*Board of Trade, Whitehall Gardens,
October 13, 1885.*

THE Board of Trade have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs a Despatch from Her Majesty's Ambassador at Berlin, transmitting copy and translation of new German Customs regulations affecting the tare rates on mineral oils imported in casks, which will come into force on the 1st November next. The following is the substance of these regulations:—

When mineral oils are imported in casks, which under the tariff are chargeable with a higher duty than the liquid they contain, such casks will, unless they are intended for re-exportation under control of the Customs authorities, be charged with a special duty according to their own weight, which duty will be equivalent to the difference in the duties fixed in the tariff for mineral oils and for casks. If the importer prefers not to allow the true weight of the casks to be ascertained, their "duty-weight" will be fixed at 20 per cent. of the weight taken for the assessment of the duty on the oil, i.e., the weight of cask and liquid together. Should the importer desire to re-export the empty casks with drawback, proper notice must be given when the oil is introduced into general commerce.

His Excellency further states in his Despatch, that in accordance with a recent decision of the Bundesrath, the following Custom-houses have been fixed as the only places at which woollen yarns, classed under the category No. 41, c. 2, of the new German tariff, i.e., "hard combed yarn over 20 centimetres long, as Genappe mohair and alpaca," can be declared for duty, viz.:—

I. The Prussian Head Custom-house for foreign goods at Berlin.

II. The Prussian Customs Offices at Elberfeld, at the Ritterhausen and Steinbeck Railway Stations.

III. The Saxon Custom-house at Leipsig.
