*Board of Trade, Whitehall
March 17, 1865.*

THE Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received, from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the following translation of Provisional Regulations, issued by the European Commission for the Danube, with respect to the Navigation and Police of that River:—

PROVISIONAL REGULATION OF NAVIGATION AND POLICE, APPLICABLE TO THE LOWER DANUBE.

THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION OF THE DANUBE.

Whereas inconveniences result from the variety of the regulations enacted by common agreement, and put in force provisionally on the part of the Danube situated below Isaktcha, in pursuance of the stipulations of the Treaty of Paris, under date of 30th March, 1856:

The Commission enacts the following Regulation of Navigation and Police, in which are united in one single text, after having been revised, the provisions having force of law of the regulations successively promulgated up to this time.

General Provisions.

Art. 1.

The navigation of the Lower Danube below Isaktcha is placed under the immediate superintendence of the Inspector-General of the Lower Danube and of the Captain of the Port of Sulina.

Art. 2.

The Inspector-General is specially charged with the Police of the Lower Danube, exclusive of the Port of Sulina.

He is assisted by several overseers distributed over the different sections of the river under his jurisdiction.

Art. 3.

The Captain of the Port of Sulina, under whose orders act the port-officers (bossemans), is charged with the Police of the port and roadstead of Sulina.

Art. 4.

The masters of merchant-vessels, to whatever flag they belong, are bound to comply with the orders which are given them by the Inspector-General, by the Captain of the Port, and by the subalterns placed under the orders of these two officers.

They are equally bound to state to them, when called upon to do so, their name, as well as the name and flag of their vessel, and to show to them their agreement with the crew, without prejudice to the provisions of Articles 10, 17, and 65 hereinafter contained.

Art. 5.

Independently of the judicial functions exercised by them in the cases provided for in Articles 79 and 107 of the present Regulation, the Inspector-General and the Captain of the Port of Sulina decide summarily on disputes arising between captains and their crews, calling in the aid of two captains of the same nationality as the contending parties, or, in their absence, of two other captains.

They do not, however, exercise this part of their powers unless their interference is claimed by one of the parties concerned, and then only in the event of there being no other competent authority on the spot.

Art. 6.

As regards the action of the vessels-of-war stationed at the mouth of the river, it is exercised in conformity with the 19th Article of the Treaty of Paris of the 30th March, 1856, which states that the said vessels have for mission to ensure the execution of the regulations enacted by common agreement.

PART I.

Concerning the Police of the Sulina Roads and Port.

CHAPTER 1.

Police Regulation for the Sulina Roads.

Art. 7.

The Sulina roadstead comprises the waters of the sea for a radius of two nautical miles round the head of the north pier.

Art. 8.

Every vessel arriving in the Sulina roads from seaward must hoist her national colours.

Art. 9.

If she remains in the roads to ship or unload cargo, she must nevertheless obey the orders of the Captain of the Port and of his agents in everything relating to the navigation police. She is specially bound to conform to the provisions of the present regulations contained in Part V, and having reference to the lighter service.

Art. 10.

She must anchor at the place pointed out by the Chief Pilot or Deputy Chief Pilot of the Sulina Port. Within twenty-four hours after anchoring, the captain or his chief officer must report himself at the Port Captain's office, to present his ship's papers.

Art. 11.

Boats belonging to vessels anchored in the roads are forbidden to cross the bar, and to ply in the port during the night, without carrying a lighted lantern.

CHAPTER 2.

Police Regulations for the Port of Sulina.

Art. 12.

The Port of Sulina comprises the Sulina branch for a space of three nautical miles up the river, starting from the opening of the channel formed by the heads of the piers at the mouth.

Art. 13.

No sailing or steam vessels of more than 60 tons register may cross the bar of Sulina, either entering from the sea or leaving the river, without having on board a pilot licensed by the local authorities.

This clause, however, does not apply to steamers that make periodical voyages, which are permitted to employ their own pilots.

The pilot service is regulated by special provisions under Part IV of these present regulations.

Art. 14.

No vessel is permitted to enter or leave the Port of Sulina without hoisting the national colours. The port authorities will not allow any vessel without a flag to pass.

Art. 15.

If, owing to stormy weather, the Sulina Bar is judged impracticable by the Captain of the Port, a blue flag is hoisted on the tower of the light-house, to show that the pilots are unable to go out to vessels in the roadstead.

Art. 16.

Guard boats are stationed at the two entrances to the port. Captains entering the port must anchor in the berths pointed out to them by the officers in charge of these boats.

Art. 17.

Captains must then present themselves within twenty-four hours at the office of the Captain of the Port, to produce there their ship's papers.

