CAPTURE OF THE FORTS AT THE ENTRANCE OF THE PEI-HO.

No. 287. Coromandel, in the Pei-ho, My LORD, August 27, 1860.

YOU will be pleased to acquaint the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that on the 12th instant the allied troops moved out of the village of Pehtang, and occupied that of Sinho, driving back a considerable body of the enemy, and taking two entrenched positions on their march, and that on the 14th they attacked and captured the fortified village of Tang-kou, the enemy retiring across the river and into the forts on its northern bank. To the despatches of the Lieutenant-General in command I beg to refer their Lordships for the details of these and other purely military operations.

2. The Lieutenant-General in command having acquainted me with his intention of attacking these forts on the 21st, the French and English gun-boats, with the rocket-boats of the fleet, were moved into the Pei-ho on the day previous, in order to shell the outer North Fort, with those of light draft, while those of larger size should be held in reserve for the purpose of checking the flank fire of the Southern Fort, should it open on the troops during their advance.

3. The attack of the troops on the inner fort commenced about daylight, and that of the gun-boats, which had been delayed for want of water in the position assigned to them about six, half an hour later the magazine of the inner fort exploded, as did that of the outer fort shortly after. At nine the allied flags were shewn from the inner fort; and at eleven the firing ceased, flags of truce being displayed on all the remaining forts.

4. During the afternoon the outer North Fort was taken possession of by the troops without further resistance. In the evening the South Fort, being deserted by the enemy, was occupied, and the booms across the river were removed; but the iron stakes, of which there were two double rows, being fixed with much firmness, a passage through was not opened till noon of the following day, when the gun-boats passed up and anchored off Tang-kou.

5. On the following day, a force of English and French gun-boats* left for Tientsin, and, on their arrival next morning, finding that the town was destitute of troops, and the authorities anxious to make their unconditional submission, in concert with Admiral Charner, I placed guards in the forts and on the city gates, hoisting the allied flags in token of its military occupation. It is the intention of the Lieutenant-General in command to place an adequate force in the town or its vicinity, the infantry and artillery portion of which are now being forwarded in the gun-boats.

6. The fire of the gun-boats and rocket-boats†, which I placed under the orders of Rear-Admiral Jones, to whose assistance on all occasions I have been much indebted, was well directed and serviceable: that of the French gun-boats attracted attention by its precision. Being placed well in on the mud on the northern bank of the river, at high water, only one English gun-boat was within long range of the South Fort, and all being more or less out of the line of fire of that which they attacked. The enemy, after a few shot, which fell short, ceased to fire on them, and consequently they sustained no casualties whatever.

7. While therefore I have not on this occasion to draw their Lordships' attention to conduct, such as that which distinguished both officers and men in the attack of last year, I yet gladly avail myself of this occasion to express the sense I entertain of their unwearied exertions, not merely in effecting the landing of the army here, an operation continued without intermission until it was completed, but also in the fitting out of the transport fleet; the embarkation at Hong Kong, as well as the disembarkation and embarkation at Talién-whan Bay, all of which together with the keeping up the supplies of the army has involved much heavy labour.

8. I am indebted to Commander Ward and the surveying officers under his directions, for a chart of Talién-whan Bay, and the coast line of the extreme of the Gulf of Pechili, made early in the year, notwithstanding much bad weather, for accurate surveys of the Pehtang and Pei-ho rivers, while still in the possession of the enemy, and for much zeal and ability displayed in subsequently buoying those rivers.

9. I am unwilling to conclude this despatch without acknowledging the cordial co-operation on all occasions, of my colleagues, and more especially of Vice-Admiral Charner, on whose suggestion the effective position assigned to the gun boats was adopted.

I have, &c.,

J. HOPE,

Vice-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

[Inclosure to No. 287, of 1860.]

THE undersigned, Hang-fuh, Viceroy of the province of Chi-li, addresses the following communication to the English and French (French and English) Military and Naval (Naval and Military) Commanders-in-Chief.

On the 5th day of the present month (21st August), the Honourable Commanders-in-chief advanced upon the Forts, both by sea and land, and took those on the Northern Bank; this success proves the efficiency of the troops of the honourable Commanders-in-chief, and the Chinese Army being defeated tender their submission. The latter have accordingly withdrawn from all the Forts on the southern bank, and are now willing to surrender into the possession of the honourable Commanders-in-chief all these Forts, together with the whole of their munitions and any fortified camps or entrenchments. The undersigned further engages to depute officers to point out to officers on the part of the Commanders-in-chief the position of any mines that may be in the Forts, and of all secret defences placed in the river, in order that no injury may be occasioned thereby to the honourable Allies. It is understood that the delivery of the Forts as soon as effected shall be followed by the cessation of hostilities in this locality, and also that no injury shall be done to the inhabitants, who shall be efficiently protected both in person and property.

