Rome, March 31.

THE Cardinal de Bouillon being likewise arrived here, he, together with d'Estree, Bonzi, and Camus, entered the Conclave on Tuesday last. D'Estree, who is said to have the Secret of the French Court, concerning the choice of a new Pope, has dispatched an Expreſs to Paris, with an account of the State and Dispoſition he finds Things here in, and to desire farther Inſtructions thereupon. In the mean time the French Cardinals seem to joyn with the Faction of Altieri and Ottoboni. The Zealots labour still for Barberigo, and he stands yet the fauſt of all the Pretenders, though there now appears a very considerable Party for Conti, a Roman.

Turin, March 31. The Towns of Villa Franca and Nizza, together with the Fort of Montalban, which stands on a Hill between Nizza and Villa Franca, are surrendered to the French. Prince Eugene of Savoy is gone to Vienna to ſolicit Succors.

Vienna, April 6. We have advice from the Levant, That the Captain General Mocenigo, ſeizing Vallona was not in a Condition to be defended much longer, the Turks having made a large Breach in the Wall, and preparing for a General Aſſault, had ordered all the Proviſions, Ammunition, and Artillery, (except 4 Iron Cannon, and one Mortar, that were left to amuſe the Enemy) to be taken out of the place, which continued open towards the Sea, and put on board the Ships, and having withdrawn the Gaſcon in the Night, cauſed the place to be blown up; after which he returned with the Forces to Corfu.

Vienna, April 8. The Imperial Troops are moving towards Hungary, in order to open the Campaign; divers Boats laden with Ammunition, and Carriages for Cannon, went from hence the laſt Week down the Danube, and Twenty five large ones of a new contrivance, with an Oven at each end, ſufficient to Bake 25000 Loaves every day, are now ready. Count Batthany, who is made Mareſchal de Camp, is gone to draw together a Body of Hungarians, which he is to Command in Chief; and Orders are ſent from hence to the ſeveral Provinces through which the 6000 Brandenburgers are to paſs into Hungary, to furniſh them with all Neceſſaries. From Croſſnatz we have Advice, That the Baron de Paz had ſeized two Tranſilvanians, who came from Varkia with Letters to ſome of Teckley's Partizans, giving an account of the great preparations the Turks are making for the Campaign; that they deſign to act in two Armies, one towards Tranſilvania, and the other on the Danube; and that they have provided a great number of Barks and Boats to transport their Forces upon occaſion from one ſide of the Danube to the other. They write from Sclavonia, That Velika, a Franciſcan Convent, having bravely reſiſted ſeveral of the Enemies Attacks, and particularly a very vigorous one on the 18th of the laſt Month, was on the 21ſt abandoned upon the News of the approach of the new Baſſa of Bſchia, (heretofore Baſſa of Camſa) with a much greater force to aſſault them; and that the Turks had likewiſe poſſeſſed themſelves of the Caſtle of Copfal in the ſame Province. By Letters of the 29th of the laſt Month from Eſſeck, we have an account, that they are working at a deep Ditch round the Town, which they intend to fill with the Drave; and that Count Chizzola, Governor of that Place, had ſent a party of 1000 Huſſars, and 1500 Musketeers towards Triſch, where they ſurprized and cut in pieces about 1000 Turks and Tartars, the Baſſa Commanding with great difficulty; after which they burnt the Villages thereabouts, and returned with a Broty of 20 Wagons laden with Proviſions, and ſeveral fine Horſes: As they came back they met Count Malafra Baſſa with the Huſſars, whom they eaſily put to flight; as likewiſe a Party of Turks coming from Sadowar, and recalled the Baſſa, they were carrying away with them from Velika and Copfal, and took a conſiderable Booty. Prince Louis of Baden is daily expected here from Bohemia; and it's believed he will upon his arrival be declared Lieutenant General of all the Emperors Forces in Hungary. Mentz, April 11. We have advice, that the Elector of Bavaria paſſed on the 8th inſtant through Hydelberg in his way towards Eſſingen, where he will draw together the Imperial and Confederate Forces that are to act on the Upper Rhine.

Hamburg, April 17. The Letters from Poland give an account of the Princeſs of Neuburg's arrival at Waſaw on the 28th of the laſt Month, where ſhe was received with great Magnificence. And that the King of Poland has given the Emperor freſh Aſſurances of his acting this next Campaign with all the vigour that's poſſible, either ſeparately, or in Conjunction with the Imperial Forces, as ſhall be judged to be moſt advantageous to the common Cauſe.

Paris, April 14. The Letters from the Camp before Mons of the 12th inſtant, inform us, That on the 4th inſtant a Battery of 4 pieces of Cannon was raiſed upon the Hornwork, which began to Fire the next Morning. There was likewiſe raiſed a Battery of 27 Mortars, and the Sap was advanced to the ſide of the outward Ditch, which we began to fill up the Night following; the work was continued on the 6th, and we made a Lodgment on the Counterſcarpe of the half Moon. The 7th we enlarged our Lodgment, and raiſed a Battery on the Counterſcarpe of the Half Moon on the Left; but theſe advances of our Works coſt us every day divers Officers and Soldiers, and 2 Engineers were killed and one dangerously wounded. In the mean time we had advice of the approach of the Confederate Army, upon which the Duke of Luxembourg was ſent out with a ſtrong Detachment to obſerve their Motions. But on the 8th, about four in the Afternoon, to the great ſurprize of every Body in the Camp, the Town beat a Parley, and ſent out a Colonel, a Lieutenant Colonel, and a Major for Hoſtages, and in Exchange 3 French Officers of the ſame Quality were ſent in. The Beſieged demanded 8 days time to retire in, but had only granted them till the 10th, upon Condition they ſhould deliver up one of the Gates the next day, which the Governor would not at firſt conſent to, but endeavoured to diſſuade the Burghers from their Reſolution of Surrendering: This occaſioned a delay of the Answer from the Town; to quicken which, and to remove the Difficulties that obſtructed it, the Prince d'Elbeuf was ſent thither, who at laſt brought back the Capitulation, which was Signed about midnight. The Gate of Barlemont was delivered up on the 9th to the French Guards, and ſoon after the reſt of the Gates were likewiſe opened by thoſe of our Party in the Town, ſo that by 3 a Clock a great number of our Soldiers were entred into the Place. On the 10th, the Garriſon marched out about 2000 Foot and 400 Horſe, with Arms, Bag and Baggage, Drums beating, Colours flying, ſix pieces of Cannon, &c. paſſing through the Troops of the Houſehold, who were drawn up on each ſide, and the Dauphin ſaw them march by. On the 12th, the French King (having given the Government of Mons to the Sieur de Villiac, Mareſchal de Camp) parted from the Camp on his return towards Compeigne, where he intended to be on the 14th, and to ſtay till the 16th, and then to return in two days to Verſailles.

By Letters from Monsieur Catinat's Camp before Nizza of the 5th of April, we have this account, That after the Surrender of Villa Franca, the Forts of S. Oſpizio and Montalban, and the Town of Nizza, which are places of no defence; they began on the 27th the Siege of the Caſtle of Nizza, by raiſing againſt it a Battery of 12 pieces of Cannon and 6 Mortars; the 29th at Night the Trenches were opened; the beſieged fired without Intermiſſion, and that day and the following killed us divers Men: On the firſt inſtant a Bomb ſet fire to the Enemies Magazine of
