WINDSOR CASTLE,

JUNE 24th.

I am anxious to express to My people My warm thanks for the kind, and more than kind, reception I met with on going to and returning from Westminster Abbey, with all My Children and Grand-Children.

The enthusiastic reception I met with then, as well as on all these eventful days, in London, as well as in Windsor, on the occasion of My Jubilee, has touched Me most deeply. It has shown that the labour and anxiety of fifty long years, twenty-two of which I spent in unclouded happiness shared and cheered by My beloved Husband, while an equal number were full of sorrows and trials, borne without His sheltering arm and wise help, have been appreciated by My People.

This feeling and the sense of duty towards My dear Country and Subjects, who are so inseparably bound up with My life, will encourage Me in My task, often a very difficult and arduous one, during the remainder of My life.

The wonderful order preserved on this occasion and the good behaviour of the enormous multitudes assembled merits My highest admiration.

That God may protect and abundantly bless My Country is My fervent prayer.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, and The Bishop of London, who had previously arrived, stood on the left of the daïs, and The Secretary of State for the Home Department, The Right Hon. Henry Matthews, M.P., near Her Majesty on the right.

As the procession entered the building, which was announced by a flourish of trumpets by Her Majesty's State trumpeters, a processional march was played by the orchestra, under the direction of Sir Arthur Sullivan.

When Her Majesty and The Royal Family had taken their places, the National Anthem was sung by The Royal Albert Hall Choral Society and the pupils of The Royal College of Music.

His Royal Highness The President read to Her Majesty the following Address on the part of The Organising Committee of the Imperial Institute:—

“TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

“MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,—

“We, The President of the Imperial Institute and the Organizing Committee appointed to advise upon the form and constitution of that memorial of the 50th anniversary of Your Majesty's accession to the Throne, approach Your Majesty with the expression of our heart-felt affection and loyalty.

“It has been our desire, in pursuance of the ideas which gave birth to the Colonial and Indian Exhibition of 1886, to combine in some harmonious form a broader and more enduring representation of Your Majesty's Colonies and India as well as of the United Kingdom; and our confident hope is that this Institute may hereafter not only exhibit the material resources of the Empire, but may be an emblem of that Imperial unity of purpose and action which we believe has gathered strength and reality with every year of Your Majesty's reign.

“We would also express our hope that this Institution may promote the commercial and industrial prosperity of all parts of Your Majesty's dominions, and that the scientific and technical education which the requirements of modern industry render necessary may through its means receive fresh development.

“In praying Your Majesty to associate yourself with this work, we trust that we shall not err if we venture to remind Your Majesty of yet one more consideration which may enhance Your Majesty's personal interest in this undertaking, even if we refer to a never-forgotten sorrow,

"More than 36 years ago, under the counsel and wise guidance of Your Majesty's illustrious and lamented Consort, my beloved father, the Exhibition of 1851 gave a vast impulse to commercial activity and set an example which has been often followed in the countries both of the old and of the new worlds. The creation of an Imperial Institute would seem to be a fitting development and completion of the work thus wisely and usefully initiated.

"The financial success of that great and bold enterprise has enabled Your Majesty's Commissioners to grant this site for the purposes of the Institute and thus to render the entire fund contributed by Your Majesty's subjects directly available for its erection and maintenance.

"In this tribute of love and loyalty every class and race, every colony and country that owns your Majesty's beneficent sway, will take part; and in it they will see a record of those 50 years of public progress and prosperity which will make Your Majesty's reign famous in English history.

"It is our earnest hope that the building, of which Your Majesty to-day lays the foundation-stone, will tell to many generations yet to come the story of the long and happy reign of Our Gracious Sovereign."

Her Majesty read the following reply handed to her by The Secretary of State for the Home Department, The Right Hon. Henry Matthews, M.P. :—

"It is with infinite satisfaction that I receive the address in which you give expression to your loyal attachment to My Throne and person and develop the views that have led to the creation of the Imperial Institute.

"I concur with you in thinking that the counsels and exertions of My beloved Husband initiated a movement which gave increased vigour to commercial activity, and produced marked and lasting improvements in industrial efforts.

