Whitehall March 16, 1863.

THE following Addresses of Congratulation to the Queen, on the Marriage of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, having been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State, for the Home Department, for Presentation, have accordingly been presented by him to Her Majesty, who has been pleased to receive the same very graciously :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Chancellor, Doctors, and Masters of the University of Dublin, beg to approach your Majesty with sentiments of profound attachment to your Throne and person, and to offer our respectful congratulations on the Marriage of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

We trust that in the happiness which a union in every way so worthy of him is likely to produce, your maternal heart will find some degree of consolation for the great and bitter bereavement with which it has pleased Almighty God to visit your Majesty.

This nation can never forget what an admirable example of every domestic virtue was exhibited to the world in the persons of your Majesty and your late illustrious Consort. It is our earnest hope and prayer that an equal blessing may rest on the union of His Royal Highness and the partner of his choice; and that, while they enjoy all the happiness that mutual affection can bestow, their pure and well-spent lives may win for them no less a measure of gratitude and esteem from British hearts than will for ever be attached to the united names of Victoria and Albert.