They are equally bound, with the exception of the captains of the postal steam packets making regular voyages, to present their papers to the Cashier of the Navigation Chest at Sulina, who affixes to the roll of the crew of each vessel entering the Danube waters, of whatever tonnage she may be, a stamp bearing these words: "Commission Européenne du Danube, Caisse de Navigation de Soulina,"—the date of the year, and her serial number. This stamp is cancelled before the vessel leaves, by another stamp across it.

If vessels do not remain more than twenty-four hours at Sulina, the ship's papers are immediately restored to the captains after the accomplishment of the prescribed formalities; in the contrary case they remain deposited at the office of the Captain of the Port, by whose agency they are transmitted, if required, to the competent consular authority, after payment of the navigation dues, and the payment or deposit of the fines levied in virtue of the present regulation; save and except in this case, the roll of the crew must always remain on board the vessel.

Art. 18.

After having cast anchor, vessels are to moor by cables to the posts fixed for the purpose along the two banks, or to vessels already moored.

Art. 19.

Vessels must take in their booms and jib-booms, which in no case may be used for mooring boats. During the whole period of remaining at anchor, the yards must be braced fore and aft.

Art. 20.

Small coasting vessels, as well as lighters, are forbidden to move about the port during the night. Boats belonging to the port or to merchant vessels may not ply during the night without carrying a lighted lantern.

Art. 21.

It is prohibited to heat tar or pitch on board vessels inside the port. Captains are bound to see that no lights whatever are used on board their vessels, other than glass lamps or lanterns.

CHAPTER 3.

Provisions common to both Roadstead and Port of Sulina.

Art. 22.

Art. 64 of these present regulations, which forbids the throwing out of ballast, except at stated places, has particular reference to the Roadstead and Port of Sulina, properly so called.

Art. 23.

It is forbidden, without the authority of the Captain of the Port, to remove anchors, chains, and other articles abandoned in the Port and Roadstead of Sulina.

Art. 24.

In case of a vessel stranding, of shipwreck, as well as in cases of damage, the Captain of the Port of Sulina will immediately give the promptest assistance to save the vessel, her cargo, and gear, and to protect the general interests of the navigation; after which, he divests himself of the administration of the salvage, and forwards all the documents drawn up by him to the nearest competent authority.

PART II.

Concerning the River Police.

CHAPTER 1.

General Regulations.

Art. 25.

Every captain or master of a sailing or steam vessel in the act of navigating or stationary, whether at anchor or moored to the bank, is bound to take care that his vessel causes neither hindrance to the navigation nor damage, whether to other vessels or to landing jetties, buoys, signals, towing paths, or other establishments placed on the river or its banks for the benefit of the navigation, and he is to attend to the preservation of his own vessel with the same care.

Vessels navigating or stationary in the Sulina branch are bound to carry their anchors suspended freely from the cat-heads, without making them fast to the bulwarks.

Persons charged with conducting floats of wood and rafts are equally bound to take the same precautions as vessels.

These floats and rafts, when they descend the Sulina branch, can only have a draught of water at least one foot less than the depth of water on the shallowest shoal in the said branch.

In no case can they have more than twelve feet draught of water.

CHAPTER 2.

Regulations for Vessels crossing or passing one another.

Art. 26.

As a general rule, vessels are forbidden to pass one another if going in the same direction, and two vessels sailing in opposite directions may not cross in places where the channel does not afford sufficient breadth.

Art. 27.

No vessel may steer across the course taken by another vessel in such a manner as to impede it in its way.

When a vessel ascending the river finds itself exposed to meeting a vessel descending at a point which does not afford sufficient breadth, she must stop below the passage till the other vessel has cleared it; and if the ascending vessel should be actually in the passage as the other approaches it, the descending vessel must cast the anchor which she is bound to carry always in readiness astern, and stop above until the passage is clear.

Art. 28.

In narrow passages steam vessels must not approach closely vessels which precede them.

Art. 29.

When two steam vessels, or two sailing vessels, sailing with a favourable wind meet whilst proceeding in different directions, the one ascending stream must steer towards the left bank, and the vessel descending towards the right bank, so that both go to starboard as is customary at sea.

Any captain or master breaking this regulation will have to prove in the event of a collision, that it was impossible for him to observe it, in default of which he will be responsible before the competent tribunal for all accidents which may have happened.

He is moreover bound to give the signals prescribed by Arts. 31 and 32, following. If two steam vessels give the same signal simultaneously, the signal of the descending vessel rules.

Art. 30.

When two steam vessels, proceeding in different directions, are approaching a curve in the river, they must give the signals prescribed by Arts. 31 and 32, following, and the ascending vessel must stop until the other has cleared the passage.

Art. 31.

