

| Regimental No. | Rank and file.  | Particulars.   | By whom mentioned.  | Remarks. |
|----------------|---|--|---|----------|
| ..             | DRISCOLL'S SCOUTS.Serjeant Pogson ..  | On 27th February ably assisted his Officer during Boer attack on a post near Kroonstad, which lasted from morning till midnight.   | General Tucker's special despatch, dated 9th April, 1901.     |          |
| 5578           | 3RD BN. ROYAL WARWICKSHIRE REGIMENT (MOUNTED INFANTRY).Serjeant Barfield .. | Near Vet River, Orange River Colony, on 7th April, 1901, with only a native scout, pursued six armed Boers and rode down one, and shot him when he refused to surrender. He behaved with great dash.   | Ditto.  |          |
| 5109           | HAMPSHIRE REGIMENT (7TH MOUNTED INFANTRY).Corporal E. White                 | Near Colcolan, Orange River Colony, a man sent forward to reconnoitre having been dismounted and Boers coming down to take him, Corporal White galloped out $\frac{1}{2}$ mile to him. Whilst getting him on his horse he was himself shot through the stomach. His action, however, kept enemy off, and both were got in later.                             | General C. Knox's special despatch April 9th, 1901.           |          |
| 3118           | 4TH BN. KING'S OWN ROYAL LANCASTER REGIMENT.Serjeant Searson ..             | In Boer attack on Fish River Station, on 23rd February, 1901, the Officer in command having been wounded, this non-commissioned officer appears to have held out very well. He was three times called on under flag of truce to surrender.   | General Forestier-Walker's special despatch, 3rd April, 1901. |          |
| ..             | BRITISH SOUTH AFRICAN POLICE.Serjeant Barclay ..                            | During native rising near Fort Darwin, and force was obliged to withdraw, this non-commissioned officer was the last to retire, and by his coolness and good shooting kept the natives off. Captain Gibson, who was in command, states that he cannot speak too highly of this non-commissioned officer both on this occasion and during the rising in 1898. | Colonel Manners-Wood's despatch, 3rd April, 1901.             |          |
