some rost and Dragoons were commanised to pais the River and to throw up a Work on the other lide, for the lecurity, of our Bildges, which was in a good firwardness by the next day; and then General Quenquald marched over the Brildges, in the Afternion with about 4000 Horfe and Food 4 wing O ders to pail the Heydakes on the molt converse r fi g Grounds within the Mailhes, to be there in a readinels to techre the paffage of the Acmy : And with them were allo the third form a Christian to avertize them, that they have a form a christian to avertize them, that they find take beed to them leves, and Retreat whill they migur, for the Enemy was ready to fall upon them in great numbers, and then it we uld be unpoffible for any of it entro eleape. But this Adm mi ion carried fuch a face of Inter ft with its and the Get cral being otherwile latisfied, how difficultie would be to astacque him as he lay, whatever their numbers might be, cafily ilighted this advice, which had a q ite different effect with him, than what was intended, for he concluded the Turks to much the weaker, the more they had recourde to Shifts, to make them Slives appear formida-ble On the 7th Initant 1000 Men more were fant over the River. There hapned nothing confiderable on the 8th. But on the 9th two Turkill priloners were brought in, who Grand Vizier was formewhere between Effeck and Belgrade, with an Army f about 2000 Men. This day the remaining part of the A m and Artillery paffed the Drave.

Vienna, 7th 17. We have received the welcome news, that the Duke of Lorr.un (notwithstanding the great difficulties he had met with from the Floods) had paffed the Drave with his whole Army on the toth Inftant, in Order (as is believed) to march towards Effeck. We are told that the Elector of Bavaria, after a troublefome March through a rough and uncultivated Country, between Segedan and M. batz, was at length palled the Danube, and gone to join the Duke of Lorrain. They write from Buda, that the Troops of Suabia and Franconta, to the number of 7 or 8000 Men were arri-ved at Gran; but it was as yet uncertain, whither they fhould be order'd towards Alba Regalis, to block up that place, or elfe march to the Army. We hear from Upper Hungary, that Count Caraffa had fent from Esperies 400 Foot and 4 pieces of Cannon to reinforce the Marquis Doria, who was still about Agria, with the Regiment of Caraffa, and 2000 Hungarian, Horfe and Foot ; with which Force he had been to deftroy their Fruit and Corn for a League round the Town; and was now Building a Fort within Cannon-Ibot of their Gate, (wherein 300 Peatants, were employed) and the Befieged fallying out in great numbers, to diffurb the Work, had been beaten in again with confiderable lofs. We have advice from Croatia, that the Governor Ene odi had affembled his Militia at Turopoli, with which he had paffed the River Kulp. That 500 Hoife had been fent, from Carelftadt towards Verovitz, who received Information by their Spies, that the Baffa of Bojnia was marchen with a great Body of Men against the Morlaques, with refolutions to deffroy their Vineyards, from whence they draw the beft part of their fubfiftance, and threathed, when that was done, to pass on and do as much about Carel-