When one steam vessel wishes to pass another going in the same direction it must signal before arriving at a short distance by means of five strokes on the bell or five whistles, and by waving a flag on the fore-castle or by hoisting half-mast a blue flag by day or a white light at night.

Upon these signals the vessel in advance is bound to steer to the left and give passage to the other which will take the right. As soon as the vessel following is half a ship's length from the one she is about to pass, or from the tail of a convoy in tow, the latter must slacken speed until she has been passed.

Art. 32.

A sailing vessel coming up with another of inferior sailing powers, and desiring to pass her, must signal her intention in good time by hailing the vessel in advance, which will be required to let her pass to windward.

A steam vessel wishing to pass a sailing vessel going in the same direction as itself, will be required to give the signals prescribed by Art. 31, within a short distance, and must pass the sailing vessel to leeward.

Art. 33.

Steam vessels going down stream are to slacken speed at the points where the river describes sharp curves, until a clear passage is visible from the stern of the vessel. If any other vessel should be in the bend the steamer must signal its approach by sounding its whistle.

Art. 34.

Every steamer, whether ascending or descending the river, is bound to avoid vessels which it may meet dropping down with the current.

The vessel so dropping down is required on its part, when it meets other vessels whether under sail or steam, to steer parallel to the banks, so as to offer as little obstacle as possible to a free passage.

Art. 35.

Vessels tacking must take care not to get in the way of steamers.

Art. 36.

Captains or masters of vessels heavily laden, or of laden vessels of less than 60 tons register, are required to keep as much as possible out of the way of steamers which may meet or come up with them.

Captains of steamers are bound on their part, when passing near vessels of the kind mentioned in the preceding paragraph, to slacken speed, or stop completely in case of danger to the said vessels if they can do so without danger to themselves or to the vessels they may have in tow.

Art. 37.

In obeying and construing the rules laid down in the preceding Articles 26 to 36 inclusive, due regard must be had to all dangers of navigation, and due regard must also be had to any special circumstances which may exist in any particular case, rendering a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

CHAPTER 3.

Towage Rules.

Art. 38.

Captains or masters of tugs navigating with or without vessels in tow, are bound to observe all the preceding provisions; they are, moreover, specially bound to obey the injunctions of Arts. 31, 32, and 33, when one convoy wishes to pass another, the which case excepted, two convoys must never be side by side, either at anchor or navigating in company.

In the event of meeting sailing vessels or steamers going down stream a tug going up has the option of deviating from the injunctions contained in the above Article 29, in order to keep out of the current, if she can do so without danger to the vessel she is meeting. The tug is moreover bound, if she avails herself of this permission, to give the signals prescribed by the above Articles 31 and 32.

Art. 39.

As a general rule, any steam vessel not towing a convoy, as well as every vessel sailing with a fair wind, is bound to give passage to a convoy of vessels in tow. In default of sufficient space for doing this, captains and masters, both of tugs and vessels in tow, are bound, even in cases where the signals prescribed by the preceding Articles 31, 32, and 33, have not been given, to draw aside, agreeably to the provisions of the said Articles, and to arrange in single file the vessels in tow.

Captains and masters of tugs and vessels in tow are, moreover, required in all cases of meeting other vessels to close together as near as possible, so as to leave to the others a sufficiently wide passage.

Paddlewheel steamers, when navigating in the Sulina Channel, must not lash alongside them the vessels they have taken in tow. It is generally forbidden to navigate in the said channel with more than two vessels lashed abreast.

CHAPTER 4.

Rules relative to Tracking from the Banks.

Art. 40.

The paths that follow both banks of the Danube are specially intended to be used for the tracking of vessels either by men or draught animals; foot-passengers and carriages can also make use of them.

Art. 41.

The towing path must be free from all obstacles that can impede its use, such as bushes, trees, enclosures, houses, and other erections.

Art. 42.

The establishment in the river, and especially near the banks, of boat mills, irrigating wheels, and other similar constructions, is forbidden, without a formal permission from the authority in charge of the river police.

Art. 43.

It is expressly forbidden to dig ditches across the towing path, unless the proprietor of the ground undertakes to bridge over any such obstructions.

Art. 44.

Mooring posts having been fixed along the Sulina, captains and masters must avoid driving stakes or fixing anchors on the towing paths for the purpose of mooring their vessels.

Art. 45.

If two vessels, tracking in opposite directions, meet at the side of the same bank, the one going up stream must stand out to let the other pass.

If a vessel tracked by draught animals comes up with one tracked by men, the latter must allow the former to pass.

In the case of a vessel tracked coming up with one moored to the bank, the captain of this latter must allow the sailors belonging to the tracking vessel to come on board to carry over the tracking-rope.

Art. 46.

