Richard Assheton Cross.

Whitehall, July 8, 1875.

THE FAIRS ACT, 1871.

THETFORD FAIR.

WHEREAS a representation has been duly made to me, as Secretary of State for the Home Department, by the Town Council of Thetford, as owners, that a Fair has been annually held on the 2nd and 3rd days of August, in the town of Thetford, and that it would be for the convenience and advantage of the public that the said Fair should be abolished:

And whereas notice of the said representation, and of the time when I should take the same into consideration, has been duly published in pursuance of "The Fairs Act, 1871:"

And whereas, on such representation and consideration, it appears to me that it would be for the convenience and advantage of the public that the said Fair should be abolished:

Now, therefore, I, as the Secretary of State for the Home Department, in exercise of the powers vested in me by "The Fairs Act, 1871," do hereby order that the Fair which has been annually held on the 2nd and 3rd days of August, in the town of Thetford, shall be abolished as from the date of this order.

Given under my hand at Whitehall, this 8th day of July, 1876.

Richard Assheton Cross.

WE, whose names are hereunder written, having been sworn this fifth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, before the Queen's Remembrancer, at Goldsmith's Hall, in the city of London, have made the Assays and Trials of Her Majesty's Gold and Silver Coins in the Pyx of the Mint, and which, according to accounts produced by the officers of the Mint, were coined in the said Mint from the first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five to the thirtieth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, both days inclusive. We ascertained that the number of coins, both of gold and silver, in each packet produced to us, corresponded with the number which the officers of the Mint represented it to contain, and we took a coin or coins from each of such packets of Gold coins, making altogether twenty sovereigns or twenty shilling pieces, and twenty-four half-sovereigns or ten shilling pieces, and we weighed each of the said coins separately, so as to ascertain whether they were within the remedy prescribed in the First Schedule of the Coinage Act, 1870. We found that the amount of variation from the standard of weight specified in the said First Schedule of the said Act was minus two thousandths of an ounce (or .002) on the whole of such coins, and that, therefore, they were within the prescribed remedy as to weight. We then melted the said Gold coins so taken out and weighed, into an ingot, and assayed such ingot, comparing it with the Standard Gold Trial Plate produced by the Board of Trade, so as to ascertain whether the metal was within the remedy as to fineness prescribed in the said First Schedule to the said Act, and we found that there was no variation from the Standard of Fineness specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act. We weighed the residue of the said Gold coins in bulk, and we ascertained that they were within the remedy as to weight. We then took from such residue two sovereigns and two half-sovereigns, and weighed and assayed them separately, and we found that such sovereigns weighed respectively,—the first 123.324 grains, and the second 123·354 grains; and that such half-sovereigns weighed respectively,—the first 61·637 grains, and the second 61·667 grains. We then assayed the said two sovereigns and two half-sovereigns separately, and we found the millesimal fineness of such sovereigns to be 916·3 and 916·3 respectively, and the millesimal fineness of such half-sovereigns to be 916·5 and 916·6, respectively. We also took a coin from each of such packets of Silver coins, making altogether ten half-crowns, six florins, thirteen shillings, eleven sixpences, and of Maundy monies, one fourpenny piece and eight three-pences, and weighed each of the said Silver coins separately, so as to ascertain whether they were within the remedy of the said First Schedule of the said Coinage Act, 1870. We found that the amount of variation from the Standard of Weight specified in the said First Schedule of the said Act was minus two thousandths of an ounce (or ·002) on the whole of such coins, and that, therefore, they were within the prescribed remedy as to weight. We then melted the said Silver coins, so taken out and weighed, into an ingot, and assayed such ingot, comparing it with the Standard Silver Trial Plate produced by the Board of Trade, so as to ascertain whether the metal was within the remedy as to fineness prescribed in the said First Schedule to the said Act, and we found that the amount of variation from the Standard of Fineness specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act, was minus five ten-thousandths (or ·0005), and, therefore, that the said metal was within the prescribed remedy as to fineness. We weighed the residue of the said Silver coins in bulk, and we ascertained that they were within the remedy as to weight. We then took from such residue one half-crown, one florin, one shilling, one sixpence, and one three-penny piece, and weighed and assayed them separately, and we found that such half-crown weighed 218·151 grains, that such florin weighed 175·045 grains, that such shilling weighed 87·173 grains, that such sixpence weighed 43·606 grains, and that such three-penny piece weighed 21·838 grains. We then assayed the said half-crown, the said florin, the said shilling, the said sixpence, and the said three-penny piece separately, and we found the millesimal fineness of such half-crown to be 925·0, of such florin to be 924·5, of such shilling to be 924·5, of such sixpence to be 925·4, and of such three-penny piece to be 925·5.
