WHEREAS on the 22nd day of March last there were in the Petty Bag Office of the High Court of Chancery, three officers, namely, the Clerk of the Petty Bag, and two clerks to assist him in the business of his office. And whereas, on the 23rd day of March, 1871, Sydney Tyler, one of the said clerks, resigned his said office on being appointed third clerk in the Crown Office in Chancery, whereupon it became necessary to appoint another clerk to assist the Clerk of the Petty Bag in the business of his said office. And whereas William Sims Smith, hereinafter mentioned, on and from the 28th day of March last, always hitherto hath attended in the said office, and rendered the assistance and performed the duties of a second clerk in the said office at the request of the Clerk of the Petty Bag, and with the approbation and sanction of the Master of the Rolls, but without any legal appointment to the said office of second clerk. In witness whereof, we the said W. P. Adam and W. H. Gladstone, as and being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury as aforesaid, and we the said Lord Chancellor and Master of the Rolls have hereunto set our hands, the third day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two.