No attempt is to be made to pass a vessel tracked from the shore, unless it be by steering between her and the bank opposite the one from which she is being tracked. Vessels, when tracked, are bound, on their part, upon the signals prescribed by Articles 31 and 32 preceding, to keep as near as possible to the bank which they are skirting.

CHAPTER 5.

Rules for Navigating at Night, or in a Fog.

Art. 47.

All steam-vessels navigating during the night (between sunset and sunrise), must be furnished with a white light, easily visible at a distance of at least two miles, hoisted at the foremast-head, a green light on the starboard side, and a red light on the port side.

The said green and red lights shall be fitted with inboard screens, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

Sailing-vessels under weigh, or being towed, shall carry the same lights as steam-vessels under weigh, with the exception of the white foremast-head light, which they shall never carry. Steam-vessels, when towing other ships, shall carry two bright white mast head lights vertically, in addition to their side lights, so as to distinguish them from other steam-vessels.

In the application of the rules prescribed in this Article, every steam-vessel which is under sail, and not under steam, is to be considered a sailing vessel; and every steam-vessel which is under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a vessel under steam.

Art. 48.

Sailing-vessels, convoys in tow, and rafts, may not navigate when both banks of the river cannot be seen at the same time.

Art. 49.

In a fog, steamers may not navigate except at slackened speed. The bell on board must be struck without intermission, whilst a whistle must be sounded every five minutes. They are bound to drop anchor if the fog becomes so thick that they cannot see the bank they are following, or towards which they are steering.

Art. 50.

Vessels are forbidden to leave their hawsers across the stream during the night, or in foggy weather.

CHAPTER 6.

Rules for Vessels at Anchor.

Art. 51.

Vessels are expressly forbidden to drop anchor or to moor in the channel of navigation. Except in the case provided for by Article 66 hereinafter, it is equally forbidden to moor or to anchor vessels in the concave bends of the river, even alongside the banks, under pain of being responsible for all damage that their presence there may occasion.

Outside the ports, two or more vessels may never be anchored or moored abreast of one another alongside the towing path.

Art. 52.

If in consequence of a fog, a vessel or raft is obliged to stop at any other than a regular mooring place, the bell on board must be struck if the vessel is a steamer, if not the fog horn must be used. These signals must be repeated every five minutes.

Art. 53.

Every vessel stopping in the river during the night, must be furnished with a lighted lantern, which should be placed either at the end of one of the main yards, or on any other visible part of the vessel, on the side towards the channel, in such a manner that it may be seen equally well both up and down stream.

Rafts stationed at anchor during the night, must carry two lights, one at each angle, on the channel side.

Art. 54.

When a vessel for the purpose of mooring, or getting off a bank, as provided for in the following chapter, is obliged to stretch a cable or chain across the channel, these moorings must be promptly slackened the moment another vessel wishes to pass.

CHAPTER 7.

Rules for Cases of Stranding and Shipwreck.

Art. 55.

Every captain or master of a vessel or raft, grounded in the Sulina Channel, is bound to station at a convenient spot, at least half a nautical mile above his vessel, a look out, charged with hailing vessels and rafts coming down stream, to acquaint them with the nature and place of the accident.

Art. 56.

Steam vessels must go at half-speed only, whilst passing places where a vessel or raft has run aground or foundered.

Art. 57.

Every shipwreck in the Sulina Channel is regarded with suspicion (extraordinary cases excepted), and is presumed, until the contrary has been proved, to be owing to negligence or evil intent on the part of the captain or crew of the wrecked vessel.

The pilot of the vessel is personally responsible for the wreck if caused by bad management.

Art. 58.

If, contrary to all probability, a vessel should be wrecked in the Sulina Channel, the captain is bound to use every effort to haul her immediately alongside one of the banks, so that she may not remain in the channel.

The captain of the wrecked vessel and his crew are bound to remain on board, or on the bank near the spot where the accident took place, until the report mentioned in Art. 59 following, has been drawn up.

They are forbidden, under any pretext whatever, to remove any part of the ship's cargo, stores, anchors, chains, cables, &c.

Art. 59.

Immediately after the wreck the pilot of the vessel must as promptly as possible acquaint the Inspector-General with the news, by means of the Superintendents of Police. The Inspector-General will proceed at once to the spot, and will draw up a detailed report of the accident, which he will forward to the competent authority.

Art. 60.

If the Inspector-General judges it necessary to take immediate measures in the interest of the navigation, he will summon for this purpose the captain of the wrecked vessel, who is bound either to declare on the spot, that he abandons his vessel, or to act with his crew under the orders of the Inspector-General: the latter will superintend the salvage up to the point where the work ceases to be of public utility, and has become an affair of private interest.