A necessary communication, dated Heenfung, 18th year, 7th month, 5th day (August 21st), 1860.

PROCEEDINGS OF BATTALION OF MARINES SERVING WITH THE ARMY.

No. 288,
(One Inclosure.)

*Coromandel, in the Peiho,
August 27, 1860.*

MY LORD,

Herewith I forward for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, the report I have received of the late operations, from Lieutenant-Colonel Gascoigne who is in command of the battalion of Royal Marines serving with the army, and should they prove to have been so fortunate as to have obtained the favourable notice of the Lieutenant-General in command, I feel assured their Lordships will feel pleasure in meeting any request which may be made in their favour by His Royal Highness the Commander-in-chief.

I have, &c.,

(Signed)

J. HOPE,

Vice-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief,

Right Honourable Lord Clarence Paget, C.B., Secretary of the Admiralty.

[Inclosure in No. 288 of 1860.]

*Battalion of Royal Marines, (L.I.)
Ton-Ku, August 24, 1860.*

SIR,

I have the honour to report for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, the proceedings of the Battalion Royal Marines under my command, serving by your order with the expeditionary force, and attached to the Fourth Brigade in the Second Division, since landing at Pehtang on the 9th instant.

On the 12th August the whole force (excepting the 99th Regiment), moved out for Sinho. The Tartar cavalry showed themselves in great numbers during the advance and made demonstrations of attack, but were repulsed with considerable loss, the casualties being few on the side of the Allies. Our own battalion though engaged having none.

On the 14th at daylight, the artillery with the 3rd and 4th Brigades, and a French force, were sent forward to take the strongly fortified village of Ton-ku. After a severe bombardment the 60th Rifles effected an entrance at the west angle upon the river, the casualties having been but few on the part of the Allies. Two deep ditches encompassed the place, and the loss to the enemy was great.

On the 21st (having marched out of Ton-ku the previous evening), the Artillery, Engineers, Royal Marines, 44th and 67th Regiments, accompanied by about 1,500 French, moved to the attack of the strong North Peiho Fort. The right wing of the Royal Marines being sent forward under Lieutenant-Colonel J. O. Travers, to carry the pontoons and scaling-ladders, these companies were commanded by Captain J. C. Symonds, Brevet-Major J. C. D. Morrison, Captain J. B. Prynne and Lieutenant T. H. A. Brennan, with No. 6 Company, which (on account of the deep mud and heavy weight of the pontoons) was subsequently ordered to assist. These officers all distinguished themselves by endeavouring to surmount the difficulties that met them at every step. The pontoons being laid down by order of the Commanding Engineer, the ladders were immediately taken round to the right angle and put across the ditch. A rush of men upon them caused them to be used as bridges to cross the wide ditch, the men standing up to their armpits in water to support them.

An entrance was effected at the main gate about the same time as at the angle. This fort commanded the others, and in consequence of its fall, and some good practice from four gunboats (one shell exploding a magazine) the forts on both sides of the river submitted to the Allies.

With regard to the operations, the remainder of the battalion was kept moving up in support, and during the assault was so placed as to command access to the gate or the angle, should either point have required further assistance.

The loss to the battalion was 1 private killed, 5 officers, 1 serjeant, 2 corporals, and 21 privates wounded. A list of them is inclosed, and all of them are doing favourably.

I have the satisfaction of reporting the good conduct of the battalion generally. Lieutenant-Colonel Travers, during these operations, supported his well-known character for devotion and untiring energy. Assistant-Surgeon D. M. Shaw was well up to the front under fire, and gave instant attention to the wounded men. Dr. J. Little's arrangements for quickly passing them to the rear being most complete and satisfactory.

Captain Prynne was one of the first to enter the fort, followed by some men of his company, and shot down with his revolver a mandarin of note, since ascertained to have been the General-in-command.

Captain Prynne speaks highly of Serjeant Teacle, of the 8th Company, Serjeant Knapp, of the 83rd, Corporal Kelly, of the 61st, Private Bray, of the 16th, and Private Bowerman, of the 8th Company. The conduct of Serjeant Henry Trent, of the 83rd Company, was deserving of all praise, as he continued his indefatigable exertions to get the pontoons up, although wounded, until another severe wound obliged him to be taken to the rear.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) J. H. GASCOIGNE,
Lieutenant-Colonel Commanding Battalion.
