Home Office, Whitehall.

WE, whose names are hereunder written, having been sworn this eighteenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one, before the Queen's Remembrancer, at Goldsmiths' Hall, in the city of London, have made the Assays and Trials of Her Majesty's Gold and Silver Coins in the Pyx of the Mint, and which according to accounts produced by the officers of the Mint were coined in the said Mint from the fifth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and seventy, to the thirtieth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one, both days inclusive, We ascertained that the number of coins both of Gold and Silver in each packet produced to us corresponded with the number which the officers of the Mint represented it to contain, and we took a coin or coins from each of such packets of Gold coins, making altogether forty-three sovereigns or twenty shilling pieces, and nineteen half sovereigns or ten shilling pieces, and we weighed each of the said coins separately so as to ascertain whether they were within the remedy prescribed in the First Schedule of the Coinage Act, 1870. We found that the amount of variation from the Standard of Weight specified in the said First Schedule of the said Act was seven thousand parts of an ounce plus (.007) on the whole of such coins, and that, therefore, they were within the prescribed remedy as to weight. We then melted the said Gold coins so taken out and weighed into an Ingot, and assayed such Ingot, comparing it with the Standard Gold Trial Plate produced by the Board of Trade, so as to ascertain whether the metal was within the remedy as to fineness prescribed in the said First Schedule to the said Act, and we found that the amount of variation thereof from the Standard of Fineness specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act was two ten thousand parts (916·4), and therefore that the said metal was within the prescribed remedy as to fineness. We weighed the residue of the said Gold coins in bulk, and we ascertained that they were within the remedy as to weight. We then took from such residue six sovereigns and three half sovereigns and weighed and assayed them separately, and we found that such sovereigns weighed respectively the first Standard, the second Standard, the third 123·30, the fourth 123·17, the fifth 123·22, and the sixth 123·32; and that such half-sovereigns weighed, respectively, the first 61·72, the second 61·58, and the third Standard. We then assayed the said six sovereigns and three half-sovereigns separately, and we found the millesimal fineness of such sovereigns to be 916·9, 916·7, 916·7, 916·8, 916·7, 916·7, respectively; and the millesimal fineness of such half-sovereigns to be 916·6, 916·6, and 916·5, respectively. We also took a coin from each of such packets of Silver coins, making altogether twenty-five florins, fourteen shillings, seven sixpences, and of Maunday monies, two fourpences, seven threepences, two twopences, and two penny pieces, and weighed each of the said Silver coins separately, so as to ascertain whether they were within the remedy in the said First Schedule of the said Coinage Act, 1870. We found that the amount of variation from the Standard of Weight specified in the said First Schedule of the said Act was three thousand parts of an ounce minus (·003) on the whole of such coins, and that, therefore, they were within the prescribed remedy as to weight. We then melted the said Silver coins so taken out, and weighed into an Ingot, and assayed such Ingot, comparing it with the Standard Silver Trial Plate produced by the Board of Trade, so as to ascertain whether the metal was within the remedy as to fineness prescribed in the said First Schedule to the said Act, and we found that there was no variation from the Standard of Fineness specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act, and, therefore, that the said metal was within the prescribed remedy as to fineness. We weighed the residue of the said Silver coins in bulk, and we ascertained that they were within the remedy as to weight. We then took from such residue two florins and one sixpence, and weighed and assayed them separately, and we found that such florins weighed, respectively, 174·09 grains and 174·51 grains, that such sixpence weighed 43·62 grains. We then assayed the said two florins and the said sixpence separately, and we found the millesimal fineness of such florins to be 926 and 926·4, respectively, and of such sixpence to be 926·4.