The vessel whose salvage has been effected by the help of the authorities charged with the river police, is liable for the payment of a sufficient sum to cover the salvage expenses, and the keeping in repair the gear used for such purposes.

Art. 61.

The works undertaken by owners, insurers, and interested parties, with the object of effecting the salvage of wrecked vessels and their cargoes, must be carried out under the superintendence of the Inspector-General or of his agents, and they may be temporarily suspended if considered to be of a nature likely to cause any hindrance whatever to the navigation.

Art. 62.

If, besides the case of pressing necessity provided for in the above Art. 60, the removal of the carcass or remains of a wrecked vessel is considered necessary, the owners, insurers, or other interested parties, are bound to accomplish it within a month from the time of receiving notice to this effect, in default of which the work may be officially performed by the Inspector-General within the limits determined above in Art. 60. In this case the wrecked vessel with its equipments, or what remains of them, are specially affected to the payment of the expenses of removal.

Art. 63.

In cases of damage, particularly if caused by collision, the Inspector-General, if he is able to prove the facts of the case, and if he is called upon to do so by one of the parties concerned, will draw up a report of the same, which will be forwarded to the competent authority.

CHAPTER 8.

Rules for the Discharge of Ballast.

Art. 64.

Vessels are strictly forbidden to throw their ballast overboard into the river or on the roadstead of Sulina; they are in like manner forbidden to discharge ballast into the parts of the sea in the neighbourhood of the Port of Sulina in depths of less than ten fathoms.

The landing of ballast above the Port of Sulina, can only be carried on at the points of the river bank appointed by the Inspector-General of the navigation, and made known by public notice.

The captain of the Port of Sulina appoints the places where ballast can be discharged in the port.

The discharged ballast must in every case be transported to such a distance that the foot of the heap shall be at least twenty English feet from the edge of the proper river bank.

The provisions of this Article are equally applicable to the throwing overboard of the cinders and ashes of steam vessels.

Art. 65.

To ensure as far as possible the fulfilment of the preceding Article, every vessel leaving the Port of Sulina in ballast, for a port higher up the river, must be provided with a certificate from the captain of the port, stating the draught of water caused by her ballast.

This certificate must be kept on board during the whole voyage up the river, to be produced upon every demand of the Inspector-General, or of his agents.

PART III.

Concerning the Police of the Port of Toulcha.

Art. 66.

Every vessel lying at Toulcha, must be moored to the right bank of the river. It is, however, to be understood, that there shall never be more than three vessels moored abreast.

Art. 67.

No vessel may drop anchor in the navigable channel off Toulcha, that is to say, on the right of the bollards, and red buoys fixed along the left bank of the river, nor between the posts on the right bank, bearing the sign of an anchor reversed.

Art. 68.

Vessels are permitted to haul on the bollards and buoys to help them to double the Toulcha bend, but in no case are they allowed to use them as mooring posts. It is understood that this provision does not apply to steamers making periodical voyages, which stop for a short time only off Toulcha.

It is also forbidden that two or more vessels haul on one buoy at the same time.

PART IV.

Concerning the Pilot Service at the Mouth and in the River.

CHAPTER 1.

Pilot Service at the Mouth.

Art. 69.

Pilotage at the river mouth being compulsory as stated in Art. 13 of these present regulations, a special corps of licensed and responsible pilots acts at Sulina, under the direction of a Chief Pilot, and of the Captain of the Port. These pilots bear the title of pilots of the first class.

Art. 70.

A boat is held in readiness to take the pilots on board vessels which approach the port from the sea as soon as the look-out on the lighthouse tower signals their arrival.

Pilots are bound to go a mile to seaward of the head of the north pier to meet vessels.

Art. 71.

As soon as a pilot boards a vessel, he must acquaint her captain with the depth of water over the bar channel, and, in return, the latter is bound to state to the pilot the draught of water of his vessel, and the proportion of cargo which she has on board. This proportion is made known without delay by the pilot to the Captain of the Port.

Art. 72.

Every pilot, not belonging to the Sulina corps, who happens to be on board a vessel prepared to cross the bar, is bound, immediately on the arrival of the local pilot, to give up to him entirely the direction of the ship.

Art. 73.

On leaving the river, the local pilot is bound to conduct the vessel to, at least a quarter of a mile to the east of the North Pier head.

Art. 74.

The pilot dues, as well for entry into the river as for departure, being comprised in the navigation dues levied at Sulina, it is forbidden to pilots of the first class to receive any remuneration from the captains whose vessels they have piloted.

CHAPTER 2.

River Pilot Service.

Art. 75.

Independently of the corps of pilots of the first class charged with piloting vessels across the Sulina Bar, and acting under the direction of the Captain of the Port, there is a special service of pilots, in like manner licensed and responsible, bearing the title of pilots of the second class, for merchant vessels navigating the river between Sulina and Ibraïla.