"One indirect result of that movement has been to bring more before the minds of men the vast and varied resources of the Empire over which Providence has willed that I should reign during 50 prosperous years.

"I believe and hope that the Imperial Institute will play a useful part in combining those resources for the common advantage of all My subjects and in conducing towards the welding of the Colonies, India, and the Mother Country into one harmonious and united community.

"In laying the foundation stone of the building devoted to your labours, I heartily wish you God speed in your undertaking."

An Ode, written for the occasion by Lewis Morris, Esq., and composed by Sir Arthur Sullivan, was performed by The Royal Albert Hall Choral Society and full orchestra, assisted by the pupils of The Royal College of Music, under the conductorship of Sir Arthur Sullivan.

Her Majesty then advanced to the spot where the stone was to be laid.

His Royal Highness The President then handed to Her Majesty a statement of the origin of the Institute, together with a collection of the coins of the present year.

His Royal Highness The Prince of Wales, K.G., on the part of the Royal Commissioners of the Exhibition of 1851 (the donors of the site), presented the following address of congratulation to The Queen on the attainment of the Jubilee of Her Majesty's reign:—

“TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

“MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,

“The Royal Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1851 humbly approach Your Majesty on this the Fiftieth Year of Your Majesty's beneficent reign.

“When The Prince Consort, of memory dear to Your Majesty and to the people of this Empire, conceived the project of an International Exhibition, which should display side by side the various conditions of industrial enterprise in all parts of the world, Your Majesty graciously appointed a Royal Commission to assist His Royal Highness in carrying out this noble work.

“The Great Exhibition of 1851 was a triumphant success, and gave a stimulus to manufacturing industry which it would be difficult to overrate.

“On the close of the Exhibition there was a surplus of £180,000, which, by the far-seeing wisdom of The Prince Consort, was invested in land at South Kensington, so that space might be reserved for Institutions of Science and Art, which were likely to be founded as an outcome of the Great Exhibition.

“Though very few of the original Commissioners are now alive, others have been added to continue their work, and His Royal Highness The Prince of Wales presides over their deliberations. Under a Charter granted by Your Majesty, the Commissioners have carefully carried out the views of The Prince Consort, by devoting portions of the land purchased out of the surplus funds of the Great Exhibition to various important objects. Frequent exhibitions have been held upon it, and the following Institutions have been formed and obtained sites, viz. :—

“1. The South Kensington Museum, the College of Science, and the Department of Science and Art.

“2. The Natural History Section of the British Museum.

- " 3. The Royal Albert Hall.
- " 4. The Royal College of Music.
- " 5. The Alexandra Home for Female Students.
- " 6. The City and Guilds of London Technical College.
- " 7. The School of Cookery.
- " 8. The Royal School of Art Needlework.

"In addition to these Institutions, the Royal Horticultural Society leased the Gardens, and the Royal Commission built large Galleries for the display of objects connected with Science and Art, which are now in the possession of the Government for the exhibition of their collections.

"A large portion of the land is still available, and it has been decided, with the sanction of The Royal Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1851, to devote a site for the Imperial Institute, which is intended to celebrate and perpetuate the memory of the Fifty Years of Your Majesty's Reign.

"The Royal Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1851 have thus had the valued privilege of co-operating with His Royal Highness The Prince Consort in carrying out his vast original conception of an International Exhibition, and of bringing to maturity its fruits.

"They now respectfully ask permission to congratulate Your Majesty on the long continuance of a reign which has done so much for the glory, prosperity, and happiness of this Country, of the Colonies, and of the Indian Empire, and they pray fervently that Your Majesty may long continue to reign happily over a loyal and grateful people."

To which Address Her Majesty was pleased to return the following gracious answer :—

"I thank you for your loyal and dutiful Address on the completion of the Fiftieth year of My reign. I recognise with pleasure the long list of splendid results which, owing to My beloved Husband's wisdom and foresight, have followed in the train of the Exhibition of 1851.

"The successful conduct of that great undertaking has happily led to a series of foundations by which the Arts, the natural Sciences and the technical education of My people have been largely improved.

"Your efforts to promote these useful aims have been deserving of all praise, and I trust their beneficial consequences may last to all future generations."

