From Thursday February 8, to Monday February 12 1665.

Plymouth, Feb. 6.

Yesterday the Nightingal brought into this Port two Frenchmen, the one from Dublin, laden with Herrings; bound for Bourdeaux, the other from Bristol, laden with Commodities of good value, bound to Rochel.

Porsmouth, Feb. 8. The Infection is at Gospard, and some places near the Town, but in it all are in good health, both Seamen and Soldiers; and at Southampton, none have died these thirty days.

Ostend, Feb. 7. Six or seven thousand Soldiers are come lately to Dunkirk; and the Spaniards on the other side, furnish the Garrisons that border upon France with fresh additions of Soldiers. The Dutch it seems can get together but eighty ships against the Spring, and these they would have the people believe, will be sufficient to give the English Battel, who are not easily perswaded to that Faith, having had so late experience how their Fleet was baffled, that consisted of a far greater number.

Ditto, Feb. 11. Stilo Novo. The design of the Holland Fleet is supposed only to keep their men on board, and to take what they can, coming this way; when the Fleet of Eighty Ships, intended for the Spring, are ready, these are to come in.

The Hollanders have twenty eight Ships now loading at Bourdeaux, without Convoy, which are ordered to return Northwards, and may in fourteen or twenty days, set out. There hath not appeared above one man of War in these parts these two or three days, the rest are to lye farther Northwards, and are to goe West of Newport.

Dantzick, Jan. 12. We hear every day of great complaints of the rude behaviour of the Soldiers. The Bishops are now proceeding to Anathematise them. The King hath ordered Commissioners into Prussia, to look into the crimes and delinquencies both of Soldiers and Officers. There will be a Convention of the Estates of that Province, on the tenth of February, where those Articles are to be examined, which must afterwards be more thoroughly handled at the general Diet, on which depends the safety of that Nation.

Rotterdam, Febr. 5. Stilo Novo. The Drums beat up here continually for men, but we get so few, that one would think it pains thrown away.

Seville Jan. 19. At Cadix the Spanish Armado is fitting out as fast as they are able, they will be in all about twenty, or twentytwo sail; some suppose to goe to Barcelona, to attend the Infanta in her voyage to Germany. The Generals place at Sea is still vacant, since the death of the Duke of Avero; whose Dutches, three days since, attended on the water by two Gallies, came into this River, and landed five Leagues short of this City, and past by, to avoid the Ceremonies that attend visits, and proceeded on her journey to Madrid.

Brussels, Feb. 9. Stilo Novo. A Colonel of the Bishop of Munster, with four Companies of Foot new raised in Liege, and one Troop of Horse, designed the surprize of Walsenburgh; but his intent being discovered to the Enemy, they drew out Forces out of Maestricht, by whom being overpowered, he was forced to retire with the loss of some Foot, and is marched towards Munster.

Antwerp, Feb. 10. The Marquis de Clermont arrived here with his Equipage from Paris two days ago on his way towards Holland; and not being willing to hazard himself the ordinary way by Land, where the Munsterish Forces make continual excursions, and had particularly, it seems, laid an Ambuscade for him; he resolved to pass down the River by water to Dart, but coming near Lillo, was stopped by the Spanish Man of War, that guards the passage from hence to Lillo, and obliged to return hither, for having been found to carry with him above 50 or 60000 Florins in Money, which is not permitted here without an extraordinary License from the Governor, which he is now endeavouring to procure.

Middleburgh, Feb. 4. These parts have a share of the misfortunes by the storm, though as yet there is not any perfect account of the particulars. The ship Golaert was forced into Flushing, from the Fleet before Ostend, having lost his Mast; and the ship Foest de Mel, with loss of Cables, and other damage; A Zcalander coming from England, with divers Cloaths, and some prisoners, was sunk, five of the prisoners drowned, and six escaped.

On Saturday last, the Graefmejer, laden with Spices; for a good value, for France, was by accident burnt in this Port; but the men were saved.

Rome, Jan. 16. The Court here generally commend the courage of the Ambassador of his Majesty of Great Britain, when he took leave at his last Audience of the most Christian King and we expect every day, impatiently, some certain news, whether there will be a War or not, between the two Nations.

