

three large Breaches in the Ramparts, and that so soon as the Mines they were preparing were ready, they would make a general Assault. Vienna, Octob. 24. We have an Account from Belgrade, that General Caprara, after having given the neceſſary Orders for the Security of the Conquits on the Danube and the Save, and ſupplied the Raſcians with Arms and Ammunition, was gone to his Government of Waradin. And that they expected every day to hear of ſome Action between General Heuſter and Yeghen Baſſa, who was about Niſſa with a ſmall Body of Horſe and Foot. Prince Louis of Baden has Leave to return hither. And the Count de Piccolomini (who is made Lieutenant-General,) is to Command in Bosnia this Winter. General Peterani is returned from the Frontiers of Valachia to Transylvania, and has put his Troops into Winter-quarters. The Blockade of Great Waradin is continued by the Troops under the Command of the Count de Corbelli: We hear from thence, that 200 Men of that Garriſon, being ſent to fetch in Proviſions, the Count de Corbelli ordered a Detachment of Germans and Huſſars to go and look after them, who meeting the Enemy, and charging them, the Spahis, about 40 in number, preſently fled, and the Imperialiſts purſuing them, took 10 Priſoners, and kill'd 14 or 15; But at their return, they found the Janiſaries had entrenched themſelves within their Wagons; And the Germans beginning the Attack, Count Sirozzi, who commanded them, was immediately ſhor dead upon the place, and 2 or 3 Subaltern Officers wounded: This did not diſcourage our Men, who made a ſecond Assault, and were again beaten off; But the Germans and the Hungarians alighting from their Horſes the third time, forced the Enemy after a very obſtinate Defence, they being all cut in pieces, except 23, who were taken Priſoners; Of which number was the Deputy-Governor of Waradin. On our ſide, beſides the Officers before-mentioned about 40 were kill'd and wounded. From the Camp commanded by General Bathiani near Canifa we have advice, That the ſaid General, finding the Turks kept themſelves very cloſe within their Walls and the Coverts of their Gardens, which are not within the City, but joined to it by Bridges, and defended on all ſides by unpaſſable Marſhes, he thought it neceſſary, by ſome Stratagem, to draw out the Garriſon, which he endeavoured to effect after this manner: There is a little Town, (a kind of a Suburb to Canifa,) inhabited by Raſcians, and covered on all ſides by theſe Gardens, and ſome little Outworks; General Bathiani, with about 4000 of the Militia quartered in that Neighborhood, made, on the 13 Inſtant, an Appearance, of forcing his way into this Town, and in the mean time poſted 1000 Croats between that Place and Canifa, with Orders not to ſhew themſelves, till the Body, he imagined would come out of the City to the ſuccor of this place, was paſſed by them: According to Expectation, the Baſſa ſallied out with 1000 Men, but the Croats, impatient to engage, appeared before the Enemy were come up to them, upon which the Baſſa making a ſtand, repulſed the Croats that attack'd him; But General Bathiani halting to their Relief, the Turks retired, having had about 100 kill'd and wounded, and among the laſt the Baſſa himſelf, but not dangerously. On our ſide about 10 were kill'd, and 30 wounded. The new Levies the Emperor has ordered to be made will amount to 20000 Men.