The River Pilot Service, properly so called, is placed under the superintendence of the Inspector General of the navigation. It is directed by a Chief Pilot, who has two offices, one at Ibraïla, the other at Galatz, and by a Deputy Chief Pilot, resident at Sulina.

Art. 76.

Merchant Captains ascending the river are not bound to take a licensed pilot when they make the voyage themselves on board their vessels, but the Deputy Chief Pilot at Sulina, set over the River Pilot Service, is obliged to procure them one, even in this case, if they require it.

For descending the river every merchant vessel, of more than 60 tons register, must take a licensed pilot of the second class.

The same obligation exists for vessels of more than 60 tons register ascending the river without a captain or master on board.

Art. 77.

The up-voyage commences from the time the vessel leaves the Port of Sulina to ascend the river, and terminates with the arrival of the vessel either at its port of destination, or at Ibraïla when she is bound for a port above this latter, or for Matchin.

The down voyage commences at Ibraïla, or on leaving the port where the vessel has taken her cargo, or clearance if she goes down empty, in the case where the port is situated below Ibraïla. It terminates when the vessel takes her anchorage in the Port of Sulina.

Vessels sailing from Matchin, from Guetchid, or a port above Ibraïla, must take their pilot when passing Ibraïla: those sailing from the ports of Reni or Ismail, have the option of providing themselves with a pilot when passing Toulcha.

Art. 78.

Captains will arrange with the pilots the sum to be paid the latter for piloting their vessels up the stream. In case of dispute, however, on this point, the Port Authorities will not admit any claim on the part of pilots for a higher rate of wages than half a Dutch ducat a day for the voyage, in addition to subsistence on board.

The dues for piloting a vessel down stream, are comprised in the collection of navigation dues levied at Sulina.

This pilotage due can be lawfully paid only into the hands of the Cashier of the Navigation Chest, at Sulina.

CHAPTER 3.

Provisions common to the Pilot Service of both Mouth and River.

Art. 79.

The Inspector-General and the Captain of the Port of Sulina, each within the limits of his jurisdiction, will decide disputes arising between licensed pilots and merchant captains, in the event of their intervention being demanded by the latter.

Art. 80.

Licensed pilots are bound to report either to the Inspector-General or to the Captain of the Port of Sulina, all infractions of the regulations committed in their presence.

They are strictly forbidden to have any interest, either directly or indirectly, in any operation or concern connected with lighters.

Art. 81.

Any pilot who shall from incompetency or evil intent, be the cause of a collision of grounding or of wreck, shall be discharged, without prejudice, however, to the civil action which those interested may bring against him in the proper Courts.

If the circumstances causing the accident are such as to entail criminal proceedings, the pilot will be delivered up to the proper authorities to be tried according to law.

PART. V.

The Lighter Service.

CHAPTER 1.

General Rules.

Art. 82.

The lighters of the Lower Danube are divided into two classes; namely:—those whose operations are purely local, whether at the Sulina mouth, or at any shallow passages in the river; and those used in the coasting trade, which load a cargo at one of the interior ports, and ship it for further transport on board a sea-going vessel at any point in the river, or in the Port of Sulina, or on the roadstead.

Art. 83.

No one can undertake the local lighterage operations without having previously entered at the Port Office of Sulina the vessels intended to act as lighters, and before having been furnished with a license delivered by the Captain of the Port.

Before delivering the license the Captain of the Port causes the vessel intended for a lighter to be visited by a commission which judges whether it is in good condition, and ascertains at the same time its capacity in register tons and its burden in kilos of Constantinople. This examination is repeated every year.

The license delivered by the Captain of the Port must always be forthcoming on board of the lighter.

Sea-going vessels provided with regular ship's papers can be employed occasionally for lightening other vessels, upon condition that the captains make for each operation a special declaration, and deposit their papers, the muster-roll of the crew included, either at the Port Office at Sulina, if the vessel to be lightened is at the mouth of the river, or the office of the Inspector-General if the lighterage is to be effected in the river.

No. 22949.

CHAPTER 2.

Local Lighters.

Art. 84.

Lighters (whether sailing or steam vessels) must have no empty space in the hold, except such as is duly recognised by the captain of the port at the time of granting the licence.

Art. 85.

Lighters having once gone alongside the vessels they are about to lighten, are forbidden to leave the said vessels before the latter have weighed anchor. The captain of a vessel that has been lightened has the option of placing, at his own expense, a guard of his own choosing on board the lighter he employs. Lighters going on to the roadstead are forbidden to take cargo on the upper deck.

Art. 86.

