And whereas by another Act passed in the session of Parliament held in the eighteenth and nineteenth years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act further to amend the laws concerning the burial of the dead in England," it is, amongst other things, enacted that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, from time to time to postpone the time appointed by any Order in Council for the discontinuance of burials, or otherwise to vary any Order in Council made under any of the Acts recited in the said Act, or under the said Act (whether the time thereby appointed for the discontinuance of burials thereunder, or other operation of such Order, shall or shall not have arrived), as to Her Majesty, with such advice as aforesaid, may seem fit :

And whereas the Right Honourable Henry Matthews, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has made a representation stating that he is of opinion that the Order of Her Majesty in Council of the fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, in so far as it affects burials in the church and churchyard of Ingleton, in the county of York, should be varied, and that the directions hereinafter set forth should be substituted for those contained in the said Order, with respect to burials in the said church and churchyard :

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased to order and it is hereby ordered :—

That burials be discontinued forthwith and entirely in Ingleton Church in the county of York; and also in the churchyard, except as follows :—

(a.) In such vaults and wholly walled graves as are now existing in the churchyard, burials may be allowed on condition that every coffin buried therein be separately enclosed by stonework or brickwork properly cemented :

(b.) In such partly walled graves as are now existing in the churchyard, provided that the earth above them can be opened to the depth of five feet without exposing coffins or disturbing human remains, burials may be allowed of so many of the following relations of those interred therein at the date of this Order, viz., widows and widowers, parents and children, as can be buried at or below that depth :

(c.) In such reserved grave spaces in the churchyard (as have never before been buried in, and which when opened are free from water), burials may be allowed of so many members of the families to whom they may be allotted as can be buried at or below the depth of five feet.