A Benediction having been pronounced by The Archbishop of Canterbury, "Rule Britannia" was played and sung as Her Majesty was conducted to Her carriage at the main entrance as on arrival.

A Guard of Honour of the 1st Battalion Grenadier Guards, under the command of Captain M. Drummond, was mounted opposite the main entrance in Exhibition Road, and the adjacent streets were kept by the Household Troops.

The Honourable Corps of the Gentlemen at Arms were on duty near the dais, and the Yeomen of the Guard at the main entrance in the Exhibition Road.

The Officers of the Indian Contingent were also on duty in the Pavilion.

Levée Dress was worn.

Ladies were in morning dress.

The carriage procession having been formed in the same order as on arrival, Her Majesty proceeded to the Royal Albert Hall.

The Queen visited the Royal Albert Hall at 1 o'clock p.m., after laying the first stone of the Imperial Institute of the United Kingdom, the Colonies, and India.

The Queen, accompanied as on arrival at the Imperial Institute, was received by His Royal Highness The President with the Members of the Council of the Royal Albert Hall, and The Lord Aberdare, G.C.B., President of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Her Majesty was conducted to the dais in the south end of the Hall by The Earl of Lathom, Lord Chamberlain.

His Royal Highness The Prince of Wales, K.G., presented to Her Majesty the following Address of Congratulation from the President and Council and Corporation of the Royal Albert Hall:—

“TO THE QUEEN’S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

“MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,

“We, the President, Council, and Members of the Corporation of the Royal Albert Hall, deeply sensible of Your Majesty’s gracious patronage and protection, and mindful how much this Institution owes to His Royal Highness The Prince Consort, venture to approach Your Majesty with the expression of our loyal devotion to Your Person, and with deep gratitude to Almighty God on the completion of this Fiftieth Year of Your Majesty’s most glorious reign. At no period of our country’s previous history have the Arts and Sciences made such rapid progress as during Your Majesty’s prosperous reign; but it is owing to the wisdom and foresight of His Royal Highness that the nation has been able to reap the full benefit of those advances, for it is to him that we owe the idea of a great Central Institution for the promotion of Artistic and Scientific knowledge, as a means of increasing the happiness and prosperity of Your people. In this noble scheme it was the wish of His Royal Highness that the Royal Albert Hall should form a not unimportant part, and mindful of the deep interest which he took in it, and of the fact that it bears his honoured name, it will always be our anxious desire to render the Institution worthy of its august founder, and a fitting memorial of his genius and many virtues.

"In offering, then, our sincere and heartfelt congratulations to Your Majesty on this auspicious occasion, our earnest prayer is that Your Majesty may, by God's blessing, long be spared to reign over us : a happiness and glory to your loyal and devoted subjects."

To which Address Her Majesty was pleased, to return the following most gracious answer :—

"I accept with pleasure your loyal and dutiful congratulations on the completion of the Fiftieth Year of My reign. The vast progress made by the people of this country in the cultivation of Arts and Sciences since I ascended the Throne is eminently satisfactory, and I rejoice to think how greatly the wise counsels of My beloved Husband helped to originate and foster a just appreciation of their value to the community. The Corporation of the Royal Albert Hall has in the past worthily commemorated My Husband's name, and they will, no doubt, in the future strive to justify His anticipations, and to realize His hopes by assisting the growth of artistic and scientific knowledge, by which so much happiness and prosperity have been produced during My reign."

“During these 50 years the Army has been called upon to maintain the interests of the British Empire in every quarter of the globe, and it is deeply grateful for the concern which Your Majesty has ever shown for its welfare in peace or war, and for Your Majesty's sympathy for the widows and orphans of those who have fallen in the defence of the British flag.

“In common with the rest of Your Majesty's subjects, your Army desires to express its gratitude to Almighty God for such a happy and prosperous reign, and prays that your Majesty may long be spared to rule over a loyal and contented people.

“I have no doubt that, should the occasion unfortunately arise, I can rely with equal confidence upon the co-operation of My Auxiliary Forces.

“And when those who have died abroad for their country have left to our charge their widows and orphans, I have always striven to convey to them in the name of their fellow countrymen and women the expression of our own deep sympathy.
