(Translation.)

Ordinance No. 37.

National Board of Health, Montevideo,
27th January, 1900.

The existence of bubonic plague in the town of Rosario de Santa Fé having been proved by official reports, the Board of Health decrees as follows :—

ART. 1. The port of Rosario de Santa Fé is declared to be included among those which are considered as being infected with bubonic plague, the remaining ports of the Argentine Republic being declared suspected.

ART. 2. Vessels coming from Rosario will undergo ten days quarantine of observation, arrivals from suspected ports will undergo five days.

ART. 3. The quarantine mentioned in the previous article will be performed at the lazaret of Flores Island, where all passenger ships must go.

ART. 4. Vessels which only carry cargo can perform cargo operations in all the ports of the Republic, if properly isolated and if they are under the supervision of sanitary guards. They will be admitted to pratique when their period of quarantine is concluded and when they have been properly disinfected.

ART. 5. The introduction of the *articles mentioned in Article 6 of Ordinance No. 32 is prohibited.

ART. 6. This Ordinance shall apply to vessels which have left Argentine ports from the above date.

P. FERNANDEZ ESPIRO, President.

AUGUSTE TURENNE, Secretary.

* These are :—Fresh hides, fresh animal remains, wool, bristles, feathers, personal effects, rags of all sorts, and textile fabrics, provided that the disinfection of the same is not possible.