No lighter may leave the Port of Sulina to repair to the roadstead without the permit of the Captain of the Port. This permit must be shown to the guard-boat stationed, in conformity with Art. 16 of these present regulations, at the entrance to the port from the sea.

Art. 87.

As a general rule, lighters must leave the Port of Sulina at the same time as the vessels they have lightened. In the case, however, that a vessel employs several lighters the captain of the port will regulate their departure in such a way that they may not have to remain in the Roads too long unable to effect the reloading.

Art. 88.

A lighter that has rejoined in the Roads the vessel she has lightened may not quit her on any pretext whatever until she has restored to her her cargo, except in case of circumstances beyond control. For operations of local lighterage effected in the river channel the lighters must keep company with the vessels lightened. As soon as the re-shipment of goods has been effected on board of the lightened vessel her captain is bound to give a written acknowledgment.

Art. 89.

Lighters on re-entering the Port of Sulina after having lightened a vessel must show their permit to the guard-boat which has power to inspect them.

Lighters quitting the Roads at dusk, or during the night, after having lightened a vessel that has left the river, must anchor at a place set apart for this purpose, and they may not further ascend the river till the following day.

Art. 90.

The superintendence of the operations of local lighterage which are carried on at the embouchure is exercised by the Captain of the Port of Sulina: that of the local lighterage in the river belongs to the Inspector-General or his agents.

CHAPTER 3.

Concerning Coasting Lighters.

Art. 91.

The operations of coasting lighterage may be carried on either by sailing or steam vessels towing schlepps, or vessels provided with regular papers, on condition that their captains or masters procure for each voyage from the proper consular or local authorities of the ports where they ship their cargoes, a certificate stating the nature and terms of each operation.

Art. 92.

On the arrival of a coasting lighter in the Port of Sulina, the master must report himself at the Captain of the Port's Office, and present the certificate above mentioned.

If the lighter discharges the whole of her cargo within the port itself, she is required to moor alongside the vessel which is to receive her cargo, and she must not leave the same until she has finished unloading.

If she has had to discharge the whole or part of her cargo in the roads, the master must hand over the certificate prescribed by Art. 91 to the Captain of the Port, who will thereupon give him a permit to pass out.

Art. 93.

The provisions of the present part, concerning local lighters, are equally applicable to those engaged in the coasting trade during their stay in the Port and Roads of Sulina.

Steam transports, however, and schlepps, are not subjected in re-entering the port from the roads, to the inspection mentioned in Art. 89 preceding, except on the demand of one of the parties concerned, or in case of suspicion of fraud.

CHAPTER 4.

Special Provisions for circumstances beyond control.

Art. 94.

When a vessel is forced by stress of weather to quit the Roadstead of Sulina leaving all or part of its cargo on board a lighter, the master of the lighter is bound to return to the port, and temporarily to retain his cargo on board.

Art. 95.

If, in the case provided for in the preceding Article, the lightened vessel does not reappear in the course of twelve days, the master of the lighter may demand of the Captain of the Port authority to unload his cargo and deliver it into the hands of the persons having a right to it; he may then exact payment of the freight money agreed upon as if he had placed the cargo on board the lightened vessel, but without any addition thereto.

If, before the expiration of the above specified period, the vessel returns to the roads and is again forced to put to sea, the days that had elapsed will not be counted, but a new period will commence, dating from her reappearance.

CHAPTER 5.

Special Provisions in cases of Fraud.

Art. 96.

In case of suspicion of inaccuracy or of false statement of a lighter's burden, merchant captains have the power of seeing the tonnage verified by a special commission named according to circumstances by the Captain of the Port of Sulina, or by the Inspector-General of the Navigation.

The expense of this survey will be borne by the captain who demanded it, unless inaccuracy or false statement is proved, in which case it will be at the charge of the lighter.

Art. 97.

If the captain of a lightened vessel has reason to think that part of his cargo has been embezzled on board the lighter chartered by him, he must make a declaration to that effect, either to the Captain of the Port of Sulina, or to the Inspector-

General of the Navigation, who will thereupon take the measures which their special instructions prescribe to them.

PART VI.

On Offences.

CHAPTER 1.

Assessment of Fines.

§ 1.

Offences against the Provisions of Part I for the Police of the Roads and Port of Sulina.

Art. 98.

Every offence against the provisions of the second paragraph of Article 4, and against those of Articles 8, 10, 11, 14, 16, 19, 20, 21, and 23 of the present Regulation, is punished with a fine of one ducat at least, and five ducats at most. The captain of every seagoing vessel, except the steamers engaged on postal service, found in the Danube, and whose agreement with his crew does not bear the stamp of which mention is made in Article 17 of the present Regulation, or shall only bear one or more annulled stamps, is liable to a fine of ten ducats at least, and of fifty ducats at most.

