Seychelles Bank—Shallow Water on Western Edge.

A RECENT examination of the western edge of the Seychelles Bank conducted by Lieutenant and Commander Smyth, Her Majesty's surveying-vessel "Stork," shows that a nearly continuous rim, of more or less shallow water, extends from Bird Island to beyond the Western Point of the bank.

As it is evident that dangerously shoal spots may exist in many parts of this rim, besides those already known, ships should avoid crossing it north of the fifth parallel of south latitude. Southward of this parallel there is, according to the scanty information existing, apparently a break in the rim.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Chart:—Seychelles Group, No. 721. Also, Sailing Directions for the Islands in the Southern Indian Ocean, 1891, pages 329–331.

Uniform System of Buoyage.

THE Netherlands Government has given notice, dated 1st April, 1892, that the following Uniform System of Buoyage has been accepted, and will be carried out, on the coast of the Netherlands:—

1. The term starboard hand means that side which would be on the right hand going with the main stream of flood, or in entering a harbour, river, or estuary, from seaward; the term port hand means the left hand side, under the same circumstances.

2. Conical buoys are starboard hand buoys as thus defined, and are painted red.

3. Can or truncated buoys are port hand buoys as thus defined, and are painted black.

4. Spherical buoys, mark the ends of middle grounds, and are painted black and red in horizontal stripes. These buoys are always surmounted by top marks, other buoys only in special cases.

5. Buoys lying outside, and marking the approach to, seaward channels are of a special shape, and are painted red and black in vertical stripes.

6. The buoys marking the outer shoals in the North Sea remain as at present.

7. In the inner channels, where necessary, certain buoys will be replaced by spar buoys.

8. Wrecks are marked by conical or truncated buoys, painted green, according as the wreck lies on the starboard or port side of the fairway. Should the wreck be in mid-channel, it will be marked by a truncated buoy on one side, and a conical buoy on the other side, which buoys are to be treated as port or starboard hand buoys according to shape.

9. The top marks are as follows:—

A diamond marks the outer or seaward side of a bank.

A cone marks the inner side of a bank.

A ball marks the starboard side of the fairway. A truncated cone marks the port side of the fairway.

A cross indicates that the buoy may be passed on either side.

The ball and truncated cone are also used as top marks for beacons.

The top marks are of the same colour as the buoys or beacons on which they are placed.

10. The buoys of sea channels will be numbered consecutively (beginning from seaward), and marked by the first letter of the name of the channel. The numbers and letters will be white.

11. The buoyage of the River Ems will remain as at present.

This Uniform System of Buoyage will gradually be adopted, as regards the shape of the buoys and top marks, whilst the alteration in colour will only be made when all else has been changed in accordance with the new system. For this reason, it is necessary during the period of transition, that attention should be exclusively given to the colour (as has hitherto been the case), and not to the shape of the buoys; the existing colours, black and white, remaining temporarily unaltered.

This notice affects North Sea Pilot, Part IV, 1887, page 98; and Supplement, 1890, relating to North Sea Pilot, Part IV, page 57.

NOTE.—This Breakwater is covered at high water.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Plan of Entrance to Bilbao, on Sheet, No. 74. Also, Sailing Directions for the West Coasts of France, Spain, and Portugal, 1891, pages 177, 180–182.