Ditto, The Pope enjoys not well his health, though he sometimes appear abroad, and give his accustomed Audiences. The Spaniards are very busy, and indeed it is their Interest and Concernment, to endeavour the favour of the Pope, by reason of the many disorders which are every day feared in the Kingdom of Naples, during the minority of the King, the People subject and inclined to mutiny.

Cardinal Corrado, the Datario is dead, and has left Heir to the Title he had, Cardinal Pio, his Friend and Countryman. The Pope expects more windfalls before he will give any Caps, being resolved to make all his sure Friends together, to protect his Family against the storms he apprehends may fall upon his House after his death.

Paris, Feb. 13. The fifth of this month, the Pope's Nuncio, the Spanish Ambassador, and other Foreign Ministers, made their addresses to Monsieur and Madam in their house at St. Clou, to condole with them for the death of the Queen Mother: the same day the Venerian Ambassador was conducted the first time by their Coaches, the Sieur St. Laurens attending them, and made them the same complements.

The 8 of this moneth their Highnesses Royal came to this place towards the evening, the next day they went to Val de Grace, to assist at the solemn service that Monsieur had caused to be made there for the Queen-Mother, with all pomp imaginable.

The 10 instant, the Sieur de Sainot, Master of the Ceremonies, clad in a mourning Habit, the Heralds and King at Arms going before him, and followed by all the Criers in mourning, went to the great Convent of the Augustins, to invite the Assembly General of France to a Service which was performed the instant, in the Abby Church of St. Denis, for the Queen-Mother; and to another Service to be afterwards performed in the great Church of Nostre Dame.

The 11 instant they went in the same Order, to invite the Parliament, the Chamber of Accounts, the Court of Aids, and the Court of Monneys, to the like Services, to each of which Companies was delivered a Letter de Cacherie, the Corporations of the City, Châsselet, and University, being invited also after the usual manner.

Genova, Jan. 10. The Algier men have taken and destroyed near upon 9 sayl, about the third instant they went out out with 16 fail. The Copy of the French Peace is brought to us, it is only with Tunis.

Five fail of French Men of War and Merchantmen departed this night for Lisbon, laden with Corn, and other rich Goods, and give out that they have Orders to seize upon any ships that belong to His Majesty of England.

Seville, Jan. 19. Five days since the Holland men of War, that were at Cadix, went to Sea, in all 7 fail, of which 3 were Stateships, 2 Merchant ships in the States service, the Merlin Galley, and one Ketch: they are gone into the Streights, to joyn, as is supposed with the French Fleet at Thouon.

Thirteen fail of Argier men, are said to be come, or coming out of the Streights, most of them stout ships, which give no small trouble to several Nations, only His Majesties of Great Britain are secure.

Heidelberg, Feb. 20. About the 14 of this month, we had in this City a notable change of affairs, there has formerly been here, a great Consultation for the satisfaction of this Elector, and they were just come to a point of agreement, for a Revenue of 12000 Florins of yearly Rent, to be settled on that Electoral House, in lieu of the Right of Wildfang which as you have heard, was the ground of this quarrel but as the Treaty was expiring, the Elector finding they had a design to have hooked several others things into the agreement to his disadvantage; he presently set up a resolution, without any advice asked of any person, of the expedient formerly mentioned in the Treaty at Oppenheim, i. e. To put the business to a Reference; and calling for all the Ambassadors and Deputies into his Presence-Chamber, both Mediators and Treators, he declared to them in the Presence of his Council, that he had made choice of Arbitrators, to whom he intended to refer the whole business, viz. The Kings of France and Sweden, and the Emperor for his Umpire, to give a decisive voice. The other Party not expecting such a proposition, and being surprized, having no instructions to name Arbitrators, desired time to report what was done, and parted thence early the next morning. Of all the Foreign Ministers that were there, there remains only the Resident of Sweden, and the Chancellor of Newburgh, who as hitherto they have always laboured for a Mediation, so they still persist, and intend another Voyage to Mayence, to reduce all things to an accommodation, and avoid the trouble and tediousness of a Reference.