§ 2.

Offences against the Provisions of Part II for the River Police.

Article 99.

Every offence against the provisions of the first or of the second paragraph of Article 25, and against those of Articles 27, 29, 31, 32, 33, 34, 36, 38, 39, 41 to 54 inclusively, 56, 60, and 65, is punished with a fine of three ducats at least, and of ten ducats at most.

Every conductor of a raft or float of timber found navigating the Sulina branch, with a draught of water superior to that prescribed by the third paragraph of Article 25 hereinbefore enacted, is liable to a fine of ten ducats at least, and of fifty ducats at most.

Every offence against the provisions of Article 64 is equally punished with a fine of ten ducats at least, and of fifty ducats at most, if there has been throwing overboard or prohibited discharge of ballast.

The fine is five ducats for throwing overboard of cinders or ashes in the channel of the Sulina branch, in the roadstead or neighbouring parts of the sea having less than ten fathoms depth.

§ 3.

Offences against the Provisions of Part III on the Police of the Port of Toulkha.

Art. 100.

Offences against Articles 66, 67, and 68 are punished with a fine of from one to five ducats.

§ 4.

Offences against the Provisions of Part IV on the Pilot Service.

Art. 101.

Every offence against the provisions of the first paragraph of Article 13, or against the second paragraph of Article 76, is punished with a fine equal to four times the sum that the offending vessel would have had to pay for pilot dues, agreeably to the tariff in force.

Every refusal of the declarations prescribed by Article 71, or wilful inaccuracy in these declaraions, either on the part of the captains or on the part of the pilots, and every offence against Article 72, are punished with a fine of five ducats at least, and ten ducats at most.

Every offence committed by the licensed pilots of the first or second class, or by the Chief or Deputy Chief Pilots against the provisions of the present Regulation, or the instructions which are given to them, and on account of which no special penalty is inflicted, is punishable with a fine of which the maximum cannot exceed thirty ducats.

§ 5.

Offences against the Provisions of Part V for the Lighter Service.

Art. 102.

Offences against Articles 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, and 94 are punished with a fine of from five to ten ducats.

§ 6.

Abusive Language and Assaults.

Art. 103.

Every instance of abusive language or contempt of the agents charged with the police of the navigation, acting in the performance of their duties, as well as all abusive language or contempt of the authority from which the said agents hold their power, is punished with a fine of one ducat at least, and of five ducats at most.

If there is an assault upon the person of an Agent of Police, when in the performance of his duty, the maximum of the fine may be raised to fifteen ducats.

CHAPTER 2.

Rules for the Infliction of Fines.

Art. 104.

The maximum of a fine can be doubled in case of a second offence.

A second offence shall be considered to have been committed by a captain of a sea-going vessel when the two offences shall have been committed in one voyage, that is, without the vessel having quitted the Danube in the interval.

For masters of lighters and pilots there is a repetition of an offence when it is committed a second time in the space of one year.

Art. 105.

Offences occasioned by circumstances over which the offender has no control are not liable to fines.

Art. 106.

Independently of fines to which they are sentenced, offenders may be prosecuted in the competent courts for the recovery of the damages to which they are civilly liable.

Art. 107.

The Captains are personally responsible for the offences committed by their crews.

Art. 108.

The Inspector-General of the Navigation, and the Captain of the Port of Sulina, take cognizance of the offences committed within the bounds of their several jurisdictions against the provisions of the present Regulation, and pronounce in the first instance the infliction of the fines incurred by reason of these offences.

The notification of their sentence is made at Sulina, in the Chancellery of the consular or local authority to which the party sentenced is amenable, if the offence has been committed during the down voyage. It is made to the same authority in the port the vessel is bound to, when the offence has been committed during the voyage up-stream. It can also be validly made to the person.

Art. 109.

The amount of the fines is appropriated, up to one hundred ducats a-year, to the endowment of the Fund of Relief established for necessitous Pilots; the surplus is paid into the Navigation Chest, to be appropriated to the maintenance of the Sailors' Hospital established at Sulina.

Art. 110.

Appeals against the sentences of conviction must be carried, within three months from the date of notification, either before the European Commission or before the Mixed Tribunal which may eventually be instituted at Sulina.

In case of appeal, the amount of the fine is consigned to the Navigation Chest, and remains there as a deposit until the case has been settled.

The judgment rendered on the appeal is final, and can be the object of no further proceedings whatever.

An appeal will not be received after the expiration of three months from the date of notification; and the amount of the fine then remains forfeited to the Navigation Chest.

Art. 111.

The present Regulation will enter in force on the 1st of March, 1865.

From that day the following regulations will cease to have force or law:—

The provisional regulation concerning throwing ballast overboard, dated 29th April, 1858.
