. We remained opposed to the battery until the vessel was burnt to the water's edge; however as no shot was fired, I did not feel myself authorised in acting in any way against it, although it is well understood that the Hakka tribe, living there always, give protection openly to the pirates, the mandarins never yet having been able to take the place, although they have tried with a large force; the Hakka tribe being in open rebellion against them. There being nothing more to complete the destruction of, I returned with the vessels and boats to where the Magicienne and Inflexible were at anchor.

1st September.—Proceeded with gun-boats in tow to Namee, when sending for the Mandarin, I handed over to him 22 pirates for his disposal.

2nd September.—Proceeded to St. John's Island, searching the nooks and corners, finding nothing.

3rd September.—Proceeded at 4 A.M. for Tylon Island, where, at 11 A.M., anchoring the Magicienne and Inflexible on the south side, I started with Commander Brooker and Mr. Caldwell in Plover and Algerine with ships' boats to Coulan Bay. Finding I had been too lenient on the former occasion of visiting this place, in sparing the houses and many boats, as the accounts given by prisoners taken from pirates, and from all parties enquired of, agreed that every person and article thereat were piratical, and had been for some years, also from Mr. Caldwell's previous knowledge; and as the mandarin authorities had long since denounced it as such, I desired Commander Brooker to land with his division of boats and with those under Lieutenant Soady, to search well the different lots of houses about the creek, and to burn and destroy everything that he could find; which he most ably executed, having only a few gingall shot fired at his party, which was returned, without any loss on our side, the pirates having 4 or 5 killed. The houses were nothing more than magazines of powder and ammunition, explosion after explosion taking place. Seven more guns were discovered and destroyed, cargoes of Betel-nut and other pirated stores set fire to, as were also two piratical fighting junks with guns removed, 1 cargo junk, and about 40 boats nearly all fast-boats. With the Plover I started in chase of a fast-boat pulling sixteen oars, which we did not get possession of until after all the crew had got ashore. She was well armed and provisioned, mounted a 6-pounder in the stern. Two other piratical fast-boats were likewise discovered and set fire to. The destruction of their favourite stronghold with loss of powder and ammunition will I trust prevent the pirates fitting out any vessels of consequence for piratical purposes for some time.

4th September.—Proceeded by Kypong Islands, Sammoon and Ling-ting, where we now are.

Captain.

August 29, 1858.*

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to acquaint you, that in obedience to your orders, I proceeded with the Plover and Algerine to Samtong Bay, where nothing was met with beyond a few fishing and trading boats, but from whom I gained information of pirates having been there on the previous evening, but had left during the night in the direction of Gun-javar Channel; upon which I considered I should not be departing from my instructions in following them up, which I did, searching the whole of the western shore of Hawcheun Island, without seeing anything suspicious until we arrived at Hawcheun Bluff, when we suddenly opened six piratical junks standing in line towards the shore, which from their appearance as to tonnage and cut of snils, quite agreed with the information we had received at Samtong. As we approached within gun shot, fire was opened immediately on both sides, Lieutenant Arthur in the Algerine taking the right extreme of the line, while the Plover took the left, to prevent their reaching the shore, firing continually on both sides for many minutes, when the men jumped overboard from the junks and made for the shore, a few escaping in their small boats, leaving us in possession of the junks, which were as speedily as possible anchored, guns thrown overboard, and set fire to, in which we were very much assisted by the joining of the Inflexible and Magicienne's boats under Lieutenant Soady, as every assistance was given by Commander Brooker in destroying the junks, which being completed in obedience to instructions from Commander Brooker I proceeded with the Algerine, to examine Namoa Harbour and the channel leading between the Islands of Hawcheun, Wasp, Cricket, and Dipachou, when I rejoined the Magicienne. I am happy to say that the captures were effected without a single man being wounded on our side, though the fire at times was heavy. As far as I am able to learn, upwards of 80 guns were destroyed.

In conclusion, I beg to bring to your notice the very cordial co-operation I received from Lieutenant Arthur in the Algerine, and the brisk and accurate fire kept up by the gun-boats reflects the highest credit on both men and officers. I further think it my duty to bring to your notice Mr. John Phillips, Second Master of the Plover, who conducted the vessels through most intricate channels in a manner which showed great judgment and ability. The interpreter sent by Mr. Caldwell, Registrar-General, proved of great value in obtaining information and making himself generally useful.

Hoping that our proceedings may meet with your approval,

I have, &c.,
(Signed) ROBERT WYNNIATT,
Lieutenant Commanding.

Board of Trade, Whitehall, November 1, 1858.

THE Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations have received information, through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, that with a view to facilitate navigation, the following measures have been adopted by the Russian Government in respect to the transport of merchandize of Russian origin from ports in the Black Sea and the Sea of Azof, to those of the Baltic, and vice versa (with the exception of the port of Odessa, until it ceases to be a free port) except salt from the Crimea, and walnut wood from the Transcaucasian Provinces, in regard to which articles, special regulations exist.

Those of the articles which are charged with duties, on being exported to foreign countries, can only be transported on presentation at the custom house of exportation, of a guarantee of two well-known Russian merchants (if the exporter should be a member of one of the first two guilds) that, in case the goods should not be delivered at another Russian port, the export duties shall be paid by the exporter, without objection, unless in case of damage, the said guarantee to be restored, upon the receipt of the goods at the port of importation.

The Export Custom House is required to make known, upon every occasion, the fact of the exportation of goods, to the Custom House at which it is intended to import such goods, stating their nature and quantity. In addition to this the Custom House Seals should be placed upon merchandize chargeable with export or import, duties ; and on the exportation of wines or tobacco from the southern to the Baltic ports, two samples are to be taken, one of which, bearing the Custom House Seal, must accompany the merchandize, and the other be retained at the custom house of exportation, and sealed with the seals of the custom house and that of the exporter.

If, on importation, the goods are ascertained to be identical with the samples, and bear the seals unbroken, they will be delivered without obstacle, but in other cases they will be treated as foreign merchandise.
