

place of Great Britain is prohibited, subject nevertheless to all the regulations heretofore made and now in force, or hereafter to be made, by the Lords of the said Council, or by any Local Authority under the Order of such Lords, applicable to the importation of foreign cattle or sheep into any port or place in Great Britain.

And Her Majesty doth also, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, hereby revoke or alter as hereinafter mentioned so much of the said Order of the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, as would apply to cattle which shall pass through the province of Limburgh, part of the dominions of His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, from dominions or places beyond such province to dominions or places also beyond such province, in trucks or waggons on the Sambre and Meuse Railway, if such cattle shall have come from dominions or places from which the importation of cattle into Great Britain is not and shall not be prohibited, and shall have passed from such dominions or places to such other dominions or places than the province of Limburgh without any stoppage in any part of such province of Limburgh by the railway train conveying any such cattle as aforesaid.

This Order shall be construed as the said recited Order of the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, and shall continue in force until revoked.

And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury are to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

Arthur Helps.

AT the Court at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, the 3rd day of August, 1867.

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS Her Majesty, at the Court held at Buckingham Palace, the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, by an Order reciting that whereas it had been represented to Her Majesty that certain contagious or infectious disorders were then prevalent among cattle in the dominions and territories situated in Europe belonging to His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, and that there was danger of the said disorders being introduced into this country by means of cattle from such countries or places, did order that, on and after the twenty-eighth day of March then instant, no cattle should be imported or introduced into the United Kingdom which should come from or should have been at any place within the aforesaid territories and dominions situate in Europe, belonging to His Majesty the King of the Netherlands; and also that, on and after the said twenty-eighth day of March then instant, no cattle should be imported or introduced into the United Kingdom which should be or should have been on board any vessels at the same time with any cattle which should have come from or should have been within the aforesaid territories and dominions;

And whereas by an Order, bearing date the twenty-seventh day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, revoked so much of the said Order as would apply to cattle, the produce of the provinces of Friesland and Groningen, parts of the said dominions belonging to His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, and authorized any such cattle to be imported into any port or place in Great Britain from the ports of Harlingen, in the province of Friesland, and Delfzyl, in the province of Groningen, only, subject nevertheless to all the regulations made by the Lords of the said Council, or by any Local Authority under the Order of such Lords, applicable to the importation of foreign cattle or sheep into any port or place in Great Britain;

And whereas by another Order bearing date the twenty-seventh day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, did order that on and after the first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, no horn, hoof, raw or wet hide or skin of any such cattle as aforesaid should be imported or introduced into the United Kingdom which should come from, or should have been at, any place within the aforesaid territories and dominions, situate in Europe, belonging to His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, other than the said provinces of Friesland and Groningen; and also that on and after the said first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, no horn, hoof, raw, or wet hide or skin of any such cattle should be imported or introduced into the United Kingdom which should be, or should have been, on board any vessels at the same time with any cattle which should have come from, or should have been within, the aforesaid territories and dominions, other than the said provinces of Friesland and Groningen, and that in the event of the horn, hoof, raw or wet hide or skin of any cattle being landed in any portion of the United Kingdom, contrary to the provisions of that Order, such horn, hoof, raw or wet hide or skin, the importation or introduction whereof was thereby prohibited as aforesaid, should upon arrival in this country, be destroyed or otherwise disposed of, as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs might direct; and that that Order should continue in force until revoked by any further Order:

And whereas by an Order, bearing even date herewith, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, hath further revoked or altered amongst other parts of the said Order of the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, so much thereof as would apply to cattle the produce of the provinces of Zealand, Overysse, and that part of the province of North Holland which is situate to the north of the River Y, parts of the said dominions belonging to His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, and hath authorised any such cattle to be imported into any port or place in Great Britain from the ports of Flushing, Zierikzee, and Brouwershaven, in the province of Zealand, Zwolle, and Kampen, in the province of Overysse, and Nieuwe Diep, and Medemblick, in the province of North Holland, only, provided such cattle should not have been on board any vessel at the same time with other cattle which should have come from, or been within any part of, the aforesaid territories or dominions belonging to His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, as to which the said Order of the twenty-fourth March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, remains in force and unrevoked, or any other dominions or places from which the importation of cattle into Great Britain,
