AT the Council Chamber, Whitehall, the 11th day of August, 1865.

By the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

PRESENT,

Earl Russell.

Sir George Grey, Bart.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the session of the eleventh and twelfth years of Her present Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to prevent until the 1st day of September, 1850, and to the end of the then next session of Parliament, the spreading of contagious or infectious disorders among sheep, cattle, and other animals," and which has since been from time to time continued by divers subsequent Acts, it is (amongst other things) enacted that it shall be lawful for the Lords and others of Her Majesty's Privy Council, or any two or more of them, from time to time to make such Orders and Regulations as to them may seem necessary for the purpose of prohibiting or regulating the removal to or from such parts or places as they may designate in such Order or Orders, of sheep, cattle, horses, swine, or other animals, or of meat, skins, hides, horns, hoofs, or other part of any animals, or of hay, straw, fodder, or other articles likely to propagate infection; and also for the purpose of purifying any yard, stable, outhouse, or other place, or any waggons, carts, carriages, or other vehicles; and also for the purpose of directing how any animals dying in a diseased state, or any animals, parts of animals, or other things seized under the provisions of this Act, are to be disposed of; and also for the purpose of causing notices to be given of the appearance of any disorder among sheep, cattle, or other animals, and to make any other Orders or Regulations for the purpose of giving effect to the provisions of the said Act, and again to revoke, alter, or vary any such Orders or Regulations; and that all provisions for any of the purposes aforesaid in any such Order or Orders contained shall have the like force and effect as if the same had been inserted in the said Act; and that all persons offending against the said Act shall for each and every offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding twenty pounds, or such smaller sum as the said Lords or others of Her Majesty's Privy Council may in any case by such Order direct:

And whereas an Order was made in pursuance of the authority of the said Acts on the 24th of July, 1865, by the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, applicable to the city of London and to the Metropolitan Police District, containing certain provisions for the purpose of preventing the spreading of a certain disorder, of which the nature was at the time of the making of the said Order uncertain, but which has since been ascertained to be of a typhoid nature, and is commonly designated as the "cattle plague," and which may be recognized by the following symptoms:—

"Great depression of the vital powers, frequent shivering, staggering gait, cold extremities, quick and short breathing, drooping head, reddened eyes, with a discharge from them, and also from the nostrils, of a mucous nature, raw looking places on the inner side of the lips and roof of the mouth, diarrhœa or dysenteric purging:"

And whereas Inspectors have been appointed in pursuance of the provisions of such Order:

And whereas it is expedient to make further regulations for the district to which the said Order is applicable:

Now, therefore, the Lords of Her Majesty's Privy Council do hereby, by virtue and in exercise of the powers given by the said recited Act, and by the several Acts continuing the same, as aforesaid, order as follows:

1. That in this Order the word "animal" shall be interpreted to mean any cow, heifer, bull, bullock, ox, or calf.

2. Every Inspector appointed or to be appointed under the provisions of the Order in Council of the 24th of July, 1865, shall have the power of entering upon and inspecting any premises in or upon which he has reason to believe that there is any animal labouring under such disease, from time to time, as often as he may think necessary.

3. Every person within any district for which an Inspector shall have been appointed as aforesaid, upon whose premises there shall be any animal labouring under any such disorder, shall, as far as practicable, keep such animal separate and apart from all other animals, and no person shall, without the license of such Inspector, send to market, or remove from his premises, any such animal, or any animal which has been in the same shed or stable, or has been herded, or been in contact, with any animal labouring under such disorder.

4. Every animal within any such district as aforesaid dying of such disorder, or slaughtered on account thereof, shall be buried, if practicable, on the premises where it has died or been slaughtered, or (if this be not practicable) as near thereto as may be convenient; and if such animal be not buried with its skin, its skin shall be disinfected in such manner as the Inspector of the district may direct.

5. Every person within any such district, on whose premises there shall be any animal so labouring as aforesaid, shall cleanse and disinfect such premises in such manner as the Inspector of such district shall direct.

6. Every person offending against this Order, shall for every such offence forfeit any sum not exceeding twenty pounds which the Justices before whom he or she shall be convicted of such offence may think fit to impose.

And whereas, for such purpose, an Order was duly made, in pursuance of the authority of the said Acts, by the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, dated July 24, 1865, applicable to the city of London and the Metropolitan Police District:

And whereas since the making of the said Order the said disorder has appeared in other parts of England, and it is expedient to extend the provisions of the said Order to the remaining parts of England and Wales, and to make further regulations for the purpose aforesaid for the last-mentioned parts of the United Kingdom:

Now, therefore, the Lords of Her Majesty's Privy Council do hereby, by virtue and in exercise of the powers given by the said recited Act, and by the several Acts continuing the same as aforesaid, order as follows:

1. That this Order shall extend to all the parts of England and Wales not comprised in the said recited Order.

2. That in this Order the word "animal" shall be interpreted to mean any cow, heifer, bull, bullock, ox, or calf.

3. if he or they shall think fit, from time to time to appoint some Veterinary-Surgeon, or other person duly qualified, to be an Inspector, for the purpose of carrying into effect the following Rules and Regulations within the corporate town or petty sessional division for which he shall have been appointed, and the same authority may, from time to time, revoke such appointment.

4. Every such Inspector shall have the power of entering upon and inspecting any premises in or upon which he has reason to believe that there is any animal labouring under such disease, from time to time, as often as he may think necessary.

EARL RUSSELL has received the following Despatch from Her Majesty's Minister in Persia:—

Gulahek,

July 1, 1865.

MY LORD,
CAPTAIN SMITH, Director of the Persian Telegraph, has addressed to me the enclosed report on the large number of telegraphic messages which are sent from England to India, via the Hague and Russia. They are received here in a hopeless state of mutilation, averaging three weeks or a month old.

The effect of this will be to discredit the Indo-European line by Constantinople, Baghdad, Persia, or Bussorah, and the Persian Gulf, and the publication of Captain Smith's report, or of a notice to the same purport, might have the result of putting a stop to the evil.

I have, &c.,

C. ALISON.

The Right Honourable
The Earl Russell, K.G.,
&c., &c., &c.

Gulahek, near Teheran,

July 1, 1865.

SIR,
I HAVE the honour to inform your Excellency, that during the last fortnight a large number of telegraphic messages from England have reached the Teheran Office, via Russia, for transmission to India. Until yesterday they accumulated at the Russian-Persian frontier, and were sent thence, from time to time, to Teheran by post. They were always very old (averaging three weeks or a month) by the time they reached us. Without exception, they were full of errors and the large majority were quite unintelligible.

Yesterday the Persian Authorities placed Morse Instruments on the line to Russia, both here and at Tabreez, so that messages are now sent by post from the frontier to Tabreez, and thence to Teheran, by a telegraph worked by the Persians themselves. The result is what was to be expected. The messages arrive a little more quickly perhaps than before, but in even a worse state, as the Persians add their own share to the previous errors of the Russians.

I have already telegraphed on the subject both to Bombay and England, but as messages still continue to pour in from Russia in the most hopeless state of mutilation, I have thought it necessary to draw your Excellency's attention to the subject. If matters are allowed to go on as at present, all confidence in the telegraphic communication between England and India will, not unnaturally, be lost.

The English public should, I think, be distinctly informed that, for the present at least, the only line upon which any reliance can be placed, is the Indo-European one; by Constantinople, Baghdad, Persia, or Bussorah, and the Persian Gulf.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) R. M. SMITH,

Captain, R.E.,

Acting Director, Persian Telegraph.

His Excellency

Charles Alison, Esq., C.B.,
