The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1867.

AT the Council Chamber, Whitehall, the 4th day of July, 1867.

By the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

PRESENT,

Lord President.
Lord Robert Montagu.
Mr. Wilson Patten.

WHEREAS by an Order bearing date the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, duly issued under the authority of an Act passed in the session of the eleventh and twelfth years of Her present Majesty's reign, chapter one hundred and seven, intituled "An Act to prevent until the first "day of September, one thousand eight hundred "and fifty, and the end of the then session "of Parliament, the spreading of contagious "or infectious disorders among sheep, cattle, "and other animals," and from time to time continued by divers subsequent Acts, and lastly by an Act of the last session, which Order recited that a contagious or infectious disorder, generally designated as the "Cattle Plague," prevailed amongst cattle in England and Wales, the Lords of the Council made various regulations for preventing the spread of the said cattle plague, and, among others, for dealing with infected places;

And whereas it is provided in the said Order that the Privy Council as to any place in England may, by Order made at any time after the passing of that Order, and published in manner therein mentioned, declare any place in which disease amongst animals at that time exists, together with such an area including such place as to the Lords of the said Council may deem to be required, to be an "infected place" from and after a date to be specified in such Order; and may at the expiration of one month after the disappearance of disease in that place, by Order published in like manner, declare such place to be free from disease, and after the publication of such last-mentioned Order, such place shall cease to be an "infected place" within the meaning of the said Order:

And whereas by an Order bearing date the twenty-second day of May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, reciting the before mentioned authority, and the existence of the said disease on the premises in the occupation of Edward Thomas Davis, called "The Butchers' Arms Inn," situate in the York-road, in the parish of St. Mary, Islington, in the county of Middlesex, the said Lords did, in execution of the said recited Order, declare the said premises, together with an area therein described, to be an "infected place" within the operation of the said recited Order:

And whereas the said disease has disappeared from the said place for the space of one month previous to the date hereof, and it is deemed expedient that the said premises so declared to be infected, should now be declared free from disease:

Now, therefore, the Lords of the Council do hereby declare that from and after the fourth day of this present month of July, the said premises in the occupation of Edward Thomas Davis, called "The Butchers' Arms Inn," together with the stables and lairs adjoining thereto, situate in the York-road, in the parish of St. Mary, Islington, in the county of Middlesex, so declared by the said recited Order of the twenty-second day of May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, to be an "infected place," to be free from the said disease.

And the said Lords do hereby order the Local Authority of the Metropolis to cause this Order to be published in some newspaper circulating in the Metropolis, and also cause a copy thereof to be affixed at some conspicuous place in the Metropolitan Cattle Market, at Islington, in the county of Middlesex.

AT the Council Chamber, Whitehall, the 4th day of July, 1867.

By the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

PRESENT,

Lord President.
Lord Robert Montagu.
Mr. Wilson Patten.

WHEREAS by an Order bearing date the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, duly issued under the authority of an Act passed in the session of the eleventh and twelfth years of Her present Majesty's reign, chapter one hundred and seven, intituled "An Act to prevent until the first "day of September, one thousand eight hundred "and fifty, and the end of the then session "of Parliament, the spreading of contagious "or infectious disorders among sheep, cattle, "and other animals," and from time to time continued by divers subsequent Acts, and lastly by an Act of the last session, which Order recited that a contagious or infectious disorder, generally designated as the "Cattle Plague," prevailed amongst cattle in England and Wales, the Lords of the Council made various regulations for preventing the spread of the said cattle plague, and, among others, for dealing with infected places;

And whereas it is provided in the said Order that the Privy Council as to any place in England may, by Order made at any time after the passing of that Order, and published in manner therein mentioned, declare any place in which disease amongst animals at that time exists, together with such an area including such place as to the Lords of the said Council may deem to be required, to be an "infected place" from and after a date to be specified in such Order; and may, at the expiration of one month after the disappearance of disease in that place, by Order published in like manner, declare such place to be free from disease; and after the publication of such last-mentioned Order, such place shall cease to be an "infected place" within the meaning of the said Order:

And whereas by an Order bearing date the twenty-second day of May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, reciting the beforementioned authority, and the existence of the said disease on certain premises in the occupation of Mark Mills, Cowkeeper, situate in the Roman-road, in the parish of St. Mary, Islington, in the county of Middlesex, the said Lords did, in execution of the said recited Order, declare the said premises, together with an area therein described, to be an "infected place" within the operation of the said recited Order:

And whereas the said disease has disappeared from the said place for the space of one month previous to the date hereof, and it is deemed expedient that the said premises so declared to be infected should now be declared free from disease:

Now, therefore, the Lords of the Council do hereby declare that from and after the fourth day of this present month of July, the said premises in the occupation of Mark Mills, Cowkeeper, situate in the Roman-road, in the parish of St. Mary, Islington, in the county of Middlesex, together with an area bounded on the west by the Roman-road, on the east by Barnsbury-grove, on the north by the North London Railway, and on the south by Offord-road, so declared, by the said recited Order of the twenty-second day of May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, to be an "infected place," to be free from the said disease.

And the said Lords do hereby order the Local Authority of the Metropolis to cause this Order to be published in some newspaper circulating in the Metropolis, and also cause a copy thereof to be affixed at some conspicuous place in the Metropolitan Cattle Market, at Islington, in the county of Middlesex.
