WARRANT. LIVERPOOL AND MANCHESTER.

APPOINTMENT OF PORTS. RUNCORN ANNULLED.

WHEREAS the Port of Liverpool for Customs and general purposes as appointed and limited by our Warrant, dated the 1st day of January, 1862, includes that part of the River Mersey shown in the plan hereunto annexed and distinguished by the blue colour, and all rivers, bays, channels, roads, bars, strands, harbours, havens, streams, and creeks, within the limits.

And whereas the Port of Liverpool for the purposes of the Mersey Docks Acts Consolidation Act, 1858, includes that part of the said river shown in the said plan and distinguished by the blue and yellow colours.

And whereas the port of Runcorn, for Customs and general purposes, as appointed and limited by our Warrant, dated the 1st day of January, 1862, consists of those parts of the River Mersey and Weaver shown in the said plan and distinguished by the yellow colour.

And whereas by the Manchester Ship Canal Act, 1885, it was enacted that from and after the completion and opening for traffic of the canal by that Act authorized, the said canal and so much of the navigable waters of the Rivers Mersey and Irwell as lie between Hunt's Bank, in the township and parish of Manchester, and the limit of the Port of Liverpool at Warrington, and all channels, canals, cuts, locks, and works of the Manchester Ship Canal Company within those limits, should be the Harbour and Port of Manchester, but it was provided that such harbour and port should not, by virtue of that Act, be deemed a port for Customs purposes, nor should anything in the said Act contained abridge or affect in any way our power to appoint a Port of Manchester, under the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, with such limits as we may think fit, or affect any of the powers whatsoever conferred by that last-mentioned Act.

And whereas the canal referred to in the said Ship Canal Act (and which is, with the docks thereunto appertaining, shown in the said plan and distinguished by the red colour), having been completed, and being about to be opened for traffic, we deem it expedient to appoint a Port of Manchester, under the powers conferred upon us by the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, and to include in the limits thereof the said canal with its appurtenances and the navigable waters referred to in the Manchester Ship Canal Act, 1885.

And whereas we also deem it expedient to revoke and annul our recited appointment of the Port of Runcorn, and to include what is now that port in the limits of the intended Port of Manchester, but it is not our intention that this last-mentioned extension of the intended port of Manchester shall be deemed to affect any of the rights, powers, or privileges of the Port of Liverpool, or of the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board, in relation to the waters over which the said Board have powers, under the provisions of the Mersey Docks Acts Consolidation Act, 1858, or any other local Act.

Now we, the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, do hereby, under the authority of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, appoint Liverpool to be a port in that part of the United Kingdom, called England, and do hereby declare that the limits of the said port, on and after the 1st day of January, 1894, shall commence at the termination of the Port of Chester, namely, at the Red Stones in Hoy Lake on the Point of Wirral, and continue up the River Mersey on the Cheshire shore thereof, to the west side of the entrance to the Manchester Ship Canal at Eastham, thence in an easterly direction across the said entrance and along the Cheshire shore of the River to Ince Ferry, the western termination on the Cheshire shore of the Port of Manchester, thence crossing the said River Mersey in a supposed straight line to Dungeon Point, being the western termination on the Lancashire shore of the said Port of Manchester, and continue along the coast of the county of Lancashire to the southern boundary of the port of Preston, namely, a gutter or run of water, commonly called the Hundred End Water, on the south of the River Ribble; and the said port shall include all rivers, bays, channels, roads, bars, strands, harbours, havens, streams, and creeks (except the said Manchester Ship Canal) within the said limits contained, and shall extend seaward to a distance of three miles from low water mark along the coast within the aforesaid limits.

And we do hereby, under authority of the same Act, appoint Manchester, on and after the 1st day of January, 1894, to be a port in that part of the United Kingdom called England, and do hereby declare that the limits of the said port shall commence at the eastern termination of the Port of Liverpool, that is to say, at an imaginary straight line across the River Mersey from Dungeon Point on the Lancashire shore, to Ince Ferry on the Cheshire shore, and shall include the River Mersey above the said line and the River Irwell so far as the same are navigable, and the River Weaver to Frodsham Bridge; and shall also include the Manchester Ship Canal from the entrance thereof at Eastham, in the county of Chester (where it touches the Port of Liverpool), to Hunt's Bank, in the city and parish of Manchester, with all channels, havens, streams, creeks, cuts, and docks within the limits aforesaid.

And we do hereby, from the 31st day of December, 1893, annul all former limits of the said Ports of Liverpool and Runcorn, and declare Runcorn to be no longer a port.