Falmouth, Feb. 3. The second instant, the Brothers Friendship, Captain Hacker Commander; the Dextrous, Captain Martin, Commander; the Golden Dove, Captain Smith Commander; the Charles, and several other Vessels in company of the Nightingale Fregat, Captain Long Commander, set sail out of this Harbor for the Streights, with a very fair wind.

Seventy, Feb. 5. We gave you formerly an account of the great hurt done this Church and Steeple by Fire, its repair is so earnestly prosecuted, that we doubt not but that it will suddenly be re-edified out of the bounties of those that spontaneously contribute to it:

Southwold, Feb. 8. The 4 of this month, 15 Dutch Men of War, and a Ketch were all day in this Bay, but they by loose, and anchored nor. The fifth, five fail likewise appeared there, but would not Anchor, but stood to the Northward, the wind at Southwest, whether they were part of that 15 fail, or no, we know not, 3 of the 15 we judged to have 50 Guns apiece, the rest 40, all but one that was a smaller Vessel; since that time they have not been seen.

The 6 instant a Pink of about 60 Tuns rode here, which our Seamen took to be a Dutch Gaper, which had been presently boarded by the people of this Town, could they have got their Vessel out of the Haven before, they went away.

Deal, Feb. 7. This afternoon the Crown came from the Westward into the Downs, two more very considerable ships of good force, are also coming in, the Scout came in this day about noon, and it is said that they saw the Dutch Fleet toward the Northward of the Coast of Flanders; if so, we expect ere long a further account of them, Sir Christopher Myns, having again set sail towards those parts.

Westminster, Feb. 9. This day according to the Writs of Re-adjournment formerly issued out, the several Courts of Justice sate in Westminster Hall.

London, Feb. 10. This day His Majesties Declaration against the French, was proclaimed by the Herald at Arms, and two of his Brethren, His Majesties Sergeants at Arms, with other usual Officers, (with His Majesties Trumpeters attending) before His Royal Palace at Whitehall and afterwards (the Lord Mayor and his Brethren assisting) at Temple-Bar, and other the usual parts of the City; importing, That whereas the French King pretending the execution of a Defensive Treaty, with the States General of the United Provinces, and thereby determining His Majesty to be the Aggressor and Invador of them (the contrary of which is most notoriously known to all the world) did on the 26 of Jan. last, declare War against His Majesties Subjects, making himself thus the Aggressor, and rendering the Peace His Majesty hath always desired with the said States, more difficult, towards which, the French Kings Ambassadors never offered satisfaction for past injuries done to His Majesties Subjects, or a fair Regulation of Commerce for the future. His Majesty relying upon the help of God Almighty, in the Justice of His Cause; and being assured of the valour and affections of His Subjects, in defence thereof, hath thought fit to declare, That His Majesty will oppose the French King, and vigorously prosecute this War, which he the said French King hath so unjustly begun, with the utmost of His force by Sea and Land, in defence of His Subjects; enjoying his Royal Highness, Lord High Admiral of England, and his Grace the Duke of Albemarle, General of His Majesties Forces by Land, His Majesties Lieutenants of the several Counties, and all other Officers and Soldiers under them, both by Sea and Land, to oppose all attempts of the French King, or his Subjects, and to do and execute all acts of hostility in the prosecution of this War against the French King, his Vassals, and Subjects; willing and requiring all His Majesties Subjects to take notice of the same, whom His Majesty henceforth doth streightly forbid upon pain of death, to hold any correspondence or communication with the said French King or His Subjects (those only excepted, who are necessitated thereunto, for the withdrawing their Persons and Estates out of France.) And because there are remaining in His Majesties Kingdome, many Subjects of the French King, and likewise of the States General of the United Provinces, His Majesty is pleased to declare, and give His Royal Word, That all such of the French, or the Dutch Nation, as shall demean themselves dutifully towards His Majesty, and not correspond with His Majesties Enemies, shall be safe in their Persons and Estates, and free from all molestation and trouble of any kind. That if any of the French or Low-Country Subjects, either out of affection to His Majesty, or His Government; or because of the Oppression they meet with at home, shall come into His Majesties Kingdoms, His Majesty will protect them in their Persons and Estates, and especially those of the Reformed Religion, whose interest His Majesty is pleased most particularly to own; as by the Declaration it self is more largely to be seen.
