

Son of the Church: That the present King was not behind any of his Ancestors in his Services and Respects to the Holy See: That the Persons of Ambassadors were always held Sacred, even amongst Nations not yet civilized: That the Priviledges and Franchises pretended to, were Immunities that the Crown had been long possess'd of: That the Rights of the Crown can admit of no Regulation or Bounds, but such as shall be set by the Justice and Moderation of the King: That the former Popes, who endeavoured to reform the Abuses of the Franchises, employed no other means but those of their Temporal Power: That the Censures of the Church, and the Power of the Keys, were abused when employed to serve Temporal ends: That an Ambassador, representing the King, and executing his Commands, was exempt from all Ecclesiastical Censure: That the Church of St. Lewis, was, by a Bull of Sixtus V. made the National Church of the French, where they were bound to assist at Divine Service, and receive the Communion, in whatever parts they lived at Rome. If this had been a matter of Ecclesiastical Cognizance, and the Ambassador Subject to it, there was neither a preceding Citation against him, nor Sentence pronounced and published, or so much as a Signification of any to the Curate of the interdicted Church: All which must plainly shew the nullity of that Decree. To which it was further added, That the Pope, since the last assembly of the Clergy, upon the Business of the Regale, and their Declarations then made, had refused his Bulls to such as the King had nominated to the vacant Archbishopricks and Bishopricks, by which there were 35 unsupplied, to the great Prejudice of those Diocesses, and contrary to the Agreement settled between Pope Leo X. and Francis I. by an Instrument called the Concordat, which, in Favour of the Pope, revok'd the Pragmatique Sanction, founded on the Decrees of the Councils of Constance and Basill, and grants, to the Pope's several Advantages by Lapses, Anticipations, and the Power of admitting Resignations, with other beneficial Articles; the Inconveniences of which Refusal, may, and ought, to be remedied by such ways as have been formerly put in practice by the Church: For the providing whereof, it was proposed, That Provincial Councils, or a National one, should be called. The King's Council having been heard, and a Copy of the Bull produced, which was made in May last, and Printed at Rome, concerning the Franchises of the Ambassador's Quarters, with the Ordinance of the 26th of December, and the Attorney-General's Appeal of the 22d Instant: And after mature debate upon the whole, the Court pronounced this Judgment, That the Attorney-General be admitted an Appellant as of abuse against the said Bull and Ordinance, declaring the same to be void, forbidding all Persons to dispense them within the Kingdom, and commanding that all Copies be brought to the Register's Office there, to be suppress'd. That the Appeal, brought by the Attorney-General to a future Council, be spoiled. That the King be humbly intreated to employ his Authority for the maintenance of the Franchises and Immunities of his Ambassadors Quarters at Rome, to the utmost extent, in which the same were ever enjoyed. As also to call Provincial Councils, or a National One, or an Assembly of the Great Men, to consider of the most convenient means to remedy the disorders, which the long vacancy of Archbishopricks and Bishopricks hath produced, and to prevent the Progress and increase of the same. And that in the meantime, his Majesty would be pleas'd to prohibit, in such manner as he shall think fit, any Commerce with the Court of Rome, in sending Money thither. And lastly, that this Sentence be affix'd in the publick and usual places.

Perthmouth, Jan. 22. On Friday last, his Grace the Duke of Berwick came hither, to take Possession of the Government of the Place, lately conferred on him by His Majesty: He was met, at some distance from hence, by the Gentlemen of the Country, who designed to wait on him hither, which his Grace (out of Respect to them) excus'd his Acceptance of. About Four Miles from hence, he was received by several Gentlemen and other Inhabitants of the Town; who Conducted him to the Town, marching before him in Order, to the place of Parade, where two Regiments were drawn up, with the Deputy-Governor at the head of them, who presented the Duke with the Keys of the Town: He walked from thence to Godshouse, where he was met by the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses, who Complimented him in a Speech that express'd their great Joy and Satisfaction to see him in that Government; to which his Grace made a very obliging Return, and accepted from them the Freedom of the Town, which was also, the next day, given to several Gentlemen that came with him thither. The Respects of the Town were shew'd on this occasion by the ringing of Bells, and all the usual ways of declaring them. On Saturday the Duke, having first been to view the Fortifications here, went next to visit the two Forts on Gosport Side, with South-Sea-Castle.

Whereas there has been lately stolen out of Her Majesty's Kitchen, a Silver Mazarine Dish, Skellet, Sauce-pan, and large Spoon, all persons are hereby required, who have any of the said Goods, forthwith to bring them to Whitehall, and there give Notice of the same at His Majesty's Board of Greencloth, on pain of being prosecuted according to Law. And if any person or persons shall make discovery of the said Goods, so unlawfully taken away by any person or persons whatsoever, they shall be very well rewarded for the same.
